ROOSEVELT AND HOOVER TO TALK OF DEBTS TODAY

Decision Is Vital to U. S. Taxpayers.

Italy Will Pay

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Nov. 21.—Meetings between representatives of the ministries of foreign affairs and finance to decide Italian policy in view of the approach of the day on which the next war debt payment to the United States must be made, ended today with a decision that Italy would pay its debts punctually.

It is expected, therefore, that no note on the war debts will be sent to Washington. Premier Mussolini approved this policy. It is pointed out that the next Italian debt payment, due Dec. 15, does not include any sum for principal, but only interest amounting to $1,245,437.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—The victor and the vanquished in the recent presidential election will sit down together in the Lincoln study of the White House tomorrow to discuss national policy on a question the solution of which will profoundly affect the welfare of this and succeeding generations of the American people.

The question is whether 11 billions of war debts and 10 billions of interest thereon due the United States in the next 58 years are to be paid by the taxpayers of the European nations, who borrowed the money, or by the taxpayers of America, who lent it.

President Hoover, it was learned tonight, will endeavor to persuade President Elect Roosevelt in this historic and unprecedented conference to join him in action looking to a revision of the war debt settlements.

Favors Reappointing Commission.

If unsuccessful in that undertaking, upon which Gov. Roosevelt has thrown cold water, the President, according to his closest advisers, will proceed independently to recommend to congress the re-creation of the war debt funding commission for the purpose of making new settlements with debtors that otherwise may be expected to default.

Inasmuch as the present congress is overwhelmingly opposed to revision of the settlements, the net result of such a step on the part of the President would be to leave the whole matter for the disposition of the new administration and the new congress after March 4.

While Mr. Hoover was collaborating with his advisers on the presentation of the problem in the conference tomorrow, Minister Ferdinand Veverka called at the state department and left with Secretary Henry L. Stimson a memorandum in which the Czechoslovak republic associates itself with Great Britain and France in asking a reconsideration of the debt settlements and a suspension of payments in the interim.

Million and a Half Due.

Czechoslovakia was obligated by its settlement to pay a total of $167,071,023 and so far has paid $18,304,173. A further payment of $1,500,000 on the principal is due Dec. 15, and this payment Czechoslovakia wants suspended pending negotiations on the reduction of the whole obligation.

A similar plea on the part of Poland, which owes 206 millions and is due to pay $3,300,000 interest next month, is being held in abeyance by Ambassador Tytus Filipowicz pending results of the White House conference.

Mr. Hoover spent nearly the whole afternoon in consultation with Secretary Stimson and Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills in preparation for the talk with Gov. Roosevelt. Mr. Mills brought with him an elaborate memorandum bristling with statistics on economic conditions in the debtor countries and reports on the capacity of the debtors to meet their payments on the debts.

Moley to Advise Roosevelt.

With Mr. Mills at his side the President will present the matter to Gov. Roosevelt, who will have at his elbow Prof. Raymond Moley of Columbia university, a member of the "brain trust" that accompanied the Democratic candidate on his campaign travels and helped him in the preparation of his speeches. No others, not even

HOUSE PASSES 17 MILLION COOK COUNTY RELIEF

Approves Sales Tax, 2 Other Bills.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson, Governor Elect Horner, Mayor Cermak of Chicago, and President Whealan of the Cook county board tonight saw the winning of a victory for the legislative program for the relief.

Sitting beside Speaker Shanahan in the house of representatives, they watched the passage of four bills by the two-thirds vote necessary to give them immediate effectiveness. Only a week ago two of these four bills subjected to a test were saved from defeat only by a postponement of further consideration.

But the "big four" were more than mere witnesses. They were active participants in an earlier conference of leaders of both chambers of the assembly with Chairman Edward L. Ryerson and other members of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. And it was that conference, it was conceded, that brought victory to the program.

These Bills Are Acted Upon.

The bills acted upon were the following:

The Igoe bill permitting Cook county to issue $17,000,000 of non-referendum bonds by resolution of the county board. Passed, 123 to 3.

The Meents bill authorizing county boards to issue relief bonds payable out of those counties' share of the state gasoline tax. Passed, 112 to 6.

The Tice bill authorizing a county sales tax of 1 per cent on all sales of tangible personal property except farm products or produce when sold by the producer, or motor fuel. Passed, 102 to 26.

Applause for Officials.

There was applause the moment Gov. Emmerson and Judge Horner appeared together at the door of the representatives' hall, and every one, including those in the galleries, was on his feet as they walked up the steps to the platform and took two chairs at the speaker's left. And there was further applause as Mayor Cermak and President Whealan followed them, Cermak to a chair at the speaker's right and Whealan to the leather seat against the wall.

A buzz of comment about the friendliness apparent between the Republican governor and his Democratic successor followed immediately, but their first meeting at the conference in the speaker's office, which began an hour earlier, was marked by signs of even a greater warmth of feeling resulting from years of acquaintanceship approaching close friendship.

Horner Meets Emmerson.

Judge Horner came here at Gov. Emmerson's invitation to look over the preliminary drafts of department estimates for the new biennial budget which is to go to the new assembly soon after it convenes on Jan. 5. No meeting had been arranged until evening, but when Judge Horner drove in from French Lick, Ind., late in the afternoon and was urged to attend the conference in the statehouse he accepted and was on hand to exchange compliments with Gov. Emmerson when the latter arrived.

The room was crowded as Speaker Shanahan called the conference to order and for some time neither of the most distinguished of the visitors was asked to take part in the discussion. Mayor Cermak at once swung the talk to the opposition to the program voiced by Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg last week, a protest against an increase in real estate by the Igoe bill and a possible increase through the Meents bill.

Calls Program Necessary.

"The entire program is necessary," said the Chicago mayor. "I was advised by the bankers before I left to come here today that they could not buy any bonds and that it is up to the charitable people of Chicago. I am as much opposed as any man to an increase in the taxes on real estate, but if it has to be done there should be no hesitation about doing it."

"No man can say that there is any part of this program that will not be needed," said Gov. Emmerson. "We must not feel that the necessity for relief is going to pass in the next sixty days. We must meet that necessity by action now."

"This program places the responsi-

BOY, 4, RESCUED; LOST THREE DAYS IN THE DESERT

Gila Bend, Ariz., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Tired, hungry and thirsty, but otherwise apparently none the worse for three days of desert wandering, 4 year old Bud Fisher, missing since Friday, was found asleep this afternoon in a dry, sandy wash 15 miles from here.

He had wandered Friday from the camp of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fisher of San Antonio, Tex., when they halted on the outskirts of Gila Bend, en route to Los Angeles.

An Apache Indian tracker picked up the trail after bloodhounds had failed. Sheriff J. R. McFadden, a deputy and two cowboys, spurring ahead in the direction indicated by the scout, found the boy, after three days of search, in which range riders from nearby ranches, most of the adult population of Gila Bend, and an airplane aided.

The child had worn the soles from his shoes and had thrown them away. He said he was not frightened and still was trying to find the place he had left his parents when he went to sleep today.

"I didn't even cry," he told the sheriff.

WORKER BURIED IN WHEAT DIES AS RESCUERS LABOR

Firemen worked frantically yesterday in an attempt to rescue Bruno Kledwzycki, 42 years old, 5442 South Spaulding avenue, a laborer who was buried under an avalanche of 30,000 bushels of wheat in a tank at the Albert Dickinson Feed company, 2750 West 35th street. When they had shoveled the wheat off the buried workman he was dead.

Kledwzycki was engaged in shoveling wheat from one side of a tank to the other so it could be carried away by the suction apparatus. An unexpected flow of wheat from above knocked him down into a pit, the grain flowing down upon him like an avalanche. Fellow workmen threw him a rope before he was completely submerged, but he failed to grasp it.

The fire department was called and Chief Thomas Cline of the 21st battalion and his men responded, with Rescue Squad No. 7. The suction apparatus was put to work while the firemen dug with shovels to reach the buried worker, but they were too late.

Dr. Lowell found Harvard a comparatively small institution of 3,88[illegible] students and an endowment of only $22,716,759 when he took office on May 19, 1909, as 24th in the line of presidents of this country's oldest college. He will leave it with more than 8,000 students and the largest endowment of any institution of higher learning in America, $123,415,390.

No Reason Given for Resigning.

No reason was given for Dr. Lowell's resignation in a tersely worded announcement. Attention was called, however, to the fact that he will be 76 years old within a month and that it long has been known he desired to continue to hold office only until the recently created house plan was in smooth operation.

The fellows of the college and the members of the board of overseers to whom Dr. Lowell submitted his resignation accepted it with regret. They took no action with regard to appointment of a successor, and, while the president specified his resignation would be effective when his successor was ready to assume his duties, it was known the president would prefer to continue until near the end of the present academic year.

Lowell has served longer than any other president in the history of Harvard with two exceptions, one of them his immediate precedessor, Charles William Eliot, who headed Harvard for 40 years.

Capstone of His Career.

The house plan, which the president is known to have regarded as the capstone of his long career, was the most revolutionary of his administration and was brought to fruition only through the generosity of Edward S. Larkness, New York philanthropist, who gave $11,000,000 to build the necessary houses.

The plan, first outlined in 1926, has realigned existing social life at Harvard by subdividing Harvard college into seven smaller units or houses, an adaptation of continental practice which has stirred American higher educational circles and has already been adopted in principle by Yale university.

Students are grouped in dormitories or houses by cross-sections of interest. House life centers about common rooms and dining halls.

Thomas, Socialist, 616,185.

THEY DON'T PUT UP WITH THIS AT STATEVILLE

An enterprising prisoner at the Stateville penitentiary, Joliet, who was sentenced from Chicago for confidence game, rested in solitary confinement last night because he had carried on his swindling operations inside the prison walls.

The prison authorities declined to divulge the identity of the swindler. He was employed, however, in the officers' kitchen. It was through this position that he duped 20 or more of his fellow convicts. He offered to feed them all they could eat—steaks, chicken, roasts, and other tasty viands—until Jan. 1. The fee was $20.

His method was to forge merit tickets which are occasionally issued to some prisoners entitling them to better meals than are served to the rank and file. The scheme worked for nearly two weeks. It was discovered Sunday when a convict who was unable to pay the $20 fee informed the authorities.

Now the select prisoners who were benefiting by the arrangement want their money back. The difficulty is, however, that the slicker sent it out of the prison to relatives as soon as he got it. Among those who contributed, it was reported, were Nathan Leopold Jr., one of the Franks boy's slayers, and John Esser of Aurora and Walter Rippberger of Elgin, former bankers, who are serving terms for embezzlement.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—A report that James Walker, former mayor of New York, is slated for the position of general American sales director for German breweries engaged in exporting beer provoked mild amusement in brewery circles here. At Munich it was stated that no such appointment is under consideration and that there have been no negotiations with the former mayor to discover whether he is available for such a job.

Robins Regains Memory and Talks to Wife

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Raymond Robins regained his memory today sufficiently to recognize his wife, Mrs. Margaret Dreier Robins. Robins was listed as missing for two and a half months until he was located in a remote mountain village last week.

Twice prior to today Mrs. Robins had visited the man who had been identified as her husband, but who had insisted he was Reynolds H. Rogers, a mining engineer from Kentucky.

The first time, he told Dr. Mark A. Griffin, in her presence, "I don't know the lady." Dr. Griffin said that today Mr. Robins, a patient at his institution, did not at once recognize the woman he married 27 years ago. After some effort, however, he did, calling her Margaret.

"Mrs. Robins was asked by Dr. Griffin to come to the hospital at about 3 o'clock this afternoon to visit Mr. Robins.

Mind Seems Less Clear.

"Dr. Griffin reported that he had interviewed Mr. Robins for more than two hours this morning and that the patient had seemed less clear in his mind than on the day before. He had complained of the 'darkness' crowding in on him when he tried to remember things.

"During the early afternoon Mr. Robins had a short visit with a friend, M. A. White [a federal prohibition agent], whom he had met while still in Whittier.

"Dr. Griffin entered Mr. Robins' room and announced the arrival of Mrs. Robins. He remained in the room while Mrs. Robins entered. Mr. Robins seemed to be undergoing a great strain. Mrs. Robins said 'He did not look anywhere near so well as the day before—really desperately ill.'

"The doctor then left Mr. Robins and Mrs. Robins alone together for a short while, but the former called him back into the room in a very few minutes and asked him to stay with him.

"He had not yet been able to recognize his wife. Mr. Robins sat in a chair and, turning to Dr. Griffin, asked: 'Do you say this is my wife?'

"He obviously was suffering from a strain. Dr. Griffin answered in the affirmative and there was silence for half a minute."

Admits His Real Name.

The nephew's report continues:

"After exchanging greetings, Mr. Robins turned to the doctor and said: 'Doctor, I am Raymond Robins and this is my wife, Margaret Dreier Robins.'

"Calling in Mr. White, who was in the hall, Mr. Robins repeated the double introduction.

"Within a few minutes thereafter, his nephew, John Dreier, came into the room at Mr. Robins' request.

"'Mr. Robins greeted me by name as I entered the room,' Dreier said. 'There was a new life and strength in his features which made him Raymond Robins once again in spite of the beard which still partly covered his face.'

"Mr. Robins then asked to be left alone with his wife, and they remained together for an hour or so. At about 5 o'clock Mr. Robins was shaved and got into his regular clothes.

ALIENISTS QUIZ YOUNG ARNOLD IN HOTEL ROOM

Jury Orders Youth Held for Murder.

A coroner's jury returned a murder verdict last evening against Bertrand Arnold, 16 year old Riverside high school student, the confessed slayer of his stepmother's mother, Mrs. Ellen Saxe, 60 years old, the woman who filled a grandmother's place in his life. The boy's own mother is dead.

The jury reached the verdict at 5:45 p. m., having spent the afternoon hearing Bert's schoolmates, the boys and girls of suburban Riverside, describe how well he concealed his dreadful secret at a church dance last Friday night after he had beaten Mrs. Saxe to death in the Arnold home, 264 Shenstone road, Riverside, and dropped her body into a cistern.

Hides Face in Coat.

The boy buried his pallid face in the sheepskin collar of his coat and lowered his troubled eyes as Deputy Coroner Abe Margolis read aloud the jury's recommendation that he be held to the grand jury on a murder charge "until released by due process of law." Within an hour lawyers retained by his family were shaping an insanity defense.

At the suggestion of his father, C. B. Arnold, president of Seymour & Peck, woodenware manufacturers, Bert was taken from the scene of the inquest to a room in the Hotel Sherman instead of to a cell in the county jail. There he spent the night guarded by two policemen.

Psychiatrists Examine Boy.

Upon reaching the hotel the boy was served a dinner of soup, roast lamb and pumpkin pie, his guards remarking at his hearty appetite. Then for the next four hours the guards were excluded while Bert discussed his inner life with four psychiatrists, Dr. H. Douglas Singer, Dr. Francis J. Gerty, Dr. Harry Hoffman and Dr. James Whitney Hall. The first three were engaged to represent the state, while Dr. Hall had been retained by the Arnold family.

At 11 p. m. the psychiatrists left the room and were surrounded by reporters in the corridor. Each affirmed that no conclusion had yet been reached as to the boy's mental state. The three state alienists said they would again examine Bert this morning and expected to submit an opinion to the state's attorney's office tomorrow. By that time, it was expected, Bert would have been transferred from the hotel either to the county jail or the juvenile detention home.

Await Alienists' Decision.

Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Bitchburne and Thomas Johnson, who have been directing the investigation of Mrs. Saxe's death thus far, announced they would abide by the decision of the three state alienists as to Bert's sanity, regardless of the outcome. In the event the alienists hold the boy is legally incapable of distinguishing between right and wrong, it was said, he would be taken immediately to the County court and there committed to an asylum, thus escaping the ordeal of a criminal trial.

While no statement was made as to the results of the examination, it was reported that during the tests the alienists disagreed as to the boy's capacity to distinguish between right and wrong. In his mental processes, it was said, the four experts were agreed that he was neither dull nor precocious, but of average intelligence for his age.

Motive for Slaying.

It was with reference to the motive for the slaying that the differences arose, according to the reports. One or more of the alienists, it was said, expressed skepticism of the motive he advanced in his confession, namely, that he had asked for the car, which his father had forbidden him to use and, when Mrs. Saxe slapped him for his impudence, he had picked up a hammer and beat her to death.

The text of this confession, as made to State's Attorney Ralph Eaton at Mount Carroll, Ill., following his capture Sunday, and as read into the record at the inquest, was as follows:

"I make this statement voluntarily. I have not been forced or under duress. I have not been promised any favor or immunity. I realize this statement may be used against me.

"On Friday, Nov. 12, 1932, I asked my grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Saxe, to use her car and she slapped me. A hammer was lying on the table and I picked it up and struck her on the ear. I hit her several times, as I had gone mad.

Drags Body to Cistern.

"She was still breathing as I stretched her on the floor. I put a rope around her and dragged her out the kitchen door to the cistern. I then got some clothes and tried to eradicate the stains. Then I got in the car and drove away."

This statement does not constitute Bert's original confession, it was learned. Upon arriving at the Mount Carroll courthouse from Stockton, Ill., where he was captured in a lunchroom, Bert gave Prosecutor Eaton a lengthier confession, which was vague as to motive.

Pressed for an explanation of his act the boy, in that confession took refuge in the claim that his mind "went blank." Moreover, his father had learned of his capture by that time and had retained a lawyer of the vicinity, John P. Devine of Dixon, who reached the Mount Carroll prosecutor's office soon after and talked to the boy in private before Prosecutors Ditchburne and Johnson arrived.

Destroy First Confession.

Shortly after the first confession was destroyed and the second one drawn up the Cook county prosecutors brought this one to Riverside with the prisoner. The boy, himself, repudiated an important point under questioning by Frank J. Corr, attorney for Coroner Walsh, who insisted on questioning him over objections of the state's attorney's office.

Q.—Now, Bert, did you ever have any trouble with your grandmother?

Q.—And your father had forbidden you to drive a car? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And he required you to be in the house at a certain time each night—you resented that? A.—Yes. I had to be in always at 11:30. It seemed like every one else stayed out later.

Q.—Now you say that when you asked your grandmother for the car she slapped you? A.—Well, no, she didn't exactly slap me. She sort of touched me. No, she didn't slap me.

Prosecutors Ditchburne and Johnson were reported highly irritated, both at State's Attorney Eaton's permitting Attorney Devine to see the boy before they had and at what they regarded as a usurpation of their duties by the coroner's attorney. Mr. Corr Prosecutor Johnson admitted the situation, as it stood, was far from satisfactory from a prosecution standpoint.

Evidence of Attack.

In this connection it was recalled that after discovery of Mrs. Saxe's body the coroner's physicians had discovered evidence tending to show that Mrs. Saxe had been attacked and had submitted this evidence to Dr. Clarence Muehlberger, chemist at the Northwestern university crime laboratory. Mr. Johnson said no report had been received from Dr. Muehlberger last night, adding that when it was received he would make it part of the record.

Bert was the last witness called at the inquest, which was held in Riverside village hall. With trembling lips he gave his name, age and address. Before the next question could be put his attorney, David Jacker of the firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, stood up.

Sinks Back in Chair.

"I have advised my client not to testify at this proceeding," the lawyer announced. Bert sank back in his chair.

Within a few minutes the jury retired. The verdict, returned after half an hour of deliberation, was as follows:

"We the jury find that the deceased, Mrs. Ellen Saxe, came to her death in the living room of the Arnold home, 264 Shenstone road, Riverside, of a skull fracture and lacerations received by said deceased when she was struck on the head with a hammer held in the hand of one Charles Bertrand Arnold.

"From the testimony presented we the jury find this accused to be the murderer and recommend that said accused be held to the grand jury until released by due process of law."

MRS. SAXE BURIED; DAUGHTER IS NEAR COLLAPSE AT GRAVE

No allusion to the violent manner in which Mrs. Ellen Saxe met her death was made yesterday at the funeral services in the Emmanuel Episcopal church, 216 South Catherine avenue, La Grange. The rites were attended by several hundred persons. The formal service was read by the Very Rev. Irvine Goddard, rector of the church. Meanwhile a large American flag flew at half mast in the Riverside community park.

Baskets and wreaths of flowers filled the church with the pungent odor of chrysanthemums and the organ pealed softly as the gray casket containing the body of the slain grandmother, carried by pallbearers, was met by the minister with the words, "I am the resurrection and the life."

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Arnold, son-in-law and daughter of Mrs. Saxe, followed by Philip Saxe, crippled son of the dead woman, entered the church by a rear entrance and left the same way to elude photographers. The casket, bearing a single sheaf of chrysanthemums, was borne from the church by Clark Warren, La Grange; Alfred Walter, Downers Grove; Benjamin Anderson Sr., La Grange; Robert Spalding, La Grange; George Overton, and Richard Wiley, all friends of the family.

Just as the minister repeated the last words of the burial service at the grave in the La Grange cemetery and before the body was lowered into the ground Mrs. Arnold, white and drawn, sank faintingly back against her husband and was hurried from the cemetery. Mrs. Saxe was buried by the side of her husband, Charles Philip Saxe, La Grange resident and steel company executive, who died in 1909.

SCHOOLMATES AT INQUEST

The inquest room was crowded with several scores of Bert's schoolmates, girls with school books under their arms and boys in jaunty beret caps.

With the sophistication of youth, they were making small wagers on the verdict as the inquest came to a close. For the most part, however, the youngsters avoided the occasionally furtive glances their former chum shot at them.

Chum Is First Witness.

Bert's closest chum, Edwin Collis, 134 Herrick road, Riverside, a rather handsome lad with more than the average intelligence of a boy of 16, was the first witness called. Bert dropped his eyes and clasped his hands as his schoolmate began to testify.

Q.—Did you know Mrs. Saxe? A.—Yes, sir, slightly. She was secretary of the board of education when I was in grammar school.

Q.—Did you see her last Friday? A.—No, sir, but I saw Bert that afternoon. We were at a football game and stayed until 4:30 p. m.

Q.—What happened after that? A.—Bert and I went back to school to put our stuff in our lockers. Then we went to my house, arriving about 5:30 p. m. I had asked Bert to have dinner with me.

Q.—And did he? A.—Yes, sir; at least part of a dinner. But before sitting down at the table we went into the basement and I showed him a shotgun I was going to use next day on a hunting trip with my father. Then we went to the bathroom, and to my room, where we each had a smoke. I showed him my airgun, and he asked to borrow it. I asked why, and Bert said he wanted to use it for some target practice, and also to shoot some cats which were keeping him awake at night.

Bert's Actions at Dinner.

The boy's clear and direct answers, building up the story preceding the murder, was absorbing to every witness in the chamber, trivial as the details were. Deputy Coroner Margolis directed his attention to the dinner table.

Q.—You said Bert finished only part of the meal? A.—Yes, sir. The telephone rang and Bert got right up to answer. He seemed to know it would be for him, and he was right. I heard him say yes and no a few times on the phone; then he came back and excused himself. He said his father was alone at home and had called him to fix his supper. Then he left the house.

The deputy coroner had now brought the witness up to the approximate time of the murder. Coroner Walsh, sitting at Bert's right elbow, was absently dropping the blood flecked hammer into his palm as one would a gavel. Bert watched him, fascinated, and a tremor of horror passed across his face.

Hears from Bert Again.

"Well, you said he left your house—when did you next hear from Bert?" the deputy went on.

"It must have been about 7:15," young Collis replied. "He had promised to call for me in his grandmother's car and take me to a church dance. I called his home right after I finished dinner. He said he had fixed his father's ham and eggs. I asked him if he could get the car and he said yes, he could."

It was just before Collis made this call, the police now are certain, that Bert, as related in his confession, asked Mrs. Saxe for the car and, enraged at her refusal, struck the fatal blow with the hammer. Instead of preparing a meal for his father, who was in fact at a downtown Chicago theater with his stepmother, Bert was at this moment probably wiping the stains of Mrs. Saxe's blood from the living room floor. The questioning of Collis went on.

Q.—What did Bert say—did he appear nervous? A.—No, he said he would have the car and promised to be at my house at 8:15. I waited around for an hour and, when he didn't show up promptly, I called his home again. This time there was no answer.

Bert Drives Up in Car.

Q.—Did that excite your suspicions? A.—Why, no, of course not. Bert drove up a couple of minutes later, almost as soon as I hung up the phone. I thought no more about it.

Q.—What happened after that? A.—We started for the dance at St. Paul's church. We stopped for cigarets and called at Bill Smith's house to pick him up. Bert remarked that the gas was running low. We stopped at a filling station and got five gallons. Bert paid with a two dollar bill.

Coroner Walsh had tired of toying with the hammer now and laid it down beside his elbow. Bert hunched back in his chair, taking a position where the coroner's bulky shoulder would block his sight of the tool to which his eyes seemed irresistibly drawn. The questioning went on.

Q.—Anything unusual happen on the way to the church? A.—Why yes. We stopped in Berwyn to pick up another chap, Norton Jonathan. We got no answer to the doorbell, so we tapped on the window pane. A dog started to howl and I noticed Bert shivering a little. He wondered why the dog was howling and said it sounded kind of funny.

Appears Without a Hat.

Q.—Yes, anything else? A.—Well, about Bert's clothes. I wasn't surprised to see him without a hat, but I noticed he had changed his suit while he was home. Also his hands were grimy, as if he had been clawing in the dirt. It looked pretty funny on a fellow starting for a dance.

Q.—You got to the dance all right? A.—Yes sir, we pulled up and parked across the street about 9:15. I went in alone. Bert wanted to drive around awhile. I saw him later in the hall and saw him dance a couple of times with one girl. He was to pick me up when the dance was over, but when I looked around for him he was gone. So I went home alone.

Coroner Walsh took up the questioning. Was there any liquor in the car or at the dance. The boy said no. Was there anything else peculiar in Bert's conduct?

"One other thing," young Collis replied. "It was a cold night, but Bert had all the windows open. He seemed to want a lot of fresh air. But when I told him I was cold he turned them up immediately."

Another Chum on Stand.

Bill Smith, another of the boys whom Bert took to the dance, was the next witness. Smith, a lad about the age of Collis, was a little less ready with his answers. He said he lived at 3862 South Woodside avenue, Hollywood, and had known Mrs. Saxe when she was secretary of the board of education.

Q.—You went to the dance with the others? A.—Yes, Bert danced a couple of times with my sister, Frances. Then he said he wanted some fresh air. He asked me to go for a drive with him.

Q.—Did you go to Bert's home or anywhere near it? A.—We drove around different streets. The nearest we came to the Arnold house was about two blocks. He took another street on the way back. He seemed to want to keep away from there.

Q.—Was anything said about the car? A.—I asked him how he got it, but he didn't answer. I told him I thought it was a nice dance. He said, 'Yes, a nice dance,' but he didn't seem much enthused.

Smith's sister, Frances, a pretty girl of 16, was also called. She testified briefly to having danced with him at the church hall and said she observed nothing unusual in his conduct.

"There was no sign of his being under the influence of drink," said the girl. "He seemed perfectly normal. I don't think he even had a drink. The only thing I remember was inviting him to have dinner with us Saturday night. He said he would."

Young Jonathan Testifies.

The testimony of Margaret Boudrye, the girl who accompanied young Arnold and Norton Jonathan to the church dance, was brief. She was wearing a red coat and red tam and appeared a bit unsteady during her moment in the public eye.

Norton was her escort, she explained. He and Bert arrived at her home soon after 9 o'clock, riding in Mrs. Saxe's car. They reached the dance at 9:15, she said, and during the ride the Arnold boy seemed normal and not at all nervous.

They remarked about Bert's luck in getting the use of the car, Margaret declared, but no questions were asked.

Bert was afraid to go home alone after the dance, another witness brought out. Norton Jonathan, 3112 Wisconsin avenue, Berwyn, was on the stand.

Q.—Did you know anything of Bert's home life? A.—No, sir. I used to chum around with him, but he never disclosed his family. I didn't even know he had a stepmother or a half brother and half sister.

Q.—What happened the night of the dance? A.—I was counting on him to drive me there. I had driven him to a couple of hops, but I didn't think his father would let him have the car. I was surprised when he came around with the car.

Q.—Did you notice any unusual conduct on his part? A.—Well, when he stopped to pick me up he asked me and my brother to go home with him after the dance and spend the night with him. I said my dad wouldn't let us do it. That was all.

After Jonathan had testified Bert was called to the stand, but did not testify. When he had been dismissed the coroner's jury retired for its deliberations.

Returns to Riverside.

Bert was brought back to Riverside at 4 a. m. yesterday. A score of residents, including some of his classmates, were awaiting his arrival at the village hall. He emerged from the car smiling. He had not been shackled.

In the office of Police Chief Clarence Neuschaefer he posed for pictures willingly. Within a little while his parents reached the station and stood, dry eyed, for a moment as they confronted the boy.

Mrs. Arnold, whose mother he had killed, held out her arms to her stepson. Bert walked straight into her embrace and began to sob. "I'm sorry, ma." The father also threw an arm around the youngster's shoulder.

A sterner attitude was assumed by another member of the family, Mrs. Saxe's paralyzed son, Philip Saxe, a brother of Mrs. Arnold. Before the boy was captured he had said: "Bring that fellow back alive; he must be punished for this crime."

ROUTS PAIR OF BANDITS.

GUNMEN BOARD CAR, SHOOT PAIR LURED BY CALL

Two alleged hoodlums were shot by two gunmen who boarded their car last night. The victims are Edward Stodolny, 20 years old, of 1886 West 45th street, and Matthew Majeski, 27 years old, of 4715 Elizabeth street. They were dining in a restaurant at 47th street and Marshfield avenue when they received a telephone call there to "meet Bill at 47th and Western." The message was taken by Michael Foley, of 4624 South Ashland avenue, and repeated to them.

The pair left immediately. At 47th street and Western avenue two gunmen boarded their car. The strangers ordered Majeski and Stodolny to drive north. In front of 4428 South Western avenue, the gunmen, who were sitting in the rear seat of the car, opened fire on their victims, and then fled. Majeski was struck in the body and seriously wounded. Stodolny suffered a neck wound.

Despite his wound, Stodolny drove his companion and himself to the German Deaconess hospital, where he later told police of the shooting. He did not recognize the gunmen, he said, nor know their motive. Sergt. John Baker said that both men were probably involved in some minor gun dispute.

VARECHA PLEADS NOT GUILTY ON MURDER CHARGE

CRIMINAL COURT.

Jesse Clark, rape, sentenced to 5 years in the penitentiary; Paul Stockey and Joseph Ptasek, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Michael Feinberg.

James [Iggy] Varecha, 17 years old, confessed killer, rapist and robber, was arraigned yesterday before Chief Justice John Prystalski in the Criminal court on the charge of slaying Frank F. Jordan, who was shot to death last Wednesday during an attempted robbery on the south side. The escaped inmate of a home for mental defectives maintained his air of bravado as he stepped before the bench and entered a plea of not guilty.

The legal machinery of Cook county moved swiftly yesterday against Varecha, who confessed on Sunday night to the murder of Jordan and the subsequent kidnaping and rape of Miss Lillian Henry, niece of Deputy Police Commissioner John H. Alcock.

Indicted on Murder Charge.

Prosecutors Walker Butler and Frank Sims went before the grand jury yesterday morning with witnesses and obtained indictments charging murder, robbery, and assault to kill. The indictments were returned shortly before noon and the arraignment on the murder charge followed two hours later. No attempt was made to obtain an indictment on the rape charge, as Miss Henry had not signed a statement and was too ill to appear.

The robbery indictment grew out of the holdup of James Guisinger, companion of Miss Henry at the time that Varecha entered their automobile. He was indicted for an assault to kill James T. McElligott, 642 East avenue, Oak Park, who was shot a week ago when he resisted Varecha's attempt to rob him and a woman companion at 65th and Mozart streets.

Varecha included the confession of the shooting of McElligott in his statement to police which followed his arrest on Saturday in a South State street burlesque theater.

Spectators Jam Court.

A crowd of spectators jammed the courtroom of Judge Prystalski when Prosecutor Butler shouldered through the gathering with Varecha, who was handcuffed to detectives.

"Come on, Iggy," Butler urged the prisoner as they neared the bench. The murder indictment was read by the clerk of the court and Varecha said he would plead "not guilty."

"Have you a lawyer?" Judge Prystalski asked.

"No," Varecha replied.

A question by the judge as to the presence of relatives of the prisoner brought the information that Varecha's brother, Frank, was in custody of police in the back room. Varecha, in his confession, said his brother had taken the revolver used in slaying Jordan and destroyed it in an effort to shield the killer. Frank was led up to the bench.

Brother Is Questioned.

"Are you going to get a lawyer for the defendant?" Judge Prystalski asked him.

"Can the family get any money?" Judge Prystalski asked.

"No, sir," the defendant said.

Public Defender Wilbur Crowley was summoned by the court and ordered to confer with Varecha and to reappear for another hearing tomorrow.

"The state is ready for immediate trial," Prosecutor Butler said. "We demand the earliest possible hearing allowed by law and will brook no continuances."

Chief of Detectives Schoemaker requested that Varecha be left in his custody for another day. Judge Prystalski said that the court could not legally enter such an order and Chief Schoemaker left the court with the assurance of Sheriff Meyering that he would cooperate with the police.

Asked why he had entered a plea of not guilty after signing a confession to the crime, Varecha said that he "did that so he could have time to find out what it was all about."

"Are you going to repudiate your confession?" he was asked.

"Oh, don't say that," Varecha said. "Is your confession true or not?" he was asked.

"It's true," he said. "The plea don't mean anything. I just wanted time."

Varecha was held without bail on the murder charge by the grand jury and bond of $50,000 was set on each of the other charges.

Theater Manager Arrested.

Sol Fichtenberg, manager of the burlesque house at 536 South State street, where Varecha was captured, was arrested yesterday after Robert De Mille, former usher at the theater, had told the police this story:

"I was fired because I turned Varecha up," De Mille said. "Several days ago I told the manager that Varecha had been hanging around the theater for some time. He ordered me out of his office and told me to keep my mouth shut." Fichtenberg was seized at the theater and taken to the bureau for questioning. He asserted that he discharged De Mille for other reasons, but police held him for further questioning.

After the arraignment of young Varecha police turned to questioning his brother, Frank. The latter admitted that he had disposed of his brother's gun. He said he had wrapped it in a brown paper bag and thrown it into a sewer at 49th and Paulina streets. The sewer was searched and a bag was found, but the gun was not. Frank was ordered held for further questioning concerning the disposal of the gun.

Dreamy Apathy of Arnold Youth Mystery to Police

"Where are my magazines? I want something to read!"

This querulous complaint from Bert Arnold, 18 year old slayer, voiced first after he had confessed his crime Sunday afternoon, repeated during the wild ride from Mount Carroll to Riverside yesterday morning and again yesterday as he was hustled about the city, seemed to offer a clew to his mentality.

Rarely did the pallid boy emerge from the dreamy apathy which enveloped him during the first 24 hours he was in custody. The attempts of the men about him to become friendly were met with feeble smiles. He puffed an occasional cigaret languidly. His dark brown eyes lacked luster.

Allow Boy to Relax.

After he had signed his brief confession in the Mount Carroll courthouse his captors allowed him to relax. They asked him if he wanted anything. He requested "a couple of magazines, sport stuff or aviation." The magazines were purchased, but they were not given him because of the arrival of the authorities from Chicago. This failure to provide him with reading matter was a grievance which aroused the boy from his mental slumbers whenever he recalled it.

This, then, is a boy, the observers conjectured, who loves to lose himself in cheap fiction; whose not too acute mind is prone to dreams and vagaries. But it does not solve the problem, they admitted, of what aroused that mind to such a sudden pitch of fury last Friday night.

A reporter sat down and talked with Arnold at a stop for coffee and sandwiches near Dixon yesterday morning on the ride back to Riverside.

Slightly Sallow Complexion.

The boy is slight but well formed. He is small, appearing tiny huddled between two stolid policemen. His hair is brown-black and smooth. It is parted on the left side and a mop of it hangs over his right brow. His skin is creamy, slightly sallow. His brow bulges slightly. His chin is firm, his lips full, his teeth small and even.

His head is sunk between the turned-up collar of his leather jacket. When addressed he lifts his eyes for a moment and then drops them. His gray suit fits him well. His shoes are scuffed from much walking in the last two days.

"How was it, kid, during that time when you were being sought?" he is asked.

His brown eyes scan the face of the questioner. He sinks his head deeper in his coat collar. He meditates. Then, in a self-conscious half whisper comes the melodramatic answer:

"It was two days of concentrated hell."

The Hero of a Story.

It is the dreamer, the poseur talking. He is a hero in one of the cheap magazines he loves to read. He is speaking like a character in one of those magazines. He has dramatized himself so that the consciousness of his crime doesn't register on his mind. He does not seem to realize that he is the murderer of a helpless old woman. He remembers only that his name is in all the newspapers and on everybody's tongue.

Bert Arnold is not like any youthful murderer of recent years. Varner Corry, the 15 year old boy who shot and killed a Chicago policeman, was phlegmatic, impassive. Harry Hill, tried a few years ago for killing his mother and burying her in a basement, was insolent, nerveless. Bert Arnold sees himself stalking through the pages of an adventure story magazine.

Teachers' Opinions Divided.

Bert's teachers are divided in opinion about him. His French instructress reveals that when she marked the youth's French paper with a low mark one day he scribbled an insulting opinion of her intelligence on the paper and handed it to her. On the other hand, Merrill Lott, the chemistry teacher, announces that he "liked Bert immensely."

But the students are agreed that Bert lived a hard life.

"He had to be home at 9 o'clock almost every night," they declare, indignantly.

SUES TO FORCE YOUTH TO OWN HER AS MOTHER

Matron's Claim, $400,000 Fortune Spurned.

New York, Nov. 21.—[Special.]—A controversy between Mrs. Margaret Westover Gillen, wealthy Philadelphia matron, and Gordon Spence, 19 year old student at the Choate school in Wallingford, Conn., over the youth's parentage promised today to become one of the most unusual court actions on record.

Mrs. Gillen insists that young Spence, an adopted son of the late Miss June Spence, founder of the fashionable Spence School for Girls, is really her own boy. And she wants him to share a $400,000 legacy she inherited six months ago.

But Gordon Spence said today that Mrs. Gillen is not his mother and that he wants no part of her fortune.

Two Fold Legal Action.

Despite the youth's protests, the Philadelphia woman has engaged attorneys and will go into court here, she says, with a two-fold legal action:

1. She will seek to take Gordon Spence from his present guardian, Miss Charlotte Baker of 430 Park avenue, who was a business associate of Miss Spence.

2. She will make Gordon accept part of the $400,000 she inherited from the estate of her grandfather, the late Judge H. P. Simmons of Passaic, N. J.

"I won't do it!" the boy declared, when told Mrs. Gillen's plans. "I do not want her to claim me and I don't want a dollar of her money.

"Mrs. Gillen isn't my mother. I know who my mother is. I have all the money I need right now.

Given Away As Child.

"I am going to Columbia next year," he said, "so I can live at Miss Baker's. Mrs. Gillen has offered to send me to college, but I've already made my plans, thanks."

"Gordon is my son, despite what he says," Mrs. Gillen declared in her Philadelphia home. "I gave him to Miss Spence, who had been my school teacher, when he was only two years old. I was divorcing my first husband, Hunter Chavis, at that time and I couldn't afford to keep the boy. Miss Spence adopted him without my consent and would not return him to me later.

"I shall fight in the courts to regain Gordon."

At Miss Baker's apartment, her companion, Miss Cora Studley, had only this to say:

"Mrs. Gillen is not Gordon's mother. We shall resist legally all efforts she makes to claim him as her son."

FILM OPERATORS VOTE "FAITH" IN UNION'S CHIEFS

An expression of confidence in the officers of the Chicago Moving Picture Operators' union was given by nearly 500 operators at a special meeting which was held at the Capitol building early this morning.

Of those present 486 members signed sworn affidavits "reaffirming their faith" in the officers. Among the speakers were Thomas Maloy, so-called czar of the union; Ralph O'Hara, organizer; Attorney Michael Ahern, and a man identified only as Congressman Reid. Whether he was Congressman Frank Reid of Aurora was not learned.

Maloy said that the meeting was held solely for the purpose of discussing a federal court action against the union. On Saturday deputy marshals seized the union's records on strength of a writ issued by Federal Judge Wilkerson. The suit charges that the union's membership books are closed, that legitimate members are not given work, and that nonunion operators are given special permit cards. These "permit" workers must turn over some of their pay to the union, it is charged. A hearing is scheduled at the federal building today.

New York, Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Ugo Savolini, who plays the first bassoon in the Metropolitan Opera orchestra, ended his life by gas today. He was 60 years old and had become ill at a rehearsal on Nov. 9. A physician had advised him to cease his musical activities for a while. The opera opened tonight, but without Savolini.

5 Die in 4,000 Foot Plunge as Mountain Cars Crash

BRASOV, Rumania, Nov. 21.—(AP)—An engineer fainted in his control station today and two coaches of the mountain cable railway at Covasna ran wild, crashing in midair. Five passengers, two of them women, were flung out and fell to their deaths from a height of 4,000 feet.

ROOSEVELT IN GOTHAM ON WAY TO WASHINGTON

Visits Newest Grandson; Proceeds This Morning.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 21.—[Special.]—On the eve of his visit with President Hoover, the President elect, Franklin D. Roosevelt came to New York this evening, went to see his newest grandchild for the first time, had a long talk with the man who will succeed him as governor of New York, and went early to bed.

Gov. Roosevelt plans to spend most of his time tomorrow morning while on his special train en route to Washington holding a last conference with Prof. Raymond D. Moley, his chief economic adviser, who has been studying the war debts question. Prof. Moley, who has become an interesting figure in connection with the incoming administration, is 46 years old, an Ohio man who graduated at Baldwin-Wallace college and at Oberlin. He has been at Columbia university for nine years in the department of politics and government. He has given much time to the study of crime and the courts.

When the President elect arrives in Washington at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon he plans to go directly to the White House, and he will probably walk into the Lincoln study to commence the highly significant discussion at 4 o'clock.

Hopes to Meet Leaders, Too.

Gov. Roosevelt plans to stay in the national capital until 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. He will confer with as many of the Democratic congressional leaders as may be possible. He hopes to see particularly the Democratic members of the senate finance and house ways and means committees, who have been summoned to the White House for Wednesday morning.

Close advisers to Mr. Roosevelt were of the opinion that the President elect would in no way commit himself to any plan for disposition of the war debts issue, but that whatever action he thinks should be taken in the matter will be directed, in much more subtle fashion, through those Democratic leaders who will see President Hoover on Wednesday.

By having his action taken through the Democratic congressmen the President elect avoids putting himself openly on record and leaves the way clear to use the debts problem as a wedge in the negotiations his administration will be carrying on with the foreign governments after March 4 on the tariff revisions which weigh so heavily in Mr. Roosevelt's plan for a general economic recovery in the United States.

Visits Latest Grandson.

The President elect motored down the Hudson bank to New York City this afternoon from his home at Hyde Park, where he had spent the week-end. Going directly to the hospital in which his latest grandson was born, the firstborn of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, the governor was joined there by his wife and his daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall. Then he went to his town house in East 65th street, where he found Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who is also the governor elect, awaiting him. For an hour the two men went over the affairs of the state.

Since Gov. Roosevelt is to go to Warm Springs, Ga., his winter home, directly from Washington, and will stay there until Dec. 8 at least, it appears that Gov. Elect Lehman will, to all practical purposes, take over the governorship of New York tomorrow morning. Mr. Roosevelt's term expires Jan. 1.

The Roosevelt family, including the governor and Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Dall, and Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt, the governor's son and daughter-in-law, will feast upon Thanksgiving turkey at Warm Springs.

BRITAIN GIVES UP HOPE OF DODGING DEBT PAYMENT

Will Concentrate on Future Reduction.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Advices from Washington, D. C., have convinced the British that there is little hope for extension of the moratorium on the war debt to the United States, and Great Britain has made up its mind that it will have the pay the $95,550,000 installment due on Dec. 15.

There seems to be no question of default. The payment has been provided for by an accumulation of dollars in New York, although no provision was made for payment in the British budget.

This will necessitate a supplementary budget, which will not be popular in England, but indications now are that the people will swallow the dose, although with a wry face.

Seek Early Parley.

Britain will now concentrate on getting a discussion of the debts question at the earliest possible moment, and it is reported in well informed circles that it proposes to make an offer of a total payment in one lump sum.

The basis for this offer is the belief that the United States, with an unbalanced budget, might prefer to take a substantial sum in cash now, which might be devoted to carrying it over one or two bad budgetary years, to being paid in dribbets over sixty years.

It would suit Britain, too, to get the burden off its shoulders by one supreme effort for, hard as it might be, it is believed that by an effort parallel to that of wartime it might mobilize its resources and get the weight off its shoulders forever.

May Float Loan.

Alternatively, this might be accomplished by a huge emergency loan. The recent experience in the conversion of the British war loans to a lower rate of interest indicates that the combination of cheap money and a patriotic appeal might enable the loan to be placed at a minimum rate with the British people.

This, of course, would do away with the necessity of transferring a huge amount in gold, which has caused the present move to dodge national payments. Sterling payments by Britain to the British people would not cause a breakdown in international currency values.

It is not likely that the negotiations with the United States are far enough advanced to enable any plan to be outlined in the king's speech at the reopening of parliament tomorrow, but the cabinet has been busy considering plans and it is likely that some announcement will be made as soon as Washington makes the American position clear.

Rumors in financial circles here indicate a more serious cause of unrest for the British treasury. It is said that indications are that the yield of the income tax, owing to the decline in trade, is going to fall far below the amount budgeted for.

TRAVELERS' CHECKS COUNTERFEITED, SO LINE TO HALT SALE

New York, Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Cunard Steamship Company, Ltd., announced that it had discontinued the sale of travelers' checks and had notified its agents throughout the world to destroy all signatures and return checks in their possession to the central offices of the company.

Extensive counterfeiting of the checks, which led insurance companies to fix extremely high rates for the protection of the company, prompted the decision, it is said.

DRIVER KILLED WHEN HE CRANKS TRUCK IN GEAR

George Petrich, 30 years old, a Cleveland truck driver, last evening went to a garage at 2517 West Van Buren street to get his truck and trailer. When Petrich cranked the motor, overlooking the fact that the truck had been left in gear, the car moved forward and pinned him against the trailer, which had been placed in front of the truck. He was taken to the Washington Boulevard hospital, but he died soon afterward.

Douglas Glass, colored, 28 years old, 5719 South Michigan avenue, died yesterday in the county hospital of injuries incurred on Nov. 13, when the car in which he was a passenger collided with another at 64th and Sangamon streets. These two deaths raise the 1932 county motor toll to 1,007.

Gov. Roosevelt will be met at the railway station by the presidential secretary and escorted to the White House. The conference is expected to consume several hours. At its close there probably will be issued a joint statement of the President and President elect setting forth the results of the interchange.

In the evening the President elect will be a guest of the National Press club at a dinner. He will remain overnight in the capital and engage in conferences with Democratic leaders before leaving for Warm Springs, Ga., on Wednesday.

Matters other than the debts are likely to come up in the meeting of the incoming and outgoing executives. One is the international economic conference to be held within the next six months which both parties indorsed. It may devolve on Mr. Hoover to appoint the delegates. He will give Mr. Roosevelt the privilege of naming a majority of the delegation.

Mr. Hoover will endeavor to convince his successor that it is to the interest of America to revise the debt terms temporarily, at least. He is standing pat on his 1931 recommendation to congress of such action. At that time Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, now ambassador to Great Britain, issued a statement dilating upon the great hardship it will be for the British to make war debt payments at the decreased value of the pound sterling.

Mr. Mellon said that "to stand on the letter of our bond and to refuse to investigate or to consider the facts is to fail in our responsibility to the American people, whom we represent, and to the debtors whose capacity to pay we undertook to determine."

HITLER REJECTS HINDENBURG'S OFFER TO RULE

Nazi Objects to Terms; Door Still Open.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN, Nov. 21. — Adolf Hitler was headed for the chancellorship of Germany for a few hours today, but tonight his hopes of assuming control of the government are very dim.

The National Socialist [Nazi] leader is meeting with the strenuous resistance of Chancellor Franz von Papen's supporters—the Nationalists. Although they are not strong, they are so firmly organized that Hitler's chances are slim and he knows it.

In a letter which he dispatched to President von Hindenburg tonight the former Austrian house painter prepared for himself an exit by which he hopes to keep his followers true to him.

Strings Tied to Appointment.

Hitler this morning received a mandate from Von Hindenburg to form a cabinet, but strings were tied to the appointment. The field marshal under whom Hitler served as a corporal in the world war dictated the conditions under which he would allow Hitler to share power with him.

The president demanded that Hitler agree to respect the majority of Von Papen's emergency decrees and that his cabinet would have to be backed "by a majority or almost a majority" of the reichstag. Von Hindenburg also demanded Hitler's pledge to govern according to parliamentary rule. He further stipulated that Hitler must maintain the present military and foreign policies and that Gen. Kurt von Schleicher must be retained as minister of defense and Baron Konstantin von Neurath as foreign minister.

Hitler and his lieutenants struggled to find a way to swallow the president's conditions without losing their prestige in the eyes of their followers. The Nazi leader's letter to the president repected the restrictions. At the same time Hitler pointed out weaknesses in Von Papen's anti-social legislation and asked the president to answer concrete questions as to the future treatment of economic problems affecting the masses. He wisely did not close the door.

Weight Falls on Hindenburg.

"If the president's answers are satisfactory," one of Hitler's aids said, "Hitler will continue efforts to form a workable majority in the reichstag."

This again places the entire weight of the decision on Von Hindenburg's shoulders.

While Hitler was drafting the letter to Von Hindenburg the feverish excitement of conferences which reigned in his hotel quarters spread into the streets where the police were attempting to keep thousands quiet. Whenever a Hitlerite leader passed, the throng cheered wildly.

Although Von Hindenburg's office is just across the street, no nervousness was visible there. Capt. Hermann Goering, Nazi president of the old reichstag, presented Hitler's letter to Otto Meissner, the president's secretary of state.

Will Reply to Letter Today.

Meissner rushed to Von Hindenburg, who waved him aside and announced he would read Hitler's letter tomorrow morning and then answer it.

Meanwhile the Hitlerites are dickering with other parties. The Nationalists flatly refused to heed their call. Hitler would be able to form a majority in the reichstag without them if all the small parties joined him. But the small parties are reluctant and Von Hindenburg told Hitler that the Nationalists must be included.

The Nationalists now hold the whip hand. They are confident they have succeeded in stopping Hitler, leaving only one course open to Von Hindenburg—a return to Junker rule.

POLICEMAN KILLS GUNMAN FLEEING IN A STOLEN AUTO

Ernest Gallo, 18 years old, 3036 Taylor street, was killed yesterday as he and two companions attempted to escape from police in a stolen automobile. The slain youth was identified by his father, Frank Gallo, hours after the killing.

The youth was shot by Detective John Daly of the Marquette station. With his partner, Detective Thomas Stapleton, Daly sighted the gang car at Albany avenue and Flournoy street and gave chase in their squad car, suspecting that the other vehicle was stolen.

The fugitive car gained on the police, until its driver stopped at an alley near Sacramento boulevard and Arthington street to pick up two more men. Daly jumped from the police car and opened fire. Gallo slumped dead in the rear seat. The other four men fled on foot, pursued by Stapleton, and made their escape.

An automatic pistol was found on the seat beside Gallo and a revolver in his pocket.

RULING MAY OPEN LAKE SHORE AREA TO APARTMENTS

Abutting Property Owners Favored in Decision.

One of the most exclusive residential districts along the "gold coast" of Lake Shore drive, that lying between Diversey parkway and Belmont avenue, may become a hotel and apartment area under a recommendation made public yesterday by Master-in-Chancery Louis J. Behan. He recommended that the owners of property worth $90,000,000 and fronting on Lincoln park between those streets be allowed to demolish their residences and erect hotel and apartment structures.

The recommendation was reached as one of the closing chapters in the suit of Edward J. Lehmann, son of the late E. J. Lehman, founder of The Fair, and a group of owners whose property fronts on Lake Shore drive, against the Lincoln park commissioners and a second group of real estate holders whose property is directly west and in back of the lots of the first group.

Recalls 1904 Contract.

The suit is based on a contract signed by the original owners of the land fronting on Lake Shore drive with the Lincoln park board in 1904. At that time the lake front extended further inland than the present line of Lake Shore drive. The property owners agreed to forfeit their riparian rights in return for the extension of their land by artificial filling to its present limits.

Under that contract the owners zoned their property for residences only and stipulated that the maximum height of all buildings should be 60 feet. The contract also provided that a change in the zoning and height provisions could be made only by means of an agreement between the majority of the owners whose property fronted on Lake Shore drive and the park commission.

On Jan. 26, 1927, such an agreement was reached between the complaining owners and the commission. The zoning was changed to include hotels and apartment buildings and the height restriction was removed.

Plaintiff's Well Known.

In the suit filed in the Superior court in 1929, the complaining owners included Mr. Lehmann as trustee of his father's estate; Mrs. Lolita S. Armour, widow of Ogden Armour; Melville N. Rothschild, president and treasurer of the National Bond and Investment company; Mr. and Mrs. John L. Kellogg, Solomon A. Smith, president of the Northern Trust company, and his mother, Mrs. Carrie C. Smith; Mr. and Mrs. James E. Bennett; and the trustees of the estate of Alexander H. Revell.

They charged that the park commission and the owners of property immediately back of their own, had advanced the claim that the second contract was invalid. The park commission charged that the 60 foot provision was specifically intended to provide an easement of light and air for the park. The secondary property owners charged that the original blocks of land contained the property which they now own. On this theory they claimed a right to vote on the new contract, which, they asserted did not have the approval of the majority of owners as specified in the 1904 contract.

The case was assigned to Judge Robert E. Gentzel in 1930. The hearing of preliminary motions occupied six months and the taking of testimony before Master-in-Chancery Behan occupied an additional 18 months before it was completed a month ago.

Park Contention "Untenable."

In his 40-page recommendation to the judge the master held that the contention of the park commissioners was "untenable because the park is directly on the lake front." He asserted also that the only right over the complainants' property vested in the board was acquired by the contract of 1904. This had been faithfully kept by both parties and no longer has effect.

The master also stated that only those owners whose land was actually on Lake Shore drive could be considered voters under the 1904 contract. The total length of the land directly abutting the drive is 2,312 feet, he found, and owners of 1,817 feet signed the 1927 contract. Thus, he pointed out, the compliance with the clause in the 1904 contract governing changes has been followed.

The master's report will be presented to Judge Gentzel for his approval within the next two weeks.

JOHN KINSELLA, HAYMARKET RIOT VETERAN, IS DEAD

John Kinsella, former policeman and one of the veterans of the Haymarket battle with anarchists on May 4, 1886, died yesterday at his home at 121 South Mayfield avenue, after a long illness. He was 88 years old.

Mr. Kinsella's death leaves living only twelve of the 176 members of the police force who marched to Haymarket square. Eight were killed and seventy injured by a bomb explosion in the fight. Although the oldest of the survivors, Mr. Kinsella attended the annual reunion last May of the Haymarket Veterans' association, which he helped to found. He is survived by his widow and one daughter.

CITY CAN'T HELP BONUS MARCHERS, VETERANS TOLD

Ald. James B. Waller [43d], chairman of the city council committee on unemployment, yesterday informed a delegation from the Chicago Rank and File Veterans' committee that the city has no funds with which to get food and lodging for 1,500 "bonus marchers" who are expected to arrive in Chicago this week on their way to Washington. The city is behind three months, he said, on salary payments to its employés.

The delegation also requested permission to hold a tag day for the marchers tomorrow. Ald. Waller replied that veterans' organizations have had two tag days this year—Poppy day and Forget-Me-Not day—and that he did not believe the council would authorize a tag day for one special group because of a request now pending for a general tag day for relief of the idle.

Among other demands made by the delegation were the lodging of unemployed veterans in armories and other public buildings at the expense of the city, county and state; the support of the mayor and the council of their demand for immediate payment of the bonus; and gasoline and oil for the trucks that the "marchers" are using in traveling to Washington. Ald. Waller replied that the council has no jurisdiction over many of their requests.

TRIES SUICIDE IN CEMETERY.

William Oestrich, 50 years old, 6240 South Western avenue, a carpenter, attempted to end his life yesterday by slashing his throat and wrists in the Beverly cemetery, 119th street and Kedzie avenue. He was taken to St. Francis hospital in Blue Island in a serious condition.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 21.—Japan today told the league of nations council what is what in the far east, leaving that eminent body eminently stumped.

"We have violated neither the covenant of the league, the nine-power treaty nor the pact of Paris [Kellogg pact]," said Japan's affable representative, Yosuke Matsuoka, brushing aside the report of the league council's fact-finding commission headed by Lord Lytton, which says Japan has violated these documents. "We acted spontaneously and in self-defense, and when we acted the independence movement developed spontaneously."

Spurns League Solution.

Matsuoka called the proposals of the Lytton commission for a solution —internationalization of Manchuria— unthinkable.

"Establishment of the state of Manchukuo seems to us to be the only solution possible," he said.

The unhappy council, whose only function now that the facts are before it is to try to effect a conciliation, spent the morning hearing Matsuoka's talk of defiance and in the afternoon heard Wellington Koo, China's representative, entrench China behind the report, the league covenant and all the treaties. What hope there was, if any, for conciliation vanished and the whole matter will now be turned over to the league's sovereign body, the assembly.

Matsuoka, speaking fluent English, opened his speech by expressing appreciation of the Lytton committee's labors, and then proceeded to take the hide off it. Lord Lytton, Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, the American representative on the committee, and the rest of its members sat nearby. Lord Lytton showed keen displeasure at some of Matsuoka's digs. He may be called upon later to answer the Japanese attacks.

Says China Is Dismembered.

Matsuoka assured the council that China was a dismembered nation which was a prey to rival war lords and was menaced by communism. Had China or even Manchuria been properly governed, the present situation would not have arisen, he said.

At and after the Mukden incident on Sept. 18, 1931, the mikado's army did act in self-defense, he said, and he adduced interpretations of self-defense by Frank B. Kellogg, Sir Austen Chamberlain, and the United States senate to support his stand. He also cited the United States' punitive expedition in Mexico in 1916 as a fair precedent for Japan's actions in Manchuria.

So, it was not just to make Japan responsible for what happened in Manchuria, he said, adding that it is "impossible to limit the consequences of measures in self-defense." He gravely asked the council for a "little patience" and the world for "only a fraction of the tolerance so generously bestowed upon China."

Koo Makes Counter Attack.

"To listen to all this one would think Japan a meek lamb in the teeth of a ferocious China," said Koo in his reply.

Koo charged Japan with keeping China in turmoil as part of a plan to conquer Asia and the world in successive stages.

Matsuoka had complained that Chinese boycotts were hurtful to friendly relations. Koo inquired whether friendly relations still existed. He explained that the boycott was a self-imposed sacrifice and the most humane method of resistance to aggression yet devised. Then he whipped forth a clear threat in behalf of the Chinese government to legalize, extend and protect the boycott.

Lake Diversion Joker in St. Lawrence Seaway Treaty Stirs Opposition in Mississippi Valley

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Strong opposition to the St. Lawrence seaway treaty, pending at Washington, on the ground that article 8 of the treaty would dry up the Illinois waterway—soon to be opened—and the lakes to gulf water route, developed today at the fourteenth annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association, which embraces 24 valley states.

Arguments that efforts are afoot to dry up the inland waterways, now on the verge of completion, by means of the proposed treaty with Canada, plus "cut throat rate slashing" by the rail roads have filled the air all day.

The convention this year is attended by the strongest group in years, largely consisting of men up and down the valley who for twenty years and more have been battling for the water route from the great lakes to New Orleans, and for the development of the upper Mississippi and Missouri.

Not Opposed to Project.

The association in past conventions has indorsed the St. Lawrence proposal, and indications are that it will stick to this policy, but oppose the treaty in its present form.

Illinois delegates at luncheon conference went on record for a resolution which while indorsing the St. Lawrence project would instruct representatives of the association to battle for an amendment to Article 8 before Senator Borah's subcommittee in Washington which has been holding hearings.

Views expressed were that the United States will be selling its birthright in Lake Michigan and the Mississippi valley for a mess of Canadian potage if the treaty goes through in its present form. Criticism has filled the air that the Canadians have proved better traders than the Americans in framing the proposed treaty, and that if it goes through Uncle Sam, in the Mississippi watershed, is about to lose his socks.

Among the strong critics of the treaty in its present form is Arthur Weaver, ex-governor of Nebraska, who for years has been a leader in development of the upper Missouri and Mississippi.

Article 8 is based on a diversion of 1,500 cubic second feet from Lake Michigan, embodying the terms of the U. S. Supreme court decision in the Chicago sanitary district case, limiting the diversion for sanitary purposes to 1,500 after Dec. 31, 1925.

The attack on this is based on the argument that it vitiates the treaty of 1910, concerning water power used at Niagara Falls, in which a diversion of 10,000 second feet at Chicago was recognized.

At the Illinois luncheon it was declared that adoption of the treaty as it stands, would mean that in 1929 the Illinois waterway, on which Chicago has spent $80,000,000, the state of Illinois $20,000,000, and the federal government $7,500,000, a total of $107,500,000, would find its barges stranded high and dry, and commerce would be shoved back on a dry land basis.

In the corridor talk, delegates from states up and down the valley have been declaring that Article 8 is in the interests of the "power trust" in Canada and the eastern states and of the railroads. The arguments have covered the following general lines:

1. Adoption of the treaty in its present form would, in 1929, cut the Illinois waterway and the lakes to gulf route from a 9 foot depth to one of perhaps 6 feet, and would not allow water enough for lockage.

2. Government engineers have testified that a diversion of at least 5,000 feet per second from Lake Michigan is necessary for the waterway, unless it is to become "a nolsome sewer" which would make traffic impossible.

3. Article 8 in the proposed treaty supersedes the 1910 treaty, on Niagara river power use, which was based on a 10,000 second feet diversion at Chicago.

4. In Article 5 the United States would give away control of Lake Michigan, which is inside the United States and not a boundary water, and would place it under an international commission.

5. Adoption of the treaty with Article 8 would take from congress its rights to prescribe diversion from Lake Michigan for navigation purposes on the lakes to gulf inland waterway system, and would simply dry up the inland waterway system. It would result in a waterway with no water.

Delegates have declared in their talks that in the treaty of 1910 Canada was allowed to withdraw 36,000 feet at Niagara, while on the American side the withdrawal was fixed at only 15,500 feet, because at Chicago a diversion of 10,000 was tacitly recognized.

Evidence has been exhumed that Elihu Root as secretary of state, testified tha he refused to let the diversion at Chicago be placed in this treaty for the reason that it would be a recognition of Lake Michigan as an international water. The proposed treaty, it is argued, turns upside down the established policy of the state department.

Condemns Diversion Clause.

In a short speech Rufus W. Putnam of Chicago, of the regional port commission, who has attended the Borah hearings at Washington, informed the Illinois delegates that three of the six members of the Borah sub-committee appeared friendly to the proposed treaty.

"Under the treaty as it stands," said Mr. Putnam, "congress will be stopped from permitting a diversion for navigation in addition to the 1,500 feet to which the sanitary district of Chicago is restricted for sanitary purposes by the Supreme court after Dec. 31, 1928.

"We shall make a mistake if we do not fight for modification of article 8. I think we should stick to our old policy of being for the St. Lawrence seaway project, but we are justified in doing everything we can to get this modification of the treaty."

BREWERS CALL 2.75 BEER KNELL OF ILLICIT RUM

45 Representatives Meet to Beat Gang Prices.

Representatives of 45 American brewing companies, now engaged in the manufacture of prohibition drinks, met yesterday in the Hartford building at 88 South Dearborn street and announced plans to "furnish good 2.75 per cent beer to the public at prices the gangster element can't meet."

It was declared by the conferees that their plants represent an investment of $250,000,000 legitimately invested. They added that if and when beer of moderate alcoholic content is authorized by congress they can supply the retail trade at low prices and that the government will be able to collect a revenue of $300,000,000 annually from the sale of such beverages.

Nickel a Glass Is Slogan.

Nickel a glass beer was the slogan adopted by the manufacturers.

"The gangster," said Attorney George P. McCabe of Washington, D. C., general counsel for the Associated Producers of Cereal Beverages, "can never compete with that. With a tax of $6 a barrel on our product the hoodlum wouldn't be able to sell his graft incumbered stuff to the American people even at the point of a gun.

"We are purposely asking for a content that will be nonintoxicating in fact. The 2.75 per cent beer is what the people want. It will be a healthful drink without any of the objections that might be raised against strong drink.

Hears Knell for Illegal Booze.

"In fact, temperance will be promoted by such a product. The people will turn from bootlegger products. Who would patronize a beer flat and pay up to 25 cents a glass for poorly made beer when he can get a good glass in pleasant, legally approved surroundings for 5 cents? In our opinion, the legalizing of 2.75 per cent beer without restrictions—making it a prohibition drink—will sound the knell of the illegal liquor traffic."

Mr. McCabe said that the association, of which all the brewing companies represented at the meeting are members, would take steps this week to urge these arguments on congress in the hope that nickel beer by Christmas would gladden the holiday season.

Call $6 Proper Tax.

The association, it was said, will insist that every barrel of beer be decorated with a government revenue stamp showing that the tax has been paid. It was reasoned that with only $6 a barrel to work on the bootlegger could not begin to compete against the legitimate industry. Of course, it was admitted, the government could by putting an exorbitant tax on the product make illegal competition possible.

William L. Goetz, of St. Joseph, Mo., asserted that the brewers agreed with the Anti-Saloon league that the open saloon should not be allowed to return.

"The saloon is an evil," he declared. "We want the grocer and the druggist to sell beer and for the people to drink it at home. We do not wish to antagonize people who are opposed to strong drink. We don't want to antagonize the Anti-Saloon league.

Asserts It's Not Intoxicating.

Dr. E. A. Siebel, technical director of the association, said it had been clearly shown 2.75 beer was not intoxicating and that the United States Supreme court could logically approve it as in accord with the 18th amendment.

Several of the largest breweries, such as Anheuser-Busch, Pabst, Schoenhofen, and Schlitz, are not members of the Associated Producers. Among those which are, and took part in the deliberations yesterday, were the Atlas Brewing company, Chicago; the Fox-Head-Waukesha corporation, Milwaukee; the Falstaff corporation, St. Louis; Pittsburgh Brewing company, Pittsburgh, and Pilsener Ice, Fuel and Beverage company, Cleveland.

AL SMITH TO LEAD COMMUNITY SING TO RAISE CHARITY FUND

New York, Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith will make his debut as a song leader Nov. 29 at Town hall. In his younger days Mr. Smith was an amateur actor of renown on the east side, but he admits he has never tried to sing in public.

Mr. Smith was persuaded to do so by Mrs. Frank Vanderlip, who is helping to raise money for the New York infirmary for women and children by holding "community sings" at Town hall.

The former governor will lead the audience in warbling "The Sidewalks of New York," which is Mr. Smith's political theme song.

Newsreel men will record Mr. Smith's debut as a singer—and who knows? He may get an offer to go into the movies.

MOSCOW DENIES HAND IN RIOTS BY IDLE IN BRITAIN

MOSCOW, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The communist party organ Pravda denied emphatically today that the Profintern was responsible for the riots by the idle in London recently.

[Sidney Job Elias, who was arrested in connection with the London riots, was charged with writing a letter from Moscow to associates in England last fall which showed a direct interest of the Moscow Third Internationale in British agitation among the idle. The prosecution said Elias was in Russia following instructions from the Profintern, which they called the section of the Third Internationale aiming to control world movements among the idle.]

Acknowledging that the letter may have been written by Sidney Elias when he was here, the newspaper declares that if so he wrote as a private individual and not in behalf of the Profintern. It said the Profintern can no more be held responsible for the actions of individuals here than can the house of commons for letters similarly written to Moscow newspapers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Nov. 21.—The move to extradite Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate, advanced a few notches today. Charles A. Bellows and Andrew J. Vlachos, assistant state's attorneys of Cook county, Illinois, who are trying to bring Insull back to the United States to stand trial on charges of larceny and embezzlement, called on Leland B. Morris charge d' affairs at the American legation. The visit lasted 15 minutes.

Counsel for Insull and State's Attorney Swanson's assistants began taunting each other today through the medium of the Greek press. Christos Ladas, Insull's Greek lawyer, issued an ironic statement concerning the arrival of the Chicago prosecutors and their documents. The Athens press also published articles purporting to come from the Chicagoans.

Many undercurrents are apparent. Insull's lawyers said that Vlachos' brother, who resides here, had approached Peter Vanech, Insull's duty interpreter, on the question of the prosecutors interviewing the Chicago fugitive about waiving extradition. Insull himself tonight said that he would see Vlachos and Bellows if they came to the hospital where he is being held. He insisted, however, that all legal questions must be taken up with his lawyers.

Not only at night is the bedroom extension telephone useful. True, a single call may be worth many times the yearly cost of an extra telephone. HOOVER STAND UPON BEER BILL STILL IN DOUBT

Britten, President's Aid Clash Over Prediction.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—The question of whether President Hoover would sign a beer bill was thrown into bold relief today when Representative Fred A. Britten, militant house wet from Chicago, attempted to clarify the White House position on this point and met with a rebuff.

As one of the Republican house wet leaders Mr. Britten journeyed to the White House this morning for the announced purpose of smoking the President out. On emerging from his conference with Mr. Hoover the Republican house wet leader proclaimed his conviction that the President would not veto a beer bill if a measure modifying the Volstead act was submitted to him by the lame duck congress.

Before the ink on the newspaper headlines emblazoning the prediction cried Theodore Joslin, White House secretary, summoned newspaper men and announced that "the President had declined to discuss beer with Mr. Britten."

Reiterates His Prediction.

Notified of this action on the part of the White House, Mr. Britten stuck by his guns, asserted that Mr. Joslin knew nothing about what had been said during his conference with the President and reiterated his prediction that Mr. Hoover would approve beer legislation.

"It was not my intention," said Mr. Britten, "to engage in a controversy with Mr. Joslin. As he was not in the room when President Hoover and I had our discussion he is thoroughly disqualified to say what did or did not transpire in that conversation. I steadfastly believe that the President will sign the beer bill which will be submitted to him by congress."

The action of the White House in taking immediate action to head off any impression that the Britten prediction was inspired created a small sensation in wet and dry circles in the capital. The drys at once hailed the statement by Mr. Joslin as proof that the President will not sign a beer bill even if passed by a large vote through both houses. Wets took the position that the President will be in a position where he virtually will have to sign a beer bill.

Wets and Drys Dispute.

During the last week reports have circulated in congressional circles to the effect that President Hoover would veto a beer bill on the theory that such an act would not be constitutional. Officials close to the White House have given questioners a somewhat similar view.

Wet leaders, however, have asserted that the President will sign a beer bill once it is placed before him. They attribute the reports that the President would not sign a beer bill to dry propaganda sources.

Mr. Britten's arrival at the White House this morning came as newspapers were carrying conflicting stories as to the President's position. As a result the Chicago congressman was surrounded at once by reporters when he emerged. In response to questions he admitted that he had talked to the President about the porspects for beer legislation and during the conversation had stressed the advantages to be derived from such a law. Special attention was paid to the revenue-bearing possibilities of legalized beer, Mr. Britten said.

Based on His Own Views.

"I am confident President Hoover will sign a bill providing for legalized beer," Mr. Britten said. "I talked to the President about such legislation and pointed out how beneficial it would be to a depleted national treasury. I cannot quote the President, but you can say that I am confident he will sign a beer bill when it is presented to him."

Mr. Britten advised reporters that his prediction was based on his own views and must be so handled. He said he was not in a position to act as the President's spokesman on this question and could only express his own views. He called attention to a letter President Hoover had written several years ago in which Mr. Hoover was quoted as taking the position that 2.75 per cent beer was not intoxicating.

"I predict," said Mr. Britten, "that New Year's eve will be celebrated with real beer. I will take steps as soon as congress convenes to bring up a beer bill. If the Democrats intend to live up to their campaign pledge to give the nation beer immedately they can bring a bill to a vote within ten days. It will be up directly to Speaker Garner. Unless he backs down we will have a vote on beer at once."

TROTZKY ARRIVES IN FRANCE; POLICE TAKE HIM ASHORE

Exiled Red Denies Any Hidden Designs.

MARSEILLES, France, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Denying that he was about any "mysterious designs," Leon Trotzky, exiled Russian revolutionary, arrived here today on his way to Copenhagen, where he will lecture about the revolution which fifteen years ago set up the soviet government.

Police took extraordinary measures to prevent any sort of demonstration. The ship which had brought him from Turkey was met off Marseilles, and Trotzky was taken in a police boat to the suburb of L'Estaque, where he boarded an automobile for Lyons. There he took a train for Paris.

Praises His Wife.

With Trotzky were three young friends and his wife, about whom he said that for 30 years she had "patiently and devotedly shared the difficulties of my life." The revolutionary leader will lecture at Copenhagen university and then will return to Prinkipo island in Turkey, the place of his exile.

"My trip carries no mysterious designs, and offers—at least that is my opinion—no public interest," the exiled Russian leader said in a statement to the press. "This is the only reason for which I refused to make any declaration to the Greek press and later to the Italian press.

His History Completed.

"As my trip is giving rise to various interpretations, and this is undesirable, I wish to make the following declaration:

"I have lived four years in Turkey. I have read much and I have written. In moments of freedom I have fished and hunted. Principally, I have busied myself particularly with the history of the Russian revolution. My work on that subject now is completed and the last pages of my history were given to the printers only recently."

Trotzky said his Copenhagen lecture would have an historical goal, not a propagandist goal.

"That does not mean that I shall conceal my own point of view, which remains the same as at the moment of the insurrection of October, 1917," he added.

PREPARE TO ADD 195 POLICE TO CHICAGO FORCE

Investigators of the police department and the civil service commission started yesterday to inquire into the moral fitness of the 1,809 men who passed the examinations for patrolmen. At the conclusion of the character examination of approximately the first 300 names on the list, it is expected that Commissioner Allman will ask to have 195 men certified to him. These men will be enrolled in the police training school before filling vacancies on the force.

SALES TAX, BEER ACTS PREDICTED AT NEXT SESSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Representative James W. Collier [Dem., Miss.], chairman of the house ways and means committee, today predicted that a new revenue program, giving the country a general manufacturers' sales tax and a beer tax, would be enacted at the short session of congress.

Mr. Collier's statement was made after he had summoned ranking members of the committee to a preconference meeting Wednesday to give immediate consideration to tax revision legislation, including restoration of the old 2 cent postage rate, repeal of the stamp tax on checks and possible drastic reduction of the impost on admissions.

Budget Balancing Program.

As the chairman of the committee, which holds control over all tax legislation, prepared to bring a new revenue program into the house soon after congress convenes on Dec. 5, President Hoover's aids were at work on a budget balancing program which will go to congress in his annual message.

This will include not only a demand for slashes in routine government expenditures, but recommendations for the passage of legislation which would make possible cuts in veterans' administrative costs, as well as in expenditures in other government fields. It is believed that the President also will suggest passage of a new revenue bill.

The motive behind these efforts is the necessity for raising enough new revenue to balance the federal government's budget, which stood unbalanced to the extent of $718,888,251 on Nov. 18, the date of the latest treasury report, with the certainty that it will far exceed a billion dollars before the fiscal year ends June 30.

Two Sources Seen.

"There are only two places to look for the money to meet the growing deficit—in a general manufacturers' sales tax and a tax on beer," Representative Collier said.

There will be no quibbling by house leaders if a sales tax bill is brought out this session, he added. Taking a lesson from the last session, when the house holted its Democratic leadership and rewrote the tax bill on the floor minus the sales tax feature, the house managers will bring their new revenue program to the floor with a rule compelling a vote after limited debate.

Representative Collier expressed little doubt that the sales tax would pass the house this session. Its fate in the senate was more in doubt. In the last session there was strong sentiment against it in both chambers. The tax measures adopted in its place, however, have fallen far short of the mark necessary to balance the budget.

Increased postal rates and the stamp tax on checks have proved dismal failures. Income taxes also have fallen off sharply. Members of the postoffice committee declared that committee was unanimous for restoration of the 2 cent rate. They threaten to move to repeal the increase themselves if the ways and means committee fails to act. Big corporations, it was said, which formerly mailed their monthly bills, have found it far cheaper to have them delivered by hand.

EXPERT TELLS OF LIE DETECTOR TEST ON KUHN

Ex-Prosecutor a Witness for Defense in Suit.

Superior Judge Peter H. Schwaba ruled yesterday that what experts told Miss Marion Wright, her father, and others concerning the results of a lie detector test made upon William S. Kuhn Jr. was relevant in guiding the jury in connection with the suit brought by Kuhn against the Wrights and three operatives of the Secret Six. The state Supreme court has held that the findings of the lie detector are not admissible as evidence of guilt.

Kuhn's suit, which asks $100,000 damages, charges false arrest. He was arrested by the Secret Six on charges of writing extortion notes to Miss Wright, whose father is William Van Doren Wright, steel company executive. According to experts, the lie detector showed that Kuhn had guilty knowledge of the extortion letters received by Miss Wright two years ago on the eve of her debut.

Edward Everett, chief counsel for the defendants, hopes to convince the jurors that there was no malice displayed in the prosecution. The case against Kuhn was not pressed.

Former Prosecutor Testifies.

Former Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks took the stand during the morning session of court and testified that it was at his request that Miss Wright signed the complaint on which Kuhn was taken into custody. Brooks said Miss Wright signed the complaint without reading it.

Dr. John A. Larson of 1525 East 60th street, a psychiatrist at the Rush Medical college, testified in detail about the lie detector test to which Kuhn submitted in December of 1930. In qualifying as an expert, he stated that he had originated the method used, twelve years ago. He also cited a list of subjects taught by himself in various universities, including biology, physiology, pharmacology, and psychiatry, and said he was licensed to practice medicine and surgery in Illinois.

At the request of the Secret Six, the witness said, he accompanied Kuhn and Edgar Dudley, the Secret Six detective, to the Institute for Juvenile Research at 907 South Lincoln street, where the trial was made. Kuhn had expressed willingness to take the test, he added. He told of strapping a hollow tube across Kuhn's chest to record changes in breathing and adjusting cuffs on his wrists to show variations in blood pressure under the stress of emotion. Then in answer to a question he explained his test in detail:

"First I ran the machine a while to secure a norm [by that I mean that I determined the subject's normal blood pressure and breathing rate]. Then I asked a few simple questions to permit adjustment and avoid exciting him.

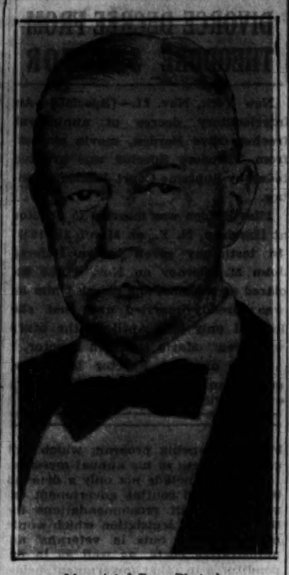

"Then I asked, 'Have you any guilty knowledge of the extortion in regard to Marion Wright?' He answered, 'No.' I asked, 'Did you write this letter?' (showing him one of them). He said, 'No.' 'Do you know who did?' Again he said, 'No.' showed him one of his actual letters to his brother and asked, 'Did you write this?' He said 'Yes.' Then I repeated those questions."

ASK $4,100,000 TO COMPLETE 4 HIGH SCHOOLS

Board Will Be Urged to Reduce Seat Shortage.

The board of education will be asked to appropriate $4,100,000 in its 1933 budget to finance the completion of four new school buildings. John C. Christensen, school architect, said yesterday that he would make the request because of the mounting seat shortage in the system and the danger of costly damage to partly completed buildings.

Work on ten new schools was halted early in the year for lack of funds. These projects are at various stages in construction.

$4,100,000 to Be Asked.

The buildings that Mr. Christensen will recommend be finished and the costs are: The new Lane Technical High school, at Addison street and Western avenue, $1,500,000; new Phillips Senior High school, at 49th street and Wabash avenue, $1,800,000; Steinmetz Senior High school, at Barry, Wellington and Melvina avenues, $500,000, and the Senn High school addition, at Glenwood and Ardmore avenues, $300,000.

Don C. Rogers, director of research and building survey for the school system, declared that the seat shortage in Chicago's senior high schools is now 43,080. Seat shortage represents the number of pupils housed in portables and branches and handled by extended day sessions. The senior high school enrollment is 105,000, which is 6,000 more students than last year and the highest in the city's history.

Would Provide 13,000 Seats.

According to Mr. Christensen, seats for more than 13,000 senior high school students would be provided in the new buildings.

Mr. Christensen will make no recommendation regarding the other six school projects. They are the Wells, Verdi, Galileo, Dvorak, and Rembrandt Junior High schools and the Jamieson Elementary school.

The school board, in its $15,000,000 reduction in the 1932 tax levies last July, trimmed $13,000,000 from the building levy. This action left a little more than $1,000,000 for this year's building operations.

BANK TELLER DENIES CHARGE.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 21.—(AP)—George Ryan, 27, former teller and bookkeeper of the Lincoln National bank at Lincoln, denied on the witness stand in federal court today that he was guilty, as charged, of embezzling $13,000 in bank funds.

ASKS $19,000,000 SCHOOL PAY DAY IN TAX WARRANTS

Caldwell Seeks O. K. of Board Today.

The payment in 1933 tax anticipation warrants of more than $19,000,000 in overdue salaries of teachers and other school board employes for this year was urged yesterday by School Trustee H. Wallace Caldwell. Mr. Caldwell said he would put forth his plan in a resolution at the school board meeting tomorrow afternoon.

Teachers, janitors and firemen of the school system obtained nearly $14,000,000 worth of 1931 tax warrants for 1931 salary obligations under a similar scheme that was put in operation last spring. According to Mr. Caldwell, the warrants would be offered in lieu of cash and the employe would be free to decide whether to take them or not.

"I decided to push this plan," asserted Mr. Caldwell, "when there was no indication on the part of banks or other financial institutions that they would buy our warrants. I am certain that the school board trustees were under the impression that after the election hysteria had died down we would get some money. But there's no sign of it, and the distress is growing worse every day."

Confident of Adoption.

Mr. Caldwell declared he was sure that his resolution would be adopted. Trustee Joseph Savage has announced that he will support it, Mr. Caldwell said, and Lewis E. Meyers, president of the board, has no objection to it.

Agnes B. Clohesy, president of the Elementary Teachers' union, said yesterday that it was a "deplorable commentary on Chicago" when teachers who have been unpaid for months will stand before their classes this week and read a Thanksgiving proclamation. Miss Clohesy attributed the recent death of a north side teacher to her financial plight.

School employés have received their pay through April of this year. The compensation due to regular teachers up to Nov. 15 is $15,050,000; to special teachers and civil service employés, $3,550,000; to building employés, $700,000, and to playground employés, $260,000.

$14,410,000 in Warrants Issued.

Harry Brackett, school auditor, said that 1932 educational fund warrants to the extent of $14,410,000 had been issued and that most of them were held in the city's aggregate of funds. The city has sold 1931 warrants to the banks and taken 1932 warrants in their place to finance several school pay days.

If the board continues its present policy of issuing warrants up to 60 per cent of its educational fund levy, there will be available approximately $15,000,000 worth of warrants to distribute to teachers, Mr. Brackett said

WENDEL ESTATE CLAIMANT WHO LOST IS JAILED

New York, Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Unsuccessful in his effort to have himself declared the heir at law to the $35,000,000 Wendel fortune, Thomas Patrick Morris had more bad luck today. He was sent to a cell in default of $10,000 bail as a material witness.

The grand jury is investigating the circumstances of his claim to be the son of the late John G. Wendel and therefore entitled to contest the will of Miss Ella Wendel, who left her entire estate to charity.

Morris said after his arrest that "Papa Wendel" gave him the Bible containing the purported certificate of Wendel's secret marriage which, Morris had said, resulted in his birth. He would say no more. Then he was taken befor. Judge Freschi and held as a material witness.

DIPLOMAT SEEKS A DIVORCE FROM MABELLE SWIFT

Reno, Nev., Nov. 21.—Rumors that Aksel C. P. Wichfeld, former attaché of the Danish legation in Washington, and Mrs. Mabelle Swift Wichfeld have separated were confirmed today. It was learned that Mr. Wichfeld filed a suit for divorce secretly in Carson City, Nev., on Nov. 10.

Mrs. Wichfeld is the daughter of the late E. C. Swift, who was a brother of Gustavus Swift, founder of the Chicago packing concern. Her home is in Boston. She was married in 1900 to Clarence Moore, of Washington, who was drowned on the steamship Titanic. She and the former Danish diplomat were married in 1915.

DANDRUFF
Soon Destroys the Hair

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get plain ordinary Liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get Liquid Arvon at any drug store. It won't cost you more than thirty-five cents. No matter how much dandruff you have, this simple remedy never fails.

ILL. LIFE COMPANY RECEIVER ASKED; HEARING TODAY

Wilkerson Refuses to Kill Stockholder's Suit.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday overruled a motion to dismiss a petition asking a receiver for the Illinois Life Insurance company, 1212 Lake Shore drive, one of the oldest and largest of Illinois insurance corporations. The court hearing disclosed that the suit was started on Nov. 18 and was the subject of several sessions in chambers before the public hearing yesterday.

The suit was filed by Attorney A. S. Guthrie in behalf of Mary Martha Layton of Leon, Ia., owner of 200 shares of company stock with a par value of $100 per share. The petition alleges that the company has outstanding insurance policies of $150,000,000, half in Illinois and the rest in Michigan, Indiana, Kansas, and Missouri, as against assets worth $30,000,000 at the present market quotations. In order to continue operations, the suit asserts, the company is required by law to have a legal reserve of $33,000,000.

Chargest Twisting Plot.

The suit also charges that R. W. Stevens, president of the insurance company, has conspired with rival insurance companies for "the twisting of trade to other companies." This was accomplished, the suit alleges, by closing up agencies of the Illinois company.

R. W. Stevens, with his brother, E. J. Stevens, is the owner of the Stevens and La Salle hotels, which were placed in receivership some time ago.

Just before the end of the hearing yesterday an additional petition for a receivership was filed by Attorney Roy D. Keehn in behalf of Elizabeth Wharf of Vincennes, Ind. This suit alleges that Mrs. Wharf and her husband are the owners of life insurance and endowment policies with large loan value. They have been trying to borrow $15,000 on the policies since last June without success, the suit asserts.

R. F. C. Lends Million.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation was represented at the court hearing by Attorney Thomas Marshall. It was brought out in the hearing that up to Sept. 20 the insurance company had obtained loans of more than $1,000,000 from the R. F. C.

Attorney Joseph B. Fleming, representing the insurance company, arguing for dismissal of the receivership petition, held that the only charge contained in the suit is that of insolvency. Under the law, he said, the insolvency must result from fraud or gross mismanagement on the part of the receivers to warrant a receivership.

"No," Judge Wilkerson pointed out, "the charge is made that the company will go on doing business when it cannot do so legally. If this is true the plaintiff is entitled to some relief—I will not say that a receiver should be appointed—but some relief.

Explains Closing of Agencies.

"If the R. F. C. is going to sustain this company of course this court will not appoint a receiver."

Attorney Fleming answered the charge that the company had abandoned its agencies with the statement that the action was taken to relieve the company of burdensome expenses in the cost of operation.

Attorney Fleming said that the insurance company has a new board "of high class citizens" working with the R. F. C. The new board includes R. W. Stevens, president; John F. Williams, vice president; Robert D. Lay, president of the National Life Insurance company; Paul Steinbrecher, authority on real estate matters; Calvin A. Fentriss, a receiver of Insull properties, and J. C. McCord.

Attorney Fleming attacked the charge in the bill that the company assets were worth only $30,000,000 by present market values.

"In the present market," he said, "I hold that is an excellent showing. At present stocks and bonds are down to 25 per cent of their normal value. Other securities are in real estate mortgages and bonds that are now listed on a depreciated market."

Judge Wilkerson, after overruling the motion to dismiss the petition for the receivership, ordered the hearing to continue this morning on the question of appointing a receiver.

DOUBT IDENTITY OF WOMAN SLAIN ON COUNTRY ROAD

Homewood police started an investigation last night to reestablish the identity of a woman who was found slain last Saturday in Holbrook road, near Halsted street, about two miles north of Chicago Heights. John Miller, Salvation Army leader of Chicago Heights, said that the woman was Mrs. Ida McCutcheon, a former school teacher of New Kensington, Pa. She appeared occasionally at the Army shelter, he said.

Police later, however, said they were not certain of this identification. The Mrs. McCutcheon in question was erroneously reported slain in Hammond, Ind., in 1924. She turned up alive later. At that time she was 45 years old. The woman killed Saturday was not over 35 years old, it was said. Police are investigating reports that the victim may have been a daughter of Mrs. McCutcheon, also named Ida.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

A picture of Miss Joan Arthur, assistant director of dramatics at De Paul university, appeared in the home edition of yesterday's TRIBUNE as that of Jean Arthur, movie actress being sued by a theatrical agent. Miss Joan Arthur is not involved in the suit in any way.

Funeral services for James Abbott, veteran court reporter, who died Sunday, will be held at 1 p. m. today in the chapel at 2701 North Clark street, and not at 1:30 p. m., as was stated yesterday.

TAMMANY CHIEF SAID TO FAVOR ECONOMY PLAN

Pay Cuts Are Included in Berry Project.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 21.—[Special.]—That wing of city hall known as the "letting off steam room" was again filled with citizens and clamor for municipal economy this afternoon as the board of aldermen held a public hearing on the town's favorite punching bag—the $557,141,022 budget.

The real decision, however, as to whether the pruning shears should be used was taking place in another part of town. There John F. Curry, Tammany hall leader, and John H. McCooey, Brooklyn's boss, were putting their heads and two and two together. It was pretty well established tonight that something would be done.

Study Berry's Plan.

The two political "financial" experts loked over a plan drawn up by Controller Charles W. Berry. That probably will be released in detail to the public tomorow. If Mr. Berry's plan becomes an actuality a lot of salaries will be cut—possibly 10 per cent. Now that the election is over it is believed the day for reformation has arrived.

Discussing his plan with the press, Mr. Berry prefaced his revelations by declaring the "city is in as sound a financial position as it ever was."

Efforts Toward Economy.

"It is ridiculous," said the controller, "to say the December pay rolls will not be met or to intimate that New York faces a financial crisis." Berry's plan to reorganize the city's credit is to:

Effect immediate economies, with salary reductions for all jobs for which the city is permitted to fix the pay.

Repeal by the legislature by Feb. 1 of mandatory salary laws which now make it impossible for the city to reduce the pay of policemen, firemen and teachers a month before the 1933 tax rate has to be fixed.

Consolidate and eliminate several bureaus in the city and county. He says these reforms cannot be put into effect in time to aid the 1933 budget.

The largest crowd of the present season's talkfests jammed into the aldermanic meeting this afternoon. The citizens' budget commission led the parade. Peter Grimm, chairman, started, demanding the aldermen cut their own salaries.

Meanwhile the aldermen proposed to take up the budget section by section and see what could be done about reducing it. They merely were going through the motions as they awaited word tomorrow from Curry and McCooey and a peep at the detailed Berry plan. The project was regarded as Tammany's capitulation to the bankers.

STATE TO NEED 45 MILLION FOR RELIEF OF IDLE

Legislators Told This Will Last Until June, 1933.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—The third interim report of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission was made public here today containing an estimate that 45 million dollars will be needed to furnish relief to the idle in the state for the next seven months. The report was distributed to legislators reconvening to consider additional measures for raising state relief funds.

The estimate of 45 million dollars covers the period from Dec. 1 to June 30, 1933, and represents only the amount that will have to be raised from state or federal sources if the present level of relief is to be maintained, the report states. The report estimates that an additional four million dollars will be available through diversion of the counties' shares of the state gas tax and other sums from other public and private sources.

Unless there soon is a marked improvement in employment conditions the need for state or federal funds during the last six months of 1933 will be considerably in excess of 31 million dollars, which is the amount estimated for the last half of this year, the report says.

Collect Total of 39 Million Dollars.

During the period Feb. 6, 1932, through Nov. 15 a total of $39,053,150 has been granted from state and federal funds for relief in Illinois, of which $38,119,324.64 has been allocated, leaving only $933,925.36 in the hands of the commission, according to the report. The allocations were made to sixty-three counties, in which 91 per cent of the state's population resided in 1930.

Of the total allocations $33,982,798 was allocated to Cook county and $5,851,026 to downstate counties.

The commission further estimated that in October last the number of unemployed in Chicago was between 750,000 and 800,000, or half the total number that were employed in 1930. In September the number of families receiving aid in Cook county was 145,000, and the single persons on the relief rolls numbered 19,800.

74,400 Families Downstate.

The commission estimated that some 74,400 families were receiving federal aid in downstate counties in September. The number of unemployed in the state was estimated at between 1,300,000 and 1,400,000 in October, or about two-fifths of the number employed in 1930.

In the administration of relief during the period Feb. 6 through Oct. 31, the report states, 90.93 per cent of all funds spent went for direct relief, 7.25 per cent went for salaries, and 1.77 per cent went for expenses. Of the percentage spent for relief 73.75 per cent went directly to provide food for the idle.

In response to a recommendation of a subcommittee of the commission on taxation and expenditures that salaries of employes and other expenses be reduced, the commission reported that it has adopted a new standard scale of salaries for its employes and set up similar standard scales for its agencies.

The Cook county bureau of public welfare will effect savings of $10,000 a month as a result of its new scale of salaries, it was announced by Joseph L. Moss, director. The commission reduced its own pay roll by $484 for the month of November, a reduction of 3.3 per cent, which will amount to almost $6,000 on a yearly basis.

AL SMITH ASSERTS FEDERAL RELIEF IS BOUND BY RED TAPE

New York, Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Speaking tonight at the American Women's association, on behalf of the $15,000,000 drive of the emergency relief committee, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith declared that the federal government is so impeded by red tape and hindrances that adequate relief is not to be expected of it. He took the Reconstruction Finance corporation to task for its tardiness in acting on applications for loans.

"The federal government," he said, "is tied up in such a mass of red tape and bureaucracy that it is difficult to do anything with it. Now it's after election and this is not a political speech. I am just stating facts, because it doesn't hurt our public officials once in a while to be checked up a little bit."

TEN ASSISTANTS OF TAX BOARD OPEN HEARINGS

Hearing of complaints on personal property assessments was speeded up to a rate of 300 a day yesterday, when ten assistants to the board of tax appeals opened preliminary hearings. Their findings are ratified later by George F. Nixon and Fred W. Brummel, members of the board. The assistants hear only routine complaints, and on cases where the assessments are below $1,000.

William Lycurgus Taylor, 850 Sheridan road, Evanston, president of the Continental and United States Freight companies, appeared before the board yesterday and protested the boosting of the assessed valuation of his personalty, which was raised by County Assessor Jacobs from $1,293 to $55,000. Taylor filed a schedule for the lower amount with the Evanston township assessor, but did not swear to it.

In a memorandum to the appeals board, Assessor Jacobs stated that Taylor is reputed to be worth $3,000,000, owns a ten room house valued at $100,000 and carries $125,000 in life insurance. Taylor was instructed to return tomorrow morning with a list of securities which he owns.

Nathan Elson, 744 Sheridan road, Wilmette, head of the Ben Bey Cigar company, protested an assessed value of $5,500 to which the assessor had raised his schedule of $420 full value. Before the board he admitted under questioning that he had failed to schedul. all his property. Nixon and Brommel confirmed the assessor's figures.

bility for the greatest measure of relief on Cook county," said Judge Horner when he was asked to speak. "I think it is safe, Mr. Schnackenberg, to place that responsibility on Cook county. The situation calls for courageous action."

Unanimous for Bill's Passage.

Speaker Shanahan, Chairman Ryerson, Corporation Counsel Sexton and Senator Richard J. Barr urged adoption of the complete program. Schnackenberg mildly continued his protests against increased real estate taxation, but the upshot of the conference was an otherwise unanimous decision to pass the bills at once.

Only on the first measure taken, the Igoe $17,000,000 bond, was there any prolonged discussion on the floor. Schnackenberg renewed his criticism, but he was answered by a number of members, including Le Roy N. Green [Rep., Rockford], Howard L. Doyle [Dem., Decatur], Michael L. Igoe [Dem., Chicago], James T. Burns Dem., Kankakee], Dennis J. Collins [Rep., De Kalb], and Roger F. Little [Rep., Champaign].

The optional county sales tax measure, the Tice bill, had the nearest squeak in showing the two-thirds total of 102, a mark it reached only after several belated votes came in and there were two or three changes.

The senate, which had been marking time while waiting for the house, still had to act on the Igoe, Meents, and Tice bills and held a brief evening session and advanced the two house measures—the Igoe and Tice bills—to second reading. On the Meents bill the senate needs only to concur in house amendments, but for that it requires a two-thirds vote which was not present tonight. Tomorrow the senate will take up all three of the measures and it is believed it can send them all to Gov. Emmerson on Wednesday.

Because he felt it desirable to be accessible to the legislators and other supporters during his visit, Judge Horner put up at the Democratic hotel, the St. Nicholas, and it was not until after dinner that he called on Gov. Emmerson at the executive mansion.

Confer on Budget Proposals.

Before his departure Judge Horner and Gov. Emmerson granted a joint interview to newspaper men following the conference. What they said was to the effect that they had gone through the proposals for the new budget, department by department, and Judge Horner said that some valuable information and suggestions had been given him. Consolidation of a number of departments was proposed, but no definite program of economy had been agreed upon.

The governor elect also said that Gov. Emmerson showed him that the estimated salvage and the appropriations up to Jan. 1 will be ten million dollars, this amount having been saved out of the biennial appropriations for 1931 and 1932.

Judge Horner also announced that since all the department reports have not been received that Gov. Emmerson had invited him to come again to Springfield to look over the delayed ones as soon as they are turned in.

Judge Horner expects to visit the mansion again tomorrow and that he looks forward with pleasure to a talk with Mrs. Emmerson.

OPPOSED BY REALTY MEN.

The Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards yesterday telegraphed its members throughout the state urging a united stand against the Igoe bill authorizing Cook county to issue $17,000,000 in bonds for relief. The board opposes the measure or any similar bills because they would impose an additional tax on realty.

STATE WELFARE PARLEY TO BE HELD AT U. OF I.

The state conference on social welfare will be held on the University of Illinois campus in Urbana on Nov. 28, 29, 30, and Dec. 1, it was announced yesterday. The Rev. Frederic Siedenburg, S. J., formerly of Loyola university, now executive dean of Detroit university, will preside at the conference and give the presidential address on "The Charter of Human Security."

The four day session will include discussions on ways of handling the present relief problems, basic theories as to the relationships between public and private agencies, and legislative changes proposed. Gov. Emmerson and Governor Elect Horner have been invited to address the dinner meeting on Wednesday evening, Nov. 30.

What To Do If You Get Gas and Pains After Eating

A Discovery That Throws New Light on Stomach Distress . . . What You Do

Scientists have made important, recent discoveries in relation to stomach disorders, and have developed a strange herb mixture that has gained such amazing stories of relief from sufferers that it is often shipped into single communities in carload lots, so great is the call for it. Never in the history of American proprietary medicine has a remedy swept over the country like it has. Coupon below is good for bottle, free.

On every side, people are telling wonder stories about it. People who had suffered for years, tried scores of different things without success, and then after as little as one week of this new treatment, claimed that it has practically changed their lives.

With it, it is said, a person whose stomach has been "bad" for perhaps years, can now eat normal meals, normal foods in plenty without dread of pain and suffering. You eat regular meals, just like any one else, take a tablespoonful of the mixture after each meal, and that's all. No rigid dieting; no constant doctoring. You feel freedom from pain, gain strength, vigor and "pep."

What It Is

It is called Konjola, and most readers of this have probably heard of it already. It is a simple compound of some 32 different ingredients; 22 of which are the extracts of Nature's own roots and herbs, and not one a habit forming drug. Also, Konjola contains no alcohol. Science still is in the dark as to exactly how or why it works the way it does. But its peculiar scientific function is to mix with the food in the stomach and help Nature's weakened effort to throw off the poisons that foster stomach troubles, rheumatism and neuritis, and to permit the kidneys and liver to function properly. In most cases results are felt almost immediately. Users have claimed virtual health miracles for it. In cases of ordinary stomach distress, it acts within a few minutes to stop gas and pains, sourness, bloat and stuffiness. Incidentally, it is tremendously active in cases of rheumatism and neuritis. It can be obtained at any drug store under the name, KONJOLA, or mail coupon for bottle to try. In view of the amazing things stomach sufferers, run down and sickly people have claimed for it, it is well worth a trial. It must be a remarkable medicine or so many people wouldn't use it.

THE WAR WHOOP

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by N. C. Wyeth . . . inspired by the blood-curdling yells of war-mad savages, whose barbaric cruelty held America's early settlers in a constant state of terror. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

Copr., 1932, The American Tobacco Co.

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

BUSINESS MEN DEMAND FACTS ON WEST PARKS

They Want to Know What Is in the Audit.

Business men of the west side were arranging yesterday through Kiwanis clubs to take action concerning the "hopeless insolvency" of the west park system and the refusal of W. R. James, president of the park board, to make public the most recent audit of the board's books.

Herman Ockenga, 305 North Long avenue, president of the Austin Kiwanis club, and Frank J. Gillespie, 220 South Ashland avenue, president of the Mid-Town Kiwanis club, were said to be leaders in the movement for investigation of the park board's affairs. With Paul H. Beck, president of the Northwest-Town Kiwanis club, cooperating.

The business men contrasted the administration of the west parks with the administration of the Lincoln park system, and they reported that the comparisons are odious insofar as the west parks system is concerned.

Hit Park Appointments.

The commissioners in control of both park systems were appointed by Gov. Emmerson, and it is with the west park appointments that the west side leaders find the most fault, according to their spokesmen.

They said that Gov. Emmerson gave the Lincoln park system a wise and economical business management under the leadership of Warren Wright, president of the board. On the west side, they said, James, a personal friend of Gov. Emmerson, has allowed politics to rule the park system with the result that property owners will be paying for the next ten or twenty years in an effort to settle the debts contracted.

A political audit was made of the west park board's books up to March 1, 1932, which was not satisfactory to the citizens' committee on public expenditures. This committee, through Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and Northwestern railway, and D. F. Kelly, president of The Fair, offered help to the local governments in balancing budgets and meeting other financial difficulties. At the committee's request a new audit of the west park's books was made. It is this showing of the park board's financial condition which President James has refused to make public. The report of the audit has been labeled "too hot to give out."

Some Comparisons Made.

The west side business men, lacking complete data on the James administration, nevertheless pointed out that there are only 823.57 acres in the west parks whereas the Lincoln park system has 867.5 acres. Then they made the following comparison of the pay rolls of the two park districts from Dec. 1, 1931, to March 15, 1932:

December, 1931	$185,000	$64,000
January, 1932	176,000	51,000
February, 1932	175,000	33,000
Half March, 1932	63,000	16,000

It was in March that President James promised the citizens' committee to dismiss all unnecessary park employés, according to information given the business men. They said they learned also that James fired 750 park employés about the time of the April primary in which Gov. Emmerson's political allies were trying to nominate Omer N. Custer as Republican candidate for governor.

Last year, according to the recollections of the Kiwanians, President Wright of the Lincoln park board promised the taxpayers of that district a cut of one-third in the tax levy. The west side taxpayers had to carry the costs of useless park employés to further the political ambitions of west park commissioners, the business men complained.

"We want that audit made public," they said.

WILLIAM KIRBY ROBINSON.
[Acme Photo.]

FUGITIVE, BACK AFTER 34 YEARS, GRANTED PARDON

Robber Who Gave Up Gets Thanksgiving Gift.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—A desire to be square with the law by serving a sentence imposed on him thirty-four years ago was rewarded today by an unconditional pardon from President Hoover to William Kirby Robinson, now 65 years old.

Early in October Robinson appeared at the United States penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., and offered to serve a four year sentence imposed on him in 1898 on a charge of robbing a postoffice.

No records were available, but Robinson explained the circumstances of the crime. He said he had been convicted at Fort Smith, Ark., in 1898 and was on the way to the penitentiary when he picked the lock on his handcuffs, leaped from the window of a moving passenger train near Coffeyville, Kas., and escaped.

Moves to California.

From there he went to Galveston, Tex. Later he moved to California and married. As the years passed there always was a living to make for his family so he did not find his way clear to return to the prison and pay his debt to society. Then he was divorced and later remarried. Finally he prospered. He now owns a large tourist camp and a store at Westmoreland, Cal. His home is at Cabazon.

Last fall he decided to return to face the penalty for the crime.

"All through the years," he said today, "I had that struggle with my conscience. I realized that the right course for me to take was to surrender to whatever judgment the government would impose on me. It was my desire to do right which led me to take the step and return to Leavenworth."

Robinson said he discussed the problem with his wife and she also agreed his decision was right.

Serves Time in Jail.

Since his return to Leavenworth he has been held in jail by the government. Until two weeks ago he was in jail at Leavenworth. Then he was taken to Wyandotte county.

Today Elmer Harman, deputy United States marshal, told Robinson the pardon had been issued.

Robinson, preparing to leave the jail, said at least twelve persons at Westmoreland knew his story. Senator Shortridge of California and Representative Phil Swing knew it in 1920. They sought to obtain a pardon for him during the Harding administration but failed.

Robinson is going back to his wife, his home, and his business. He is going back to the friends who respect him in the community. He is going back to a future insured by good investments and a sound banking account.

BIGAMIST BREAKS DOWN, CONFESSES SLAYING HIS WIFE

Gus Cerney, 27 years old, under arrest at the detective bureau, confessed yesterday that he killed his wife, Idema Mitchell Cerney, whose body was found Oct. 22 in the Mojave desert near Los Angeles.

Cerney had already admitted that he was a bigamist and that his lawful wife was living in Carbondale, Ill., when he went through a marriage ceremony with the red haired 21 year old Idema in California, about eighteen months ago. She had told him she expected to inherit $8,000, but when she received the legacy it was only $800.

Disappointment at the small sum received is believed by the police to have caused Cerney to kill the girl. This he denied, maintaining that he and Idema had quarreled over some trivial matter. Arrested here at the request of the Los Angeles police, Cerney had until yesterday denied killing the girl. He broke down and changed his story after the police told him of the blood stains on the floor and seat of the car in which he rode back from the desert to Los Angeles.

LOSES LIFE BY GAS.

CUT RATE TAXI PERMIT REVOKED BY COUNCILMEN

Order Inquiry at Secret Meeting.

The city council subcommittee on taxicabs held a star chamber session yesterday, out of which came an announcement that a thorough investigation of the taxicab situation in Chicago is to be started Friday. The investigation will be for the purpose of revising the present ordinance fixing taxicab rates and conditions of operation.

An immediate result of the aldermen's meeting behind closed doors was the revocation of the permission hitherto granted the Public Taxi Service company to use meters on its cabs or to pick up passengers on the street. This company operates 22 cabs at rates below those charged by the large companies.

How to Get a License.

Under the present ordinance, a taxicab operator must obtain a permit to do business from the public vehicle license commission, and to obtain that permit must demonstrate that public convenience and necessity demand more cabs on the streets of the city. Lawyers for the Yellow and Checker cab companies have appeared before the commission to oppose issuance of permits to the Public company and other independent operators.

The Public company never got such a permit, but was allowed to operate through the intervention of Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] and other members of the council, pending a redraft of the taxicab ordinance.

Deputy Police Commissioner Alcock, chairman of the license commission, and Lieut. James Killackey, its secretary, notified the council subcommittee that they could not be responsible for the violation of the present ordinance through permitting the company to operate without a permit.

Lee Daniels, attorney for the Public company, said that he could find no basis in law for the belief that the aldermen or any other city officials could be held responsible in case of accidents. The city has a right, he said, to grant the company permission to operate.

May Continue to Answer Calls.

The Public company must take the meters off its cabs, and may not pick up passengers on the streets, but may continue to answer calls from patrons out of its garages, the subcommittee ruled.

It was reported that the committee's action yesterday was hastened by the announcement of Robert McLaughlin, former president of the Checker Cab company, that he is reentering the taxicab business at the head of a cut rate company. McLaughlin headed the Checker company from 1924 to about a year ago. Another factor was the numerous requests for permission to operate independent cabs.

Those present at the conference yesterday were Ald. Bowler, chairman of the local transportation committee, Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the committee on traffic and public safety, Ald. John Toman [23d], chairman of the joint taxicab subcommittee of those two committees, and Aldermen William A. Rowan [10th], Jacob M. Arvey [24th], Thomas J. O'Grady [14th], and B. A. Cronson [4th].

INSANITY AND THE CRIMINAL.

A youth who has just climaxed his career with murder and rape has passed through the Juvenile Detention home, the Parental home, and the Dixon Hospital for Epileptics and Feeble Minded. He has decorated his career with several escapes and acts of violence while at large. He has terrorized his family while at home, carrying a gun and threatening to shoot his mother. In short, he has been known to be a dangerous character and has been supposedly a subject of official surveillance and sometimes of restraint. He has given repeated warning for a long time that he ought not to be at large, but somehow our agencies of control have failed to keep him in custody. It seems to us that somewhere along the line a diagnosis and prognosis of his case might have been had and appropriate action taken for protecting society from him. If at Dixon it was learned that he is a dangerous defective, why was he not sent to an institution for the criminal insane? If being known to be a defective of dangerous possibilities, when he escaped why was he left at large?

It is evident, at any rate, that he ought not to have been at large, yet was at large; that he was known by public authorities or should have been known by them to be dangerous, yet remained free. It has cost a life of one victim and a frightful experience for another to bring him once more to official notice and action.

It is to be hoped this action will be final, but there is nothing in the previous official handling of his case to encourage hope that it will be final. His case is a warning, but there have been others before it. He is a murderer and a rapist, but if he is insane in the legal sense he will be maintained at the cost of the state for as long as he lives, and while he lives there is some reason to fear that he will escape again, perhaps to commit more atrocities. Obviously he has relied upon his alleged insanity to give him immunity from punishment.

We think his case, as well as many others of the same character, ought to be set off against the false sentiment which prevents us from disposing of such individuals in the only way to be relied upon for assured protection. While alive they are a perpetual threat to society, since our means and methods of restraint seem to give no assurance of certain restraint. Innocent people pay for their unreliability, and yet science is able to discover dangerous and incurable mental types, and this knowledge would justify public authority in disposing of individuals who are more dangerous than sane malefactors as conclusively as the latter are disposed of.

Our policy is that because a dangerous defective is not "responsible" in a moral sense for what he does he shall not be effectually prevented from doing it. This is false logic and false humanitarianism. It ignores the facts and the right of society to adequate protection. It is not humane even from the point of view of the interest of the criminal insane, whom at best we shut up when they would better be freed forever from their affliction.

But whether we are ready to think through to this conclusion or not, it is tragically demonstrated too often that, though we rely upon restraints, we have not yet learned how to make them even as reliable as they can be.

NATIONAL DEFENSE AND LOCAL GRAFT.

Discussing the possibilities of a permanent concentration of the United States fleet in the Pacific, rather than as hitherto in the Atlantic, a special dispatch to THE TRIBUNE from its Washington bureau remarks that in recent years the naval establishment has come more and more to be regarded by the states of the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard as a huge 300 to 350 million dollar melon ready to be divided up as soon as the naval appropriation bill is signed. Congressmen are constantly inquiring of the navy department whether their respective states are getting their fair share of the swag—that is, the money spent by the navy and also by the personnel of the ships in the ports where they base. This runs into millions and already protests have been made from Newport, Portsmouth, Norfolk, etc., against the present retention of the fleet in the Pacific.

Both the navy and the army have been exploited for years by this selfish sectional influence. The retention of obsolete army posts has been and is still a scandal, involving not only a waste of public money but a scattering of military forces which prevents the strategic disposal of the troops, proper modern organization and training for modern war. Almost or perhaps every secretary of war since the Spanish war has recommended the abandonment of most of these posts, which were established to deal with the Indian menace or other conditions now passed. Special commissions also have urged their abandonment, but congress has not been willing to act for economy and military efficiency at the sacrifice of local pride and profit. Exactly the same experience has followed the navy. Even under present pressure for tax relief and federal economy congress has refused to permit the abandonment of unnecessary navy yards and bases. The wire pulling and trading of votes for the protection of local pork have been too strong for considerations of economy and efficient defense.

The same forces will resist the disposition of the navy on sound strategic principles. The opinion of our naval and military authorities and the principles of our national policies should control the organization and disposition of our forces on land and sea. But the highly organized political influence of the seaboard states will veto national consideration unless the rest of the states unite to compel the adoption of a program in the national interest. The middle states are taxed as much as the seaboard to maintain the navy. They should insist that the navy be located according to defense considerations and that waste on unnecessary navy yards be cut out. They ought also to rise above local selfishness and surrender the local graft on obsolete army posts. As long as the latter are maintained seaboard demands for the retention of unnecessary navy yards will be in some degree justified. All the states should concentrate on the common interest, which is in economy and efficiency. The present situation defeats both and is a common evil for which local pork is no compensation.

While our government is urging reduction of armament not only in the interest of peace but in that of economy, it is not very consistent to go on with expenditures which might be eliminated without injury to our defenses and therefore without relation to any international action.

WHO IS PROTECTING THE WEST PARK BOARD?

Every one who is at all in touch with the local governments of Chicago has long suspected that the west parks today present the prize exhibit of maladministration in this community. Of all the major governments, the west park board is farthest in arrears in the payment of its employes. The facts so far revealed confirm the suspicion that no major government in Chicago has done so little to bring its expenditures into line with its revenues. No major government in Chicago has more brazenly destroyed its credit by misapplying taxes collected to meet the charges on its funded debt. And, of course, no major government in Chicago has been more completely dominated by barrel house politics. The money which taxpayers in the west park district have contributed for parks has been frittered away in providing jobs for politicians.

These facts and suspicions are pretty well confirmed even in the official audits of the west park books. An unofficial audit was recently made by George W. Rossetter & Co. at the request of the Sargent citizens' committee, an audit which it seems fair to assume was made by men who wore no rose tinted spectacles. The results of that examination of the books have not been made public. Some gentlemen are out of town. Other gentlemen cannot venture to make the findings public without the approval of still other gentlemen who have withheld the necessary authorization. "It will be given out tomorrow. No, it will be given out next week. No, we cannot say when it will be given out." Etc., etc.

One wonders what all this evasion and covering up is about. Who's afraid of what? What justification can there be for secrecy in the financial affairs of a public body? What does the audit reveal which needs to be hidden?

The president of the west park board is Mr. W. R. James. Presumably he has a copy of the Rossetter report. If so, will he make it public or explain publicly why he will not?

The west park commissioners were appointed by Gov. Emmerson. Does he assume any responsibility for the conduct of his appointees? Does he favor the bottling up of the report?

If these gentlemen will not act, it is plainly the duty of the state's attorney of Cook county to acquaint himself with the facts. If he will not operate on his own initiative, will Judge Prystalski, chief justice of the Criminal court of Cook county, also sit by in patience?

THE WISCONSIN IDEA.

The Whitcomb Locomotive company of Rochelle, Ill., recently acquired the business, inventory, and good will of the Milwaukee Locomotive Manufacturing company. The announcement of the transfer did not say whether the acquisition of a Wisconsin corporation by an Illinois corporation had anything to do with the tax policies of the two states. It would be interesting to know whether this is another instance of the consequences of Wisconsin's policy of soaking the manufacturers, thereby driving them out of the state and depriving their employés of an opportunity to earn a living.

Editorial of the Day

ONE WAY TO DO IT.

[Baltimore Sun.]

Refusal of the municipal authorities of Milwaukee to meet the expectations of the taxpayers in reduction of the budget led to a movement to limit the tax rate and the budget by referendum. The plan did not affect debt charges, the schools, the police, or the fire department. For all other expenditures a total of $17,000,000 was set and the proposal was approved by the people last Tuesday by a vote of 94,037 to 81,061. The limitation is to run for two years.

This is a drastic method of securing economy—an unsound method—but it is indicative of how far the taxpayer will go when he believes that those he elects to office will not practice the economies he believes should be practiced. And there is one thing to be said for the proposal: it at least shows how the public thinks the business of budget making, in times of financial stress, should be done. The usual plan is for department heads to submit estimates of what they believe they should have and then a certain amount of pruning is done. Under the Milwaukee plan officialdom is told: "You can have so much money. Make it do."

In Baltimore, for example, the board of estimates did not first endeavor to ascertain what was the total amount of taxes that could reasonably be expected to be collected and say to the various municipal agencies that that was what they had to spend. Instead, the cart is put before the horse and, after adding up total departmental demands, the taxpayers will be told: "This is the sum you must pay."

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

OLD ART HENNING, our valued war correspondent at Washington, says the props have already been knocked out from under the proposed discussion between Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt on the war debt matter because congress has already shown that it won't stand for cancellation or further postponement of payment. This being the case, Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt will have to talk about the weather unless some other topic is introduced. Mr. Roosevelt might say that it seems very warm and pleasant in Washington after living away up in Albany, and Mr. Hoover could warily reply that while Washington is lovely in the spring it's mighty hot there in summer, and so on, but it seems silly for two eminent statesmen to waste their time that way, so we suggest as an agreeable topic that they talk about beer. Real beer at five cents a glass that one may drink without being shot in his rear tires by a prohibition enforcement official. Five cent, real beer! Now there is something to talk about.

"I DON'T SEE anything to be thankful for this year," writes Pug Nose Puggie, "except the new Linebook." Yes, indeed, Puggie, and it is indeed a Linebook to be thankful for what with all the gems of poetry and prose within the gorgeous cover which Bill Welsh has made. But also, Puggie, be thankful for your sweet little pug nose, than which there is nothing more truly adorable, and likewise turkeys were never so cheap as they will be this Thanksgiving. So 'tis said, but something seems to tell us there's a catch in that somewhere. But, anyhow, the Linebook is the same in price it's always been, ten cents, one dime, the tenth part of a dollah. By mail 13 cents.

QUESTION AND ANSWER.

QUESTION.

Will love find splendor and a permanent peace
In sure detachment through a quick release?

Can calm be found below descending rain?

Or shall we live, and go our separate ways,
Bury the Aprils and the timeless Mays?

ANSWER.

A single tree that stands rooted, alone,
Knows naught of marble or eventual stone.

Hears but the cry the lifted arrow makes,

What shall you cling to in the fertile earth
But temporal freedom and another birth?

So notch your arrow to the tightened string—
And save your problem for another spring.

THAT NEW ORLEANS PROFESSOR who created a mild sensation last week by announcing that there was no such thing as a distinct type of southern girl should go a bit further and he would discover there is also no distinct type of northern girl, or eastern girl, or western girl. They're all completely standardized. The ambition of every girl these days, north, south, east and west, is to look like every other girl, and she does. They all have the same cut clothes, the same bored to tears and that "Oh, I just hate everything" expression and the same amount of lip stick and powder on and the same kind of hat with the same kind of devil-may-care tilt over one eye and the same or practically the same identical style of hair bob, and plucked eyebrows for one and all. We don't mind, they all look alike, although it makes 'em pretty hard to tell one from the other, but why do they all have to look so morose? What has made our girls all look alike, the machine age, Greta Garbo, jazz, or is life just become too dull for words? And, anyhow, why in heck do they look so morose?

SYMPTOMS OF MIGRAINE.

W. B. S., an intelligent, thoughtful, educated man, has had to wrestle with a form of migraine throughout an adult life of more than half a century. He has had help along the way, some of which has deserved the name while some has been otherwise, but in the main he has had to work out his own problem.

The migraine he writes about is that he knows. But everybody sees what he looks at through his own glasses. This story is taken virtually as he wrote it and tells the symptoms of the disorder as he has experienced them. Another man may have his migraine according to a somewhat different pattern. The next story is likewise a recital of W. B. S.' experiences and observations. It deals with prevention and cure of this kind of migraine.

For a day or two before the attack the migraine subject is likely to be irritable and jerky. His muscles may twitch, especially those of the face and eyelids. At night he may be awakened by jerking of the arms and legs and itching about the nose and mouth. Sleep is light and restless, but the night immediately preceding the attack it may be dopey. While the seizure is brewing the appetite is likely to be ravenous.

The mental state just preceding the attack closely resembles that of a person who has taken too much caffein or drunk too much coffee or tea. The subject cannot "let down" or stop the pounding of his heart or make his mind behave. So much for the period in which the storm is brewing. Now for the sensations which are noted during the attack.

These generally come on during the morning and after some stress or imprudence of the previous day. The subject is lethargic and inert and feels himself unequal to any task. He lacks appetite and his food does not taste right. He has a slight dull ache in or just above the eyes, his vision is changed and blurred, and if he wears glasses he feels that they do not fit, or he cleans them frequently. Flashes of light are often noted. His feet and hands are cold and clammy.

The tongue is coated and is apt to be large and show indentations of the teeth. Nausea is common, but vomiting is liable to be absent or to give unsatisfactory results. The feeling is that thoroughly emptying the stomach would give relief, yet somehow vomiting fails to accomplish the result. The stomach continues to buck for hours or days. Food may remain there throughout the attack. The pulse is slow. The pain in the head generally starts in the region of the eyes and presently extends backward. In some instances it is limited to one side of the head, though in most cases it is not so circumscribed. It is a peculiar pain and is accompanied by various sensations seemingly located inside the skull cavity and described in various ways. The mind is sluggish, refuses to do as it is bid; and names, facts, or dates cannot be recalled; words are misused; thinking is not clear; business letters are not composed in a way that satisfies. Nothing can be satisfactorily weighed or settled. The scalp may be tender. An attack may last only a few hours or it may hold on for a week.

NO IN EACH CASE.

N. H. writes: 1. My mother has rheumatism in arms and hands. She wants to know if eating ripe tomatoes makes it worse.

2. Does eating any acid food make it worse?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. No.

IT COULD BE DONE.

R. writes: Is the method of giving strong medicines to purge dropsy away successful?

REPLY.

There are various medicines that are used successfully to get rid of dropsy. Since dropsy is a symptom it may return after removal. In some cases its removal is inadvisable. The patient is less well off than when he is waterlogged.

COGNOVIT NOTE.

Rensselaer, Ind., Nov. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In December, 1931, I signed a cognovit note for $300. It was noninterest bearing and due July 1, 1932. There were no indorsers. I have been unable to pay any of the principal or interest. The interest is 7 per cent after July 1. 1. When would this interest have to be paid, or rather when is it due? Is it customary to pay interest in advance? 2. What does cognovit mean, or how does that note differ from any other? 3. Since I own no property, have no bank account, not even a car, is the note collectible legally? This note was signed in settlement of a compromise court case in Ohio. 4. Could any court action be brought if I paid the interest only? W. S.

1. On the bare facts stated we assume that it is payable annually, not in advance. We could advise to better advantage if the wording of the entire instrument were before us.

2. It is the third person singular perfect tense of a Latin word meaning "to know." The old custom in naming such documents was the same as that followed in naming "bulls," etc., issued by the pope. They were called by the introductory Latin words. The cognovit is the recognition by the defendant that judgment may be entered against him without service of process.

3. If you have no property or income the note cannot be collected now.

4. Yes; no payment of less than the full amount due will protect you.

ENCROACHMENT.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Ten years ago "A" and "B" had a dispute over a property line, "B" claiming "A" had a fence eight inches on his property. The property was never surveyed to determine the exact location of the dividing line. Three years ago "A" built a garage. Eight inches projected on "B's" property. "B" good naturedly stated to "A" that it was on his line, but it didn't make any difference. "B" wills the property to a daughter, "C," who quarrels with "A" and tells him that she will have the garage torn down because it is on her property. The property line remains unsurveyed. Can "C" carry out her threat? A. C.

Section 16 of the article on adjoining landowners in corpus juris reads in part as follows: "An encroachment is deemed a private nuisance which an adjoining owner, who is thereby deprived of the complete enjoyment of his land, may generally abate, but in removing the encroachment care must be taken to remove no more than actually encroaches and to refrain from causing unnecessary damage."

Section 17 is in part: "But where the encroachment is slight and the cost of removal will be great and the corresponding benefit to the adjoining owner small, or compensation in damages can be had, the court will ordinarily decline to compel the removal and will leave the party complaining to his remedy at law."

Section 19 is in part: "The owner encroached upon may, in addition to other relief or by a separate action, recover such damages from the wrongdoer as he may show himself entitled to."

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 22, 1916.

LONDON.—Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria-Hungary died last night at 9 o'clock at Schoenbrunn castle, according to a Reuter dispatch received here from Vienna by way of Amsterdam. Although only the briefest announcement of the emperor's death was received, it caused little surprise. The course of the monarch's illness and political events in the Austrian capital in the last few days have indicated that the end was expected and being prepared for by the Austro-Hungarian government. A previous announcement from Vienna stated that it had been decided to associate the heir to the throne, Archduke Charles Francis, in the government of the country, and that he would assume the position on Dec. 2, on the sixty-eighth anniversary of Emperor Francis Joseph's ascension to the throne. The death of Emperor Francis Joseph is not expected to have any appreciable effect on the attitude of Austria-Hungary in the war. His death is a remarkable climax to the long list of tragedies in the Hapsburg family. He dies in the midst of the world's greatest war, which he himself largely brought about by his determination to avenge the assassination of his heir, the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, as the result of an alleged Serbian conspiracy.

LONDON.—Craiova, the capital of western Wallachia, has fallen to the Teutons. With its capture Gen. von Falkenhayn achieved one of the most sweeping victories of the war and has paved the way for the possible investment of all Rumania. Details of all the important movements of the last three days are lacking. But it is clear that nearly 2,000 square miles of Rumanian territory have been conquered by the invaders; that control of the entire railroad system of western Wallachia has come into his hands.

PARIS.—Troops of the allies are pressing the Germano-Bulgarian rear guard detachments to the north of Monastir, according to the official announcement on the progress of hostilities in the orient given out by the French war office.

NEW LONDON, Conn.—The German merchant submarine Deutschland, with a $2,000,000 cargo and official mail for Emperor Wilhelm, made another start for Bremen, its dash on Nov. 17 having been frustrated when it sank a convoying tug, necessitating a return to port for repairs. Paul Koenig, its skipper, changed his tactics today, for instead of stealing out to sea under the cover of darkness, as was the case last week, he boldly steered down the harbor in daylight and without convoy.

NEW YORK.—The United States Steel corporation tonight announced an increase of 10 per cent in the wages of the employés of its steel and iron companies, effective Dec. 15 next. Wage and salary advances in other departments of the corporation also will be equitably adjusted, it is stated. The increase affects in all about 200,000 employés, and probably adds nearly $20,000,000 to the corporation's annual pay roll. Salary increases amounting to $1,147,180 for 18,400 employés of the city of New York are provided for in the 1917 budget. From Boston comes word of a 10 per cent wage increase in all the mills of the American Woolen company.

IN SEARCH OF A WARRANT.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—This morning, in an attempt to obtain service on a hit and run driver who smashed into us last night, I set out in search of a warrant. Not wishing to go on any wild goose chase, I inquired of both the local police station and of Police 1313 as to the correct place to obtain a warrant, and was assured emphatically in both places that the 47th street court was the place to get it.

Arriving there, I was informed by the warrant clerk that I must go to the Automobile court at 11th and State. No, he didn't know why they had both told me to come there—they sent a lot of cases to that court that didn't belong there.

Somewhat disconcerted, I wended my way onward to the warrant clerk on the eighth floor at the 11th street court. Here I met up with a most engaging personage affectionately called Eddie by his associates. From time to time, after the exhausting ordeal of typing two or three warrants, Eddie must wander out into the hall for awhile, once to get cigarets, the other times perhaps a drink of water. After one hour and a half of this Eddie finally informed me that I'd have to get an O. K. from the state's attorney (Lovelace) before I could obtain the warrant, as no one had been injured seriously in the accident. Mr. Lovelace, busy as he was, was kind and considerate and the O. K. was soon obtained.

Back to more waiting with Eddie, who, after taking three or four other people who came in after I did, finally managed to pound out the desired paper two hours after I had first entered the office.

I submit that no department is equipped to render justice to the people deserving it under such conditions. I suggest the chief of police keep his men informed of the knowledge essential to those needing it to preclude unnecessary inconvenience in the future.

If you wish to spend a quiet morning drop up and see Eddie. You'd be surprised how the time goes. But don't try to get a warrant from him. Mon Dieu, no! If one wants justice one goes to—well, you tell me. VICTIM.

AFTER FIVE MONTHS.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—The Bowmanville National bank was closed June 20, nearly five months ago, and not a whisper of information has been given out during that time. The depositors are pretty well disgusted with the unnecessary delay and with the whole tribe of receivers. To say that it takes that long to get out a simple statement of a small bank like the Bowmanville is ridiculous. Speed is a word they don't know the meaning of, and they make no attempt to expedite anything that would relieve the anxiety of the depositors. J. H. M.

NOTHING TO TAKE.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—I still think THE TRIBUNE the World's Greatest Newspaper. But do your reporters trust entirely to their imagination in writing up such incidents as the holdup of the switchboard operator at the Marlborough last evening? The only thing right about it was that there was a holdup and that nothing was taken. The reason that nothing was taken was simply because there was nothing there except perhaps the switchboard operator's carfare.

Manager, the Marlborough Apartments.

WHAT PRICE EDUCATION!

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 13.—In Dr. Morrison's defense of the public school system in today's TRIBUNE he fails to make a case for that element most essential to the intelligent exercise of suffrage. Because 999 out of every 1,000 males over the age of ten can read the ballyhoo hogwash of the sporting pages or the female of the species is able to absorb the erudite outpourings of a movie fan magazine does not mean that common sense, a prime requisite to intelligent voting, has advanced in practice one iota since the dawn of universal education.

As long as the pliant mind is filled with such saccharine bilge as the history taught in public schools just so long will the common herd remain at the mercy of politicians and the ravenous tax eaters will gorge at the public crib. When a child is ready to leave the eighth grade—or even high school—he is chock full of the propaganda that all public men in history—from dog catchers to Presidents—are of some divine mold. If the child were taught the truth, to wit: that ninety-nine per cent of those on the public pay roll are of common clay and ninety-eight per cent rascals or incompetents, he would go forth into the world with his eyes open. As it is, until time disillusions him he is as naive as a Kansas yokel before a goat gland salesman. NED ALVORD.

GAS BILLS.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Many private businesses and some public utilities, for example, the Commonwealth Edison company, give their customers a discount if bills are paid before a set date. The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, however, adds a penalty of about 10 per cent to its bills if not paid within a certain time, though it tries to camouflage it by using the terms "gross bill" and "net bill."

With the sharp rise in the cost of gas to the consumer since the introduction of the natural—and admittedly cheaper—gas, and considering the shrinkage in incomes [those of the gas company employés included] and the fall of most commodity prices, this seems [foregoing an obvious pun] a bit like adding insult to injury; sanctioned, I suppose, by a magnate minded utility commission. W.

BEER AND MILK.

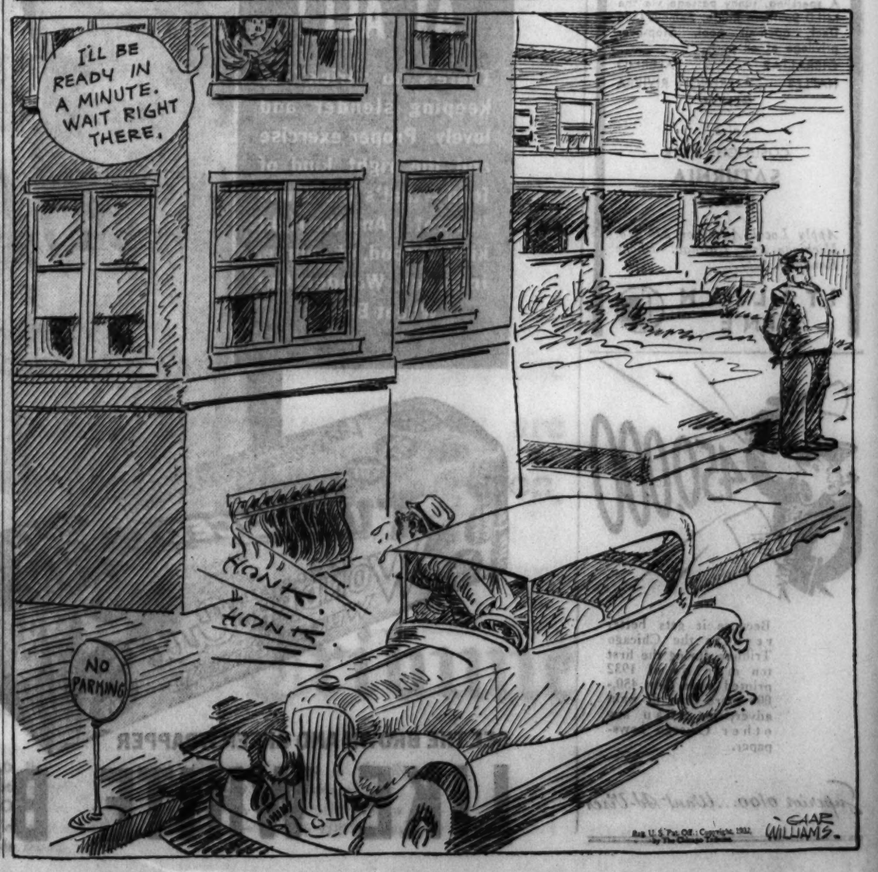

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Mr. Cermak states he will not buy another glass of beer until it is 5 cents. It is very nice of him to state that, but what is he doing to help us mothers get milk at 8 or 9 cents a quart?

Milk in other cities is much lower than in Chicago. There is no reason for the farmers to take any more cuts in their price. My husband is not working, but we have to have two quarts a day. Why don't his honor induce the chain stores to start their own dairies and have their own trucks deliver to their stores? MRS. E. S.

EXPERTS IN INSOLVENCY.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—With reference to your editorial on the decline and fall of the British empire in this morning's TRIBUNE, may I raise the question whether, in view of the dubious tax and financial records of our city and county, any resident of Chicago should venture to tell anybody anything about matters of fiscal policy? CLIFTON M. UTLEY.

BIG BUSINESS OPENS SESSION TO AID FARMER

Domestic Allotment Plan Proponents Heard.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Big business started in yesterday to help organized agriculture in improving farm prices and ridding American farmers of the menace to their markets in the form of surpluses.

A special committee recently named by H. I. Harriman of Boston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, to study means by which the national chamber might aid agriculture held its first meeting in the offices of the chairman, Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co. Farm organization leaders and economists who have been developing the domestic allotment plan of segregating farm products for domestic use and for export took part in the discussions behind closed doors.

"The farm depression has been unusually severe," said Gen. Wood during a recess, "and we realize that higher prices for agriculture will be of immense aid to business. We are deeply interested in the subject and hope that our deliberation will supplement the work of the farm leaders."

Consider Two Types of Aid.

While the entire first day's session was consumed with general discussion of the farm problem, it is understood that the committee is considering two types of farm aid, legislative and through direct coöperation between industry and agriculture.

It is expected that the national chamber's survey of the situation can be sufficiently advanced so that it can be represented in a national meeting of farm leaders and business interests to be held in Chicago during the week beginning Dec. 5. This meeting, to convene during the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau federation, is expected to result in agreement of all interested groups on a plan of farm relief to be presented to congress.

Prof. M. L. Wilson, rural economist of the Montana Agricultural college; Henry A. Wallace, editor of Wallace's Farmer, of Des Moines, and Mr. Harriman of the national chamber sat with the Wood committee.

No Hard and Fast Program.

"We do not intend to insist upon any hard and fast program for agriculture," declared Harriman, "but we do realize that prosperity for the farmer means prosperity for all of us, and we are anxious to assist in any way we can."

Among the subjects under discussion were steps toward tax reduction, improvement of farm credit, surplus crop control, and monetary stabilization. The committee, gathered from east, south, and west, included manufacturers, railroad and insurance officials, millers, farm leaders, and editors.

Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, attending the sessions, has placed his organization of 52,000 farmers behind the Rainey-Norbeck bill now in congress. It provides a method of making effective the existing tariff on certain farm products, such as wheat, cotton, and pork, by imposing an excise tax on these products, to be paid by processors, not to exceed the amount of the tariffs.

Tells Safeguards of Plan.

The domestic allotment plan, according to Mr. Wallace, is quite similar. The funds collected from domestic processors, he explained, would be paid to all farmers on that part of their crops consumed at home. Exporters would not pay the tax, and by paying the farmers in "adjustment certificates" bootlegging in farm products could be avoided. It would involve no large government appropriation, he said.

PUTS STOWAWAY DOLLARS TO WORK FOR NEEDY PUPILS

Long Idle Coins Will Buy 20 Lunches.

Twenty youngsters in some Chicago schools are going to have a noonday feast within the next few days because of two silver dollars that have just been put back into circulation. It costs just ten cents a child for one of the satisfying lunches served each noon through the Hungry School Children's fund. Mrs. J. B. Sardy of River Forest sent a note yesterday with her contribution, explaining the gift.

"Today I found two silver dollars in an old purse," she wrote, "so tarnished and black they must have been in hiding for a long, long time. It is time they were put to work, and I can think of no better use for those lazy dollars than the fund for hungry children, so I enclose the amount herewith."

The Thanksgiving Spirit.

In keeping with the spirit of the approaching holiday, Thanksgiving, Mrs. Levy Mayer forwarded a check for $25 for the fund. Fifty-two schools are now receiving assistance from this fund. Another check, for $20, was contributed anonymously.

$1—A. B., Anonymous, Anonymous, F. M. C., Elsa Antonson, Mrs. D. R. Lindsay, E. Joslyn, Anonymous.

Grand total..... $12,998.06

Small as is the amount needed for a single meal for a hungry child, it takes a tremendous amount to keep the thousands of needy fed during the school term. Gifts of any amount will be appreciated if addressed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE at Tribune Tower.

ARTHUR JARRETT AND GILDA GRAY TRY TO WED; FAIL

Boston, Mass., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Gilda Gray, the dancer, and Arthur Jarrett, the singer, applied for a marriage license at the Boston city hall today, but when informed they could not get the five day law waived without the sanction of a judge they abandoned their plans—for the present at least.

Previously they had called on Mayor James M. Curley and told him of their plans.

When told they would have to see the judge to get the waiver Miss Gray turned to Jarrett and said: "Well, you're not going to cry, are you?"

PICK WISCONSIN BOY AND GIRL AS FARM ACES

A farm boy and a farm girl from Wisconsin whose total earnings during the last year were $5,671 yesterday were singled out from the 4-H farm club members of 18 states for recognition by the sponsors of the national farm boys' and girls' 4-H club congress, which will begin in Chicago Saturday in conjunction with the opening of the 33d annual live stock exposition. Each of the youths will receive a trophy offered by President Hoover when they meet with 1,200 other 4-H club winners to attend the stock show.

The winners are Donald N. McDowell, 16 years old, of Montello, Marquette county, and Frances Mae Good, 19 years old, of Browntown, Green county. Their combined achievements in 59 distinct lines of activity relating to better farm and home practices produced the total income of more than $5,000.

Member of Old Farm Family.

Donald, a member of the fourth generation of his family to occupy the same farm, has been in club work for seven years. He completed 24 projects under direction of County Agent George F. Massey of Montello involving corn growing, forestry and the feeding of baby beef cattle, a beef heifer, fat lamb, ewe and lamb, sow and litter of pigs, and fat barrow. He has used 60 animals in 42 exhibits at local and state fairs. His projects had a gross certified value of $3,409.

Young McDowell is a member of the Wisconsin Pure Bred Seed Growers' association and produces certified seeds exclusively. He has acquired a one-third interest in a flock of 65 pure bred sheep and carries a $2,000 life insurance policy. He lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. P. McDowell, on a 600 acre farm.

Miss Good, who has been enrolled in 4-H clubs four years, is said by C. L. Noble, director of the national committee on boys and girls' club work, to have made one of the greatest records in this time ever entered in a national club contest. She completed 35 projects in 11 subjects under supervision of E. L. Divan, county club leader of Monroe, Wis. Meanwhile, on each school day she drives five miles to a high school, in which she is a senior.

Girl Makes 864 Exhibits.

In her list of projects Frances Mae included room improvement, foods, baking, sewing, canning, health work, poultry raising, potato growing, gardening, thrift, forestry and leadership. She made 864 exhibits of her handiwork and products in local, state and national fairs, and has a greater market for her food products than she can supply. As a state club worker she has traveled 2,620 miles. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Good, own a 160 acre farm.

Hundreds of other champions from among the 900,000 youths enrolled in the national 4-H clubs will attend the congress. The 4-H symbol stands for "head, hand, heart, and health," in each of which farm youngsters are learning to excel. Some of them will take part in the Chicago Coliseum poultry show, which opens tomorrow, and many of them will bring blue blood animals to the live stock show. Railroads and various Chicago and national business concerns are paying for trips and offering prizes for the youngsters.

Robert Ferguson, 52 years old, was found dead yesterday, presumably of heart disease, in his bed in a rooming house at 509 North Union avenue.

SEEKS TO BLOCK WILMETTE PLAN FOR WATERWORKS

Wilmette's proposed new water works, for which the village officials recently negotiated a $580,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, was attacked yesterday in a petition filed in the Circuit court on behalf of the Shawnee Country club, seeking to restrain construction of the pumping plant.

The village board let bids last Saturday for construction of the plant, in a small public park in Wilmette which is only 150 feet from the country club, at Michigan avenue and Lake street.

The club, which has 900 members, sets forth in its petition that it built its limestone clubhouse at a cost of $500,000 on the assumption that the neighborhood was to remain a class A residential district under the village zoning ordinance. The bill attacks the legality of an amendment to the zoning ordinance permitting construction of the pumping plant.

Furthermore, the petition charges, if the plant is built, the clubhouse drive will be cluttered up with the automobiles of pumping plant employés. Also, it charges, the present village bathing beach will be ruined.

The pumping plant is to be operated by Diesel motors. These motors, it is alleged in the petition, will set up vibrations.

The petition also alleges that fumes from the engines would damage the exterior of the clubhouse and that soot and dirt from the plant would make the club patio unsafe for the fragile dresses of members' wives on summer evenings.

Other residents in the neighborhood are expected to join in asking the injunction, it was stated by Deneen, Healy & Lee, attorneys for the club.

BOUND OVER AS BURGLARS.

Joseph Pritchett, 17 years old, of 5026 South Union avenue, and John Murphy, also 17, of 517 Englewood avenue, were held to the grand jury on burglary charges yesterday by Judge Harold P. O'Connell in the Boys' court.

Could Your Car Pass a "Cold Test" like this?

Through deep snow drifts that blanketed Wolf Creek Pass, 10,800 feet above sea level in Colorado's Rockies, a great V-type snow plow doggedly pushed its way. A whirring rotary plow spouted clouds of snow, clearing the roadway. And soon, despite temperatures daily below zero, workers of Liberty Truck & Parts Co., of Denver, had opened the 15-mile road.

"We used Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and Conoco Gasoline exclusively in our Cletrac Tractors with wonderful results," wrote a Liberty official. "We had no difficulty starting our motors in the mornings."

There's a "cold test" to guide you in buying motor oil!

Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil is thoroughly dewaxed and circulates freely below zero. It makes Winter-starting easier. More important still, it saves your motor from terrific punishment during the starting period, when half of all motor wear occurs! Other oils drain away overnight. A "Hidden Quart" of Conoco Germ Processed Oil stays up in your motor and lubricates before your motor starts.

Only Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil can offer you this vital protection, for it is the only oil that penetrates and combines with metal surfaces. Let it protect your motor this Winter. . . . 30c a quart.

AMERICAN BUSINESS MEN CAN SPEED THE RECOVERY

MUCH has been said and written regarding the result of the recent election. The combination of causes that produced a veritable tidal wave in favor of a change in the Administration has been adequately discussed and analyzed by experts. As to these we make no comment.

Whatever the causes, however, the verdict of the electorate should be accepted by all, and apparently is being generally accepted, in a spirit of good sportsmanship and good citizenship.

Now that the uncertainty and apprehension of the pre-election period are over there is greater need than ever before for an impressive nation-wide declaration and demonstration of faith on the part of business leaders . . . faith in ourselves, faith in the future, in the soundness of our financial system, the stability of our economic order.

That the sound and constructive work of the present Administration will be continued there can be no reasonable doubt. That the incoming Administration will, with zeal and energy and sincere devotion, address itself to further efforts in the way of reconstruction, cannot be questioned.

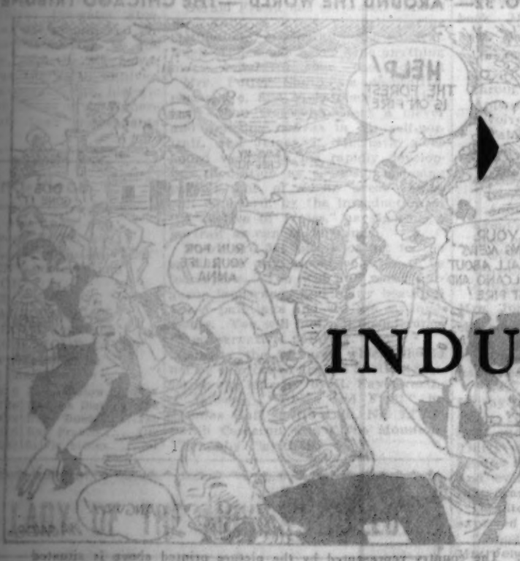

The Government has already done much to bring about economic recovery. It can and doubtless will do much more. But the rate at which the speed of recovery can be accelerated will depend very largely on the attitude and action of thousands of executives in business enterprises throughout the country.

The demonstration of faith now so urgently desired can manifest itself on the part of manufacturers by arranging for plant reconstruction and the replacement of obsolete equipment, not necessarily as a means of increasing output but rather with a view of reducing costs and refining products; and by manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers generally making reasonable advance commitments for commodities and supplies. There are vast financial reserves and adequate buying power which, if released in part at this time, will result in tremendous good.

In the foregoing suggestion there is no thought of urging a repetition of the abortive "Buy-Now Movement" of 1930 which failed because it was ill-timed and made its appeal mainly to consumers. The policy here advocated is one that should be adopted by those who have it in their power to directly set in motion plants now idle, to relieve the unemployment situation and to improve purchasing power. A policy of this kind will not only react to the benefit of the particular firms who give it their support, but will further contribute largely to the national good.

A challenging opportunity and serious responsibility now confront the business leaders of the Nation. Will they grasp it eagerly? If they do, our Nation will rapidly rally from the economic ills which have so long assailed it and once more start its resistless forward march to new goals of achievement and new goals of accomplishment.

And let us remember that while faith is an excellent thing, "Faith without works availeth not." Confidence translated into action is the need of the hour. That way Victory lies.

Industrial Rayon Corporation—one of the major rayon producing companies of America —has in the current year rigidly followed the policy herein advocated and is now operating at maximum capacity, twenty-four hours a day. During the past twelve months more than one million dollars have been spent in plant reconstruction and the improvement and refinement of our products. This same policy will be adhered to throughout the coming year.

Will Demand Compulsory Relief Law.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor today launched what its president termed its "sternest struggle" against want.

"The eyes of the masses of the people are upon us," President William Green told the delegates in outlining the federation's problems at the opening of the fifty-second annual convention.

Soft-voiced and slightly gray, sturdy and ruddy, Mr. Green spoke from a marble dais in the luxurious hall of mirrors of a downtown hotel. Before him, more than 300 representatives of millions of workers listened from chairs at long tables. Against a background of silver and glass in the balcony, a hundred or more looked on.

"We are here to work for the worker. We hope to make a valuable contribution here toward the reconstruction of our impaired capitalistic structure," he declared.

Two Chief Steps.

He said the executive council already had suggested steps looking toward the "improvement of conditions"—one the six hour day and a five day week, the other compulsory unemployment insurance. Of the latter, he declared:

"We will go out and call upon the legislatures of the various states to enact proposed unemployment insurance into law."

The plan, the council specified, would be adopted in every state, paid for by employers, and administered by a state commission. Its benefits would not be denied to those out of work because of a trade dispute, or if nonmembership in a labor union was a condition of employment.

Many other subjects were covered in the report. The council expressed the opinion that action to legalize "real beer" would be taken at the short session of congress, convening Dec. 5. The report voiced opposition to a sales tax; urged a seven point economic program by the government to obtain "more equitable distribution of income"; advocated restoration of former wage scales of government employés; asked modification of the Volstead act, and urged enactment of a child labor amendment.

Work for All Willing to Work.

"With a feeling of the deepest sense of responsibility and with the sternness of the problems before us," he said, "this convention will grapple with all the factors of this situation and at the end of the convention we will give to the world our program and say fearlessly how it shall be applied.

"While the men in the counting room are thinking of stocks and bonds, we are thinking in terms of human values. We are trying to promote human happiness, human betterment, and human welfare.

"We say 'Let the heavens fall, but let human values be preserved and protected.'

"We must give to the man who is willing to work the opportunity to do it. The American Federation of Labor is dedicated to that task and we will solve it."

MADRID, Spain, Nov. 21.—Twenty-one parliamentary deputies will sit as judges tomorrow when the generals and civilians who held cabinet posts during the dictatorship of Gen. Primo de Rivera will be put on trial for having assisted De Rivera rule Spain according to his will for six years and four months. The defendants face penalties ranging from 20 years in prison on down.

This special tribunal, which is representative of all political groups in the cortes, has been named to pass judgment on 26 former ministers. It is held that inasmuch as parliament judged former King Alfonso, it should likewise judge those who assisted him in breaking the constitution.

New light may be thrown on the dramatic happenings of Sept. 13, 1923, when the De Rivera coup d'etat tore to shreds the constitution of 1876, thus striking what proved to be a death blow to the monarchy. A statement made by Gen. Munoz Covo, captain general of Madrid in 1923, will be read in court tomorrow. In it he states that when he advised Alfonso to hand over the government to De Rivera, Alfonso replied:

"I'm very glad to hear you say that. That is what I thought of doing."

Garcia Prieto, premier at the time of the coup d'etat, is one witness who will declare that Alfonso told him it was intended to form a government composed of politicians and generals and that a new parliament would be convoked.

Three outstanding members of the dead dictator's civil cabinet will be tried in their absence. They are Gen. Martinez Anido, former minister of interior; Jose Calvo Sotelo, finance minister, and Count Guadalhorce, minister of public works. The trio apparently preferred to remain beyond the frontiers of Spain.

Gen. Marquis de Cavalcante and several others will stand trial later for alleged complicity in the monarchist uprising of Aug. 10 and in which they took an active part.

The duke of Alba arrived in Madrid this morning in response to a summons by the republic, which is conducting an inquiry into certain "acts of aggression against the republic."

"Merry Widow" Again on View in Chicago.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Viennese operetta that captivated the world twenty-five years ago and has remained a standard for romance in waltz time ever since—in other words, "The Merry Widow"—is again on view in Chicago; and Donald Brian, the original Prince Danilo of the American version, is master of the revels. The Majestic theater is the scene of this revival, and the box office scale is adjusted to the sensitive pocket books of this bargain hunting period.

The generation that heard this brilliant and enchanting score in its youth has been singing snatches from Franz Lehar in its daydreaming moments through all the crowded years that followed. For here are matchless operetta melodies—"Vilja," "Silly Cavalier," "Maxim's," and the waltz whose title seems to be merely "La de dah dah," or else "Tum te tum tum"—and they have survived ten hundred thousand rival tunes that had their ephemeral vogues. And so, good old "Merry Widow," we who are getting middle aged or worse salute thee! Incidentally, we challenge the score of "Of Thee I Sing" to get itself remembered half as long.

Mr Brian, upon whom the winds of change refuse to blow, is still the Prince Danilo of 1907, with the figure of a light hussar and the face of a gracefully dissipated youth. As a mere matter of vital statistics he is 55 years old, but for the playgoer he is a gay young fellow, full of romantic fire and mischief and up to all sorts of tricks with Margot, Clo-Clo, Frou-Frou and the other naughty girls from Maxim's. I suspect Mr. Brian of being one of the descendants of Ponce de Leon, with a secret knowledge of the site of the fountain of youth.

Like all old champions, his legs are not quite what they used to be, and he is not as fast on the bases as he was when he first whirled the Widow Sonia through the gyrations of the famous waltz. But that is the only difference I can find; otherwise the Danilo of 1907 and the Danilo of 1932 are twins. So let's have nine 'rahs and a "Yeah, Brian" for this remarkable case of artistic longevity.

Virginia O'Brien is the heroine in straight, old-school prima donna style, without a hint of Marsovian impudence or Parisian sparkle. Ambassador Popoff is effectively played for the humor of cuckoldry by Detmar Poppen, another stanch survivor of earlier "Merry Widow" productions. Unfaithful Mrs. Popoff is neatly sung and acted by Ruth Altman, and the Joldon of Allen Rogers arouses memories of recent revivals. The other principals and the chorus suggest a stock company origin.

"Springtime for Henry," a comedy by Benn W. Levy, will be the first offering of Guy Hardy and his associates in their régime at the Blackstone theater. With Henry Hull as its star this play, rated as a Broadway hit last season, will begin an engagement at the Blackstone Thursday night, Dec. 1. Others in the cast will be Gavin Muir, Aleta Freel and Edith Atwater. The New York stage settings, designed by Lee Simonson of the Theater Guild, will be used.

Hundred Are Present at Annual Dinner of Mayflower Society

The Rev. William Brewster Stoskopf, Episcopalian clergyman and descendant of Gov. Brewster of the Plymouth colony, read the Mayflower compact. It was the 312th anniversary of the signing of the historic document. As the names of the signers were called out, their descendants arose.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Some say this "three on a match" superstition started during the war. When three soldiers lit their cigarets on one match—an enemy sniper following the blaze was apt to get one of them. Others credit the late Ivar Kreuger with starting a ball rolling that netted many thousands a year for his match factory. Be all that as it may——

The movie follows the career of the ritzy Vivian who marries a wealthy lawyer, is the mother of an adorable little boy—and who finds life completely tasteless; of Mary, the "worst girl in school," whose indiscretions land her in the reformatory and whose common sense and big heart eventually elevate her to a position of happiness and prosperity; of Ruth, who went to business college, and, through a strange freak of fate, finds herself with little use for her business training.

The manner in which the lives of these girls merge provides the screen with a moderately interesting and very well acted melodrama with a suicide and a kidnaping to give it underworld flavor.

Joan Blondell is a peach, I think. So sincere and unspoiled! Ann Dvorak is effective and Bette Davis performs well the little she has to do.

Warren William, in a straight rôle, is pleasing but unremarkable. Fine actor, though, anywhere you put him. And as for that little Buster Phelps—you could eat him!

On the stage, Ed Lowry, the Oriental's new master of ceremonies, does the honors gayly. George Raft wise cracks and dances, and Estelle Taylor, handsome and smiling, sings charmingly, and, as always makes friends because of her friendly, likable personality.

Item: Have you seen the Chicago's stage show? Do! John McCutcheon's beloved cartoon, "Injun Summer," comes to life behind the footlights in a manner that should intrigue those who feel there just ain't no fall until. THE TRIBUNE has reprinted by request—many requests—the veteran cartoonist's most famous work.

See you soon.

New Yorkers Greet Their Opera Season

New York, Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Marking the premier lyric theater's golden jubilee year, the Metropolitan Opera house opened its doors tonight on a new season.

The Metropolitan "carried on" after much anxious husbanding of its resources at the previous season's end. A spur to subscriptions had been seen in the government remission of tax on all tickets, since opera is on a "no profit" basis. Thirty-five individuals and estates, owners of the theater and occupants of boxes in the Golden Horseshoe, gave a virtual subsidy of $400,000 in land tax and interest foregone on their investment.

Singers and all concerned with the tenant opera association had shared in making possible a continuance of opera on an artistic plane.

The opera for the gala first night was one of a spectacle and melody combined, Verdi's "Simon Boccanegra." An American baritone, Lawrence Tibbett, was the corsair who ruled old Genoa a century before Columbus went west. With him there appeared Mmes. Mueller and Besuner and Messrs. Martinelli, Pinza, Frigerio, Paltrinieri, and Louis d'Angelo. Tullio Serafin conducted.

Society in its thousand limousines and town cars arrived late to face an hour's barrage of flashlight photographing. The sight indoors indicated a decree of fashion of evening dress of white or of black or striking combinations of the two.

Into the house there passed 4,000 spectators, most of them before the curtain rose, to the tune of $15,000 box office receipts for the new season's good omen. A few subscribers' tickets, unused for individual cause, were offered by curb speculators at $50 a pair and up.

Add Two More Names to List of Debutantes of Present Season

Peggy Carry and Mary Willa Young Will Be Presented to Society; Arrange Holiday Parties.

BY JUDITH CASS.

Two new names to add to the already long list of this season's debutantes—Miss Peggy Carry and Miss Mary Willa Young. Miss Carry, who is the daughter of the Joseph C. Carrys, goes to Sweet Briar college in Virginia, and will make her formal bow to society at a tea on Wednesday, Dec. 28, at home, 1317 East 50th street, while she is here for the Christmas vacation. Miss Peggy has two brothers, James Monroe Carry, at whose wedding to Miss Mary Trigg Waller in October two years ago Peggy was maid of honor, and Champ Carry, who was married in 1922 to Miss Marion Osborne. Joseph C. Carry and the late Edward C. Carry were brothers, which makes the young debutante a cousin of Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy Jr., for she was formerly Margaret Carry.

Miss Young is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Victor Young of 257 East Delaware place and she, too, is away at college, Vassar. Her mother had planned to give a tea for the day after Thanksgiving, but Miss Mary decided after she got back to her classes this fall that she would rather not have a tea, so the plan is changed and Mrs. Young and Mrs. Welch Dickinson are combining to give a luncheon for Miss Young and the Misses Caroline and Barbara Bullard on Saturday, Dec. 17, at the Arts club.

Miss Young telephoned her parents the other night to ask their permission to fly home for Thanksgiving, but they refused to allow her to fly, so she is coming on the train, arriving at noon Thursday. Her stay will be short, for she has to be back at college by Sunday, which means that she will leave here Saturday. She arrives again on Dec. 16 for the Christmas holidays and Miss Caroline Bullard comes home at the same time from Wells college, where she went just after she and her sister made their debuts early in the fall. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Sellar Bullard of Highland Park.

Mrs. Young is planning to give several small dinner and supper parties for her daughter at Christmas time in addition to the large luncheon that she and Mrs. Dickinson are giving.

Buntings to Move to Town.

Miss Elisabeth Bunting, who chose to have a series of informal dances instead of one large conventional debut party, and her mother and father, the Henry Stanhope Buntings, are moving in from Lake Forest to the Whitehall after Thanksgiving, to be in town until shortly after the first of the year, when they will go to Naples, Fla., for the rest of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Bunting and Miss Bunting have cards out for a dinner dance on Wednesday evening, Nov. 30, at the Drake hotel, which will serve as a presentation for the debutante in Chicago. Miss Bunting had several parties in Lake Forest earlier in the season. Van Asmus Bunting will be at home from the Christ school in Aiken to spend the Christmas holidays with his family.

Mrs. William Shippen Jenks is to give a luncheon today at the Fortnightly for her two nieces, Miss Helen and Miss Marietta Gillette, who will return to their residence in Pasadena with their mother and father, the Edwin Fraser Gillettes, shortly after Thanksgiving.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we make in our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

Have you any spare closet or bedroom corner, any extra space at hall end or in basement or even attic? A modern shower stall may be placed almost anywhere in the house. Handsome and useful these are, of steel, marble, slate, or glass, with receptors or bottom of the stall of enameled iron, vitreous china, porcelain, or marble. Don't worry because your bathroom may not be large enough to install one, for the capacity of the bathroom is doubled if the shower stall is separate. LOUISE BARGELT.

Illinois Artists Reveal Talent in Good Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The seventh annual exhibition of the work of Illinois artists sponsored by the All-Illinois Society of Fine Arts opened yesterday in the third floor corridor of the Stevens hotel. It is a brilliant show, well up to the standard set by previous exhibits. Art in Illinois is not a myth but a deeply impressive reality.

The exhibition has been cleverly arranged so that each type of painting hangs together. The portraits are a unit; the landscapes a unit; the still life and flower paintings are another unit, and the figure paintings still another. The oils and sculpture fill the main hall and the water colors are shown in the little gallery.

The portraits discover the serious talent of several Chicago painters to us. For instance, John Doetoroff offers an exquisite portrait in "Dorothy," a young girl in an old-fashioned dress of white with blue ribbons on every flounce. It places him at once as one of the best of our immediate painters.

Gerald Frank has surpassed himself in "Ann," a lovely portrait having distinction, originality, and charm. Buell Mullen has never done anything more delightful than the portrait "Mrs. Potter Smith," a decorative, persuasive, and vivid piece of painting. John Goossens offers a clever and amusing canvas in his self-portrait, and James T. McGrath gives added weight to his rapidly developing reputation as a most promising painter, one of whom great things will be heard, by the introduction of "A Native of Wales," as vigorous a portrait as can be imagined.

There are 361 pieces of art in the exhibit, so any report of it must be incomplete. You will find many gorgeous landscapes and many beautiful flower paintings and still life arrangements. You will find a preponderance of conservative painting.

Among the pictures which should not be overlooked are the subtle "Sunset on the Marsh" by R. Fayerweather Babcock, "Roses and Fruit" by Thomas Hall, "Still Life, No. 2," by Sarah Cameron, and "The Mountain Vista" by Clay Kelly.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT? BY H. T. RIDLEY

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try you wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

TEA FOR TWO.

Rushing across the yard he entered the Jones kitchen. He certainly was not prepared for what he found. At the table in the breakfast nook sat a girl, blood from a wound staining the linen cloth. A hasty examination was sufficient. Out came Roach's note book. He wouldn't miss a detail. He knew the importance Kelley attached to them.

Girl dead from gun shot wound through heart. Blood still flowing. Apparently just shot. .32 caliber revolver on table.

Girl's purse, 85 cents, no identification.

"What does it all mean?" queried Mrs. Jones hysterically. "Why did she come here? What did she want? I don't even know who she is?"

"Were you in the room when it happened?"

"No, thank God! While waiting for my luncheon guest I went into the living room to relax for a few minutes and fell asleep in my chair. Thirty minutes later I was awakened by the shot and rushed out here to find everything as I left it but for that dead body!"

Despite her denial was this girl the expected guest?

"None of that!" shouted Roach as Mrs. Jones opened the door and turned on the electric fan. "You won't have much chance when the inspector gets my report!"

WHY?

Stress Human Side in Business, Plea to Women

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Miss Jane Addams of Hull house, addressing the Alliance of Business and Professional Women at their annual dinner in the Palmer house last night, urged women in business to be less imitative of men. She recommended that women look upon their business careers from the human rather than the profit making point of view.

"When I came to Chicago 43 years ago there were few girls in offices," said Miss Addams. "Finally the real business women appeared. They became executives. But I sometimes wonder if where women are going in business will be the best thing in the long run. There is a tendency to be too imitative of men.

"The competitive struggle with men has been so long a part of women's entrance into business that it has taken the energy she should have put into business. We could eliminate the element of wasted effort if women might bring into business an enormously needed spirit. I should like to see them try it. I should like to see them interested in taking care of people, of clothing and feeding them rather than the purely profit making side of business. I should like to see them look at the situation from the human side.

"If there is this increasing number of women in executive places it might make an impression if they took another point of view, giving, for example, work to people three and four days a week to keep all on the pay roll."

Judge Mary Bartelme, another guest speaker, reviewed the objects of Senate bill No. 9, a bill intended, if passed, to tear down shacks and provide modern homes at moderate means. She urged that the alliance indorse the bill, which was done by unanimous vote following her talk.

Miss Helen Bennett of A Century of Progress traced the progress of women in business.

Representatives from member clubs in Illinois were guests at the anniversary dinner, and were introduced. Miss Genevieve Forsberg, prsident of the alliance, presided.

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Roberta Millbank runs away from a pair of gloomy relatives. Peter Cavan, trusted employe in her father's bank, until it failed and her father died, offers to drive her to her old school to apply for a job as athletic instructress. They stop at a lake on an abandoned farm.

INSTALLMENT II.

ANY PORT IN A STORM.

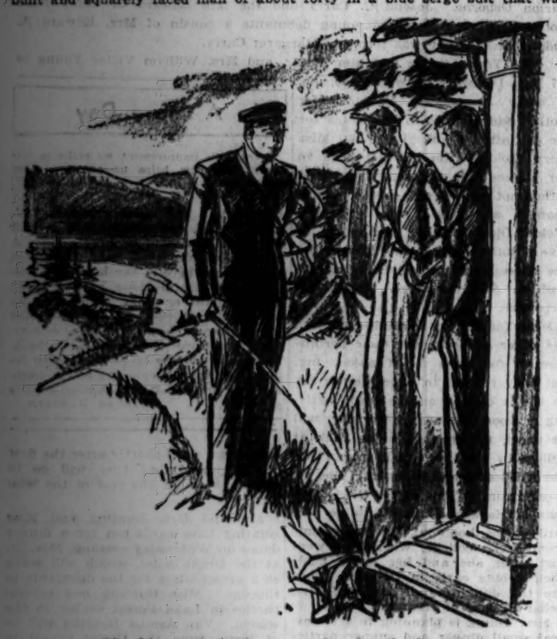

Peter got to work on his radiator. He reflected that a year or two ago a situation much less bizarre than the present one would have impressed him as too absurd even for a dream. It was fantastic beyond any scope of his imagination that the only child and daughter of the late baron of industry, Robert Millbank, should be swimming presumably naked in a secluded lake while he, Peter Cavan, patched up the radiator of a worn out little car as a means toward getting her and himself in some sort of a position to earn their living.

Two years before their apparent terra firma had revealed itself a quicksand, Roberta Millbank would not even have called this honest little vehicle he was trying to repair a car. She would have thought of it as some sort of legalized obstruction to her runs over the road in the beautiful high-powered fabrics she had driven, new each year.

Roberta continued to swim straight out into the still lake. Peter was not worried. He knew she would be thinking that the water under her was deep and merciful, but so good a swimmer could not drown herself if she tried.

A man's voice said behind him: "That isn't safe . . ."

Peter spun round. The positive statement had been made by a squarely built and squarely faced man of about forty in a blue serge suit that was neither new nor shabby. He carried a bamboo fishing pole and a creel. What most impressed Peter was his face; that was hard, authoritative, and handsome in a masterful and not unkindly set of features.

He stood staring out at Roberta's bright head, by this time two hundred yards from the shore, still moving away. "Call her back, mister."

It was an order. Peter said: "She's a good swimmer. We didn't count on anybody coming this way."

"I don't mean to crowd in on you. You can't trust water to support you . . . any more'n you can trust a farm."

"Or men or money or people or prosperity," Peter answered.

"No, nor a profession you understand and always managed to make good at. But that's no reason to let your wife risk gettin' drowned."

"She's not my wife, and right now there seems to be less danger of her drowning than of her starving. We are stragglers on the flanks of the army of the unemployed."

The man gave him a quick, keen, searching look, then nodded. "On the beach. I see."

"Seafaring man?" Peter asked.

"I was captain and owner of a four-master until they tied those things all up. Now I'm back to the farm. The only soul aboard." He smiled.

"That abandoned farm we turned in through to get here to the shore of the lake?"

"Un'hn." He glanced toward the northwest. "Goin' to get a squall before sundown. You two can find shelter there if you like. Still got a few shingles and a mortgage on it, both tight. You call her back. I'll go catch some perch for supper."

"Thanks, captain, I'll take you up on that." Peter felt a warmth inside him. Humanity had not gone entirely to the sharks.

Roberta said from behind the pine as she drew on her clothes: "I suppose he thinks we're tramps."

"He thinks we're in bad luck, because I told him so. Sea captains don't bother about what landlubbers may do."

"Well, any port in a storm . . . and he was right about our catching one pretty soon." She looked at the darkening sky. "Let's hope he catches some fish. I'm hungry."

They got in the car and drove back the rutted lane to the dilapidated farmhouse. A small addition jutting from one end had been patched up, the crumbling chimney bricks painted with cement, new shingles that gave a glaring speckled look to the weathered roof, fresh panes of glass and a new bright screen door.

"Better to be without a family than without anything to feed the family."

"I don't like charity," she said. "I could have had that back home."

"We can work it out. You cook the fish and I'll cut some wood."

"You shouldn't have bothered with me."

"Your father bothered with me."

They got out and looked round the premises. They were not so abandoned as they had thought. Chickens were cackling somewhere and there was a cow in the meadow. Behind the barn was a well-kept vegetable garden and a potato patch. The place faced on a good enough road that was a short-cut for the state highway to Portsmouth, but unused by heavy traffic because of its hills.

A very old apple orchard with some ancient pear trees bordered it, separated by a crumbling stone fence. "Stewed fruit is good castaway diet," Peter said; "you might get some."

Roberta was selecting the fruit that had best supported neglect when a young man wheeling a motorcycle up the slope stopped and looked at her. He was fairly tall and broad and gaunt, a Yankee type with lines of humor about his mouth and eyes.

He stepped over the wall. Peter was behind the house, splitting some kindling. Roberta said: "You look hungry, too."

"Last time I ate was this time yesterday."

"So you're another victim of prosperity."

"That was . . ." He fastened a set of strong white teeth into a late summer pippin.

"Why were you shoving that thing up hill?"

"You could lam through to Portsmouth on a soup bowl full of gas," Roberta said.

"Yes, and I could leg it through on a soup bowl full of soup. Horses were better than bikes. They could fuel up on the side of the road."

"Everything was better. This was probably a good farm about a hundred years ago. Now, it can't support a sea captain out of a job. He has to catch fish in the lake. He asked my friend and me to spend the night. We're flat, too."

He raised his straight black eyebrows. "You look more like a lily of the field that has neither to toil nor spin. I wonder if the captain would let me sleep in the barn."

"Better ask him. It's going to pour."

The day was darkening rapidly. A puff of cool wind rustled the foliage. Roberta started to walk back to the house with her apples and some round hard pears. The young man wheeled his bicycle to the entrance. He came in the front as the captain appeared from the lane. Peter was stacking stove-wood on the kitchen stoop.

"Hello, mister," said the captain to bicyclist. "Lookin' for a billet for the night?"

"Yes, sir. Could you do with a caretaker for the barn?"

"I don't think anybody's goin' to steal the barn, but help yourself." His keen eyes rested on the pale, gaunt, high-featured face. "Well, I got fish enough to go round." He unslung his creel and handed it to the new guest, with a sheathknife from his belt. "Clean 'em up and bring 'em in. I'll start the galley stove."

Roberta came up. Peter said: "Captain, this is Miss Millbank."

"Hiram White, master mariner, ma'am." He touched two fingers to the worn visor of his cap. "Come in. Here's the shower. You lads best stable your tin horses in the barn."

GASOLINE ALLEY—MANANA

Here's Modern Way to Buy and Roast Chicken

BY MARY MEADE.

After the first snappy weather of early fall the finest roasters come on the market. The crisp, cool weather makes those young roosters hungry. Rustling cornfields furnish the best possible feed for satisfying that hunger and the result is a good supply of plump birds, perfectly "finished" for transformation into juicy brown roasts.

Speaking of transformation: Have you seen the new little aluminum skewers which are used for sewing up the bird after you have filled it with your favorite stuffing? You simply stick them across the opening sort of hatpin fashion and then lace string around them. No hunting for needles. When the chicken is roasted pull out the skewers and lift off the string. No burning of fingers, no tearing of the meat, no injury to the temper, and no waste of precious moments during that last hurried period just when everything must be got to the table steaming hot.

And here's another new wrinkle, especially for the small family that has chicken seldom because it can't dispose of a whole bird, as well as for the woman whose family includes nobody who can claim the honor of being an artistic carver. A number of meat markets are selling chicken in parts and parcels. That is, the chickens are cut up in the market into portions and you may have your choice of parts. You can buy a half dozen drumsticks if your family prefers dark meat. Or you can choose all breasts, or a breast and a thigh per person to be served. Or in case you want creamed giblets on toast you can buy a pound of giblets.

It's a new idea, but one that is proving popular, say the meat dealers. There are rumors that turkeys may be sold the same way this year, too. The cuts can be roasted just as a whole chicken is, only they require less time.

Whether you roast chicken whole or in portions, there is one important rule to observe. That is to cook it at a moderate or low temperature if the finished product is to be juicy, tender, and delicate. One of the best ways to roast chicken, or any fowl for that matter, is to put it uncovered into a hot oven (450-475 degrees F.) for twenty minutes. During this time it will become as brown as it is likely to become during the entire cooking period. Then lower the oven temperature to 275-300 degrees F., put one-half cup boiling water into the roasting pan, cover the roaster, and cook until done—about one and one-half to two hours, depending on the size of the chicken. When this method is used, basting is unnecessary.

Every homemaker has her own favorite stuffing and her own seasonings for it. But here is one that has been voted unusually good. To it you can add your own seasonings, though it needs no more than is listed. It is an economical stuffing, too, and is equally good for turkey. Of course, there are always ways of improving even excellent things, and one way to enhance this already good stuffing is to add to it one-half cup blanched almonds that have been browned in a little butter. If you like, the celery may also be browned. Shred some of the celery leaves and add them to the dressing.

CELERY STUFFING.

1½ cups diced celery and shredded celery leaves
1 egg ¾ cup water Salt and pepper

Beat the egg and water together. Combine all ingredients and fill into bird. Poultry seasoning may be added if desired.

Saturday morning's performance of "The Secret Garden" at the Playhouse are to have a special treat, an exhibition of sleight of hand and black magic by Benjamin A. Fairbank, who is noted for his skill in such things.

Mr. Fairbank was inveigled into giving his services by his cousin, Miss Helen Bell, who is in the east, when he remarked to her that he was the only man who ever had appeared in a Junior League Children's Theater production—he gave a similar show some years ago when his sister, Janet, was appearing in one of the league's plays for children—so Miss Bell persuaded him to uphold this reputation by appearing again.

The league will not have any other children's show this season because of the extensive and elaborate plans for the World's Fair Children's theater, which will be run by the league on the "Enchanted Island" and will open next spring, but there are three more performances of the charming "The Secret Garden."

Mrs. Brady to Attend Concert.

Mrs. Nicholas Brady, executive chairman of the National Board of Girl Scouts and a member of the national emergency relief committee, will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Bremner at the Chaliapin concert next Monday night for the benefit of the Girl Scouts.

Among those who are planning dinner and box parties for Monday night are Mr. and Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, Mrs. Lester Armour, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick, Mrs. William J. Chalmers, and Mrs. Louis E. Laflin.

A former Chicagoan who is back for a visit and who held a sort of informal reception in the box in which she was sitting at the Muzio concert in Orchestra hall Sunday afternoon is Mrs. Alexander Smith, who is with her sister, Mrs. Clyde M. Carr of 1130 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Carr, who hopes to keep Mrs. Smith here through Christmas, is entertaining at luncheon for her sister on Friday of this week, later taking the party to the symphony concert.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Slater of New York; Miss Edith Cummings, George Garrett of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cushing are members of a house party at Glenwild, the John Bordens' plantation at Grenada, Miss. They are to remain in the south until Sunday for a week of quail shooting and for a Thanksgiving celebration with the Bordens.

Mrs. Garrett Leaves Today.

Mrs. John W. Garrett, wife of the American ambassador to Italy, who has been at the Blackstone hotel since Sunday, will depart today to spend Thanksgiving in Baltimore. There hasn't been much time for the beautiful lady's friends to entertain for her during her short stay, for she came to Chicago expressly to see the Century of Progress buildings to which she plans to devote a chapter of the book she is writing on American architecture.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey and their debutante daughter, Miss Louise Dewey, returned yesterday from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Alger Jr. (Susette Dewey) at Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Alanson Fellansbee of Winnetka are leaving by motor Friday for Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to be away until April.

Mrs. George A. Ranney, who has been in the east for about a week, is to have Thanksgiving dinner in New York and will be back in Chicago on Friday.

The George T. Langhornes' Lake Shore drive apartment, which has been closed since its owners went to California last July, was reopened last week-end with the return of Mrs. Langhorne from the west. Col. Langhorne will arrive in Chicago tomorrow.

Mrs. Franklin P. Smith Sails.

Mrs. Franklin P. Smith, who usually spends the months between Christmas and June at the Smiths' estate in Palm Beach, sailed last week for Trieste. She plans to spend three months in Switzerland and France and when she returns in mid-February will go directly to Palm Beach. She will not be back in Lake Forest until early June.

Mrs. Dudley Cates of Winnetka has returned from a brief stay in New York.

Mrs. Henry C. Bartholomay of Winnetka is to return today from a visit in New York with her mother, Mrs. Frank P. Graves.

Frank E. Fernald of the Webster hotel is to leave today to spend Thanksgiving with friends at Alton, Ill. From there he will go to Biloxi and New Orleans for a short stay before starting out on a long cruise in southern waters, stopping at South American ports and Havana. He will not return to Chicago until spring.

Raise $5,000 for Olivet.

Evan Evans telephoned yesterday to say that $5,000 was realized for the Olivet institute by the benefit performance of "When Chicago Was Young," which Mrs. Howard Linn engineered and managed. Mrs. Linn is in Middleburg, Va., visiting Mrs. Lita Perkins, but she expects to be in Baltimore with the William Wallace Lanahans for Thanksgiving.

"My Discovery of America" will be the subject of the last of Dr. Horace J. Bridges' series of five lectures at the Fortnightly, to be given this morning at 11 o'clock.

The thirty-seventh annual bazaar of the Friendly Aid society will be held from 10 until 6 o'clock today in the lounge of the Stevens hotel. Proceeds of the sale of handmade articles will go to organized charities.

Those contract bridge enthusiasts who are members of the Contract Whist club will dine and dance tonight in the Drake ballroom from 7 to 9 o'clock and then will attend the opening of the new clubrooms on the first floor of the hotel. Some of those who will be there are the Owen Wests, Dr. and Mrs. George F. Fiske, Dr. and Mrs. Francis X. Walls, the Ralph Hubbarts, Miss Jean Milsted, the Paul Walkers and the Orville Taylors.

Mark H. Haight will give an illustrated lecture on "The Romance of the English Inn" under the auspices of the English-Speaking union at 8:30 o'clock this evening at the Morrison hotel.

Be Honest with Child About Smoking Habit

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Yesterday's reply to the query sent by one of our young mothers was an open minded opinion on the affirmative side. Today's is equally intelligent on the negative side. Here it is:

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: Regarding the young mother who wishes advice as to smoking before the children, experience is often the best barometer of opinion. The young mother of 22 must know that whether or not she smokes before her 3 year old, it is merely a matter of time until the child will find out, as the true facts always come out. The most devastating effect upon the child's development of character will be, I think, to find that her mother is not her ideal of truthfulness, which pedestal we parents occupy at a certain age with our children, whether we will or no.

"Three years is too young (don't you think?) to reason out as broad a subject as morals of the smoking type. Is the opinion of her broader, more 'modern' friends greater to her than her child's deep respect, confidence, and idolizing?

"Since there is a question in her mind at all, why not give up smoking until later, when she and her daughter can talk it all over and confidently reply to her friends that because of her young child she does not smoke?"

Reveal Nansen Leadership as Humanitarian

BY AL CHASE.

MENTION the name of Norway's greatest modern hero, Fridtjof Nansen, to the average American and he recalls him as a famous polar explorer who did, or maybe who didn't, discover the north pole [he isn't quite sure] and who wrote a book called "Farthest North." That title, by the way, rather clinches the mental argument that maybe he did get to the pole.

Ask what else he did or wrote and few can answer. Yet this heroic Norwegian's greatest achievements were not exploration nor "Farthest North" his outstanding writing. Nansen the humanitarian and scientist and perhaps even the statesman completely overshadow Nansen the arctic explorer. A number of his writings are of far greater importance in the world of science and letters than "Farthest North."

Of course, until time gives the right perspective, the average person will continue to link Nansen with polar exploration. Meanwhile, readers of "The Saga of Fridtjof Nansen" by Jon Sorensen and translated from the Norwegian by J. B. C. Watkins [Norton], will learn to know this great Scandinavian as one of the century's outstanding men; a splendid figure physically, mentally, and spiritually.

Nansen was an explorer, a sportsman, a statesman, an author, an artist, a humanitarian, and a scientist and with this combination he couldn't help being a national hero; in addition, however, Romain Rolland speaks of him as "the only European hero of our time."

"The many sidedness of his genius, his power to achieve and do battle in many and varied fields conveyed the impression to him and to others of detached episodes'," writes his biographer.

"What these achievements and struggles hid from the world was that Nansen was a scientist first and foremost and had no other wish than to be left undisturbed to devote his powers to scientific research. His research expeditions to the arctic were in the eyes of the public brilliant sporting exploits. In reality they were the first great victories of the scientist in that field."

Nansen did his greatest life work as a humanitarian, working for the league of nations. This wasn't done at Geneva, however, but in widely spread fields abroad—in Russia, in Greece, in Asia Minor, Armenia, and Caucasus.

"Altogether a gigantic work which has done more than that of any other single man to raise the prestige of the league of nations."

For two and a half years he was occupied with one great international relief project after another; the repatriation of half a million prisoners of war, the settling of a million and a half Russian refugees, the maintenance of millions of victims of famine in Russia, the flight of a whole race from Asia Minor and Thrace—a work of such significance that the Nobel committee honored it with the award of the peace prize.

"One has to go back to the age of Caesar or Augustus to see similar world problems laid in the hands of a single individual," comments one of Nansen's colleagues.

"In the course of time the dazzling exploits of the Greenland expedition and the Fram expedition will pale before Nansen's achievements in the last decade of his life," says Sorensen. Shortly before his death his position as high commissioner of the league of nations was extended for ten years.

Nansen sometimes felt in his later years that there was a lack of unity in his career: he had advanced along so many paths. "Yet he accomplished great things in every one of them—as zoologist, as oceanographer, as explorer of the polar regions and as such the greatest pathfinder of all time; in Norwegian politics at its most fateful hour, and finally in world politics as the Good Samaritan of the world war the great apostle of reconciliation. He was chosen to lead a life filled with great deeds."

Short Jackets Are Smart with Sports Frocks

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — The newest sports frocks in Paris fashions are taking unto themselves waist length coatees that are reminiscent of lumber jackets. These jackets are made so that they fit over the frock snugly and actually seem part of it until they are removed. That makes them practical for wear under a coat, as well as being 100 per cent smart and chic. The tradition of bulky, ill-fitting clothes for sports wear is going into the discard.

In the sketch today you will see shown a sports outfit whose jacket is slim and practical. In black and white plaid wooler it ends its career just below the waistline, and is fastened up the center front to the throat, on clips. Its full length sleeves are cuffed and flared slightly from the elbows. Three tucks across the tops of the sleeves give this jacket a broad-shouldered effect. It has a scarf collar in black and white jersey high at the throat, tied Ascot fashion at the front.

A Cinderella Would Envy Modern Girls

New Evening Slippers Are Lovely Things.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

CINDERELLA in all her glory, with two dancing feet encased in glass slippers, wouldn't panic the modern stag lines this winter, for the newest slippers that have made these appraising males lift an eyebrow and cause their hearts to flutter are the exciting new models of velvet. And velvet that is velvet—soft, incredibly smooth, thin stuff that keeps the thinnest foot a miracle of brevity.

These exquisite new evening creations shine temptingly from every shoe shop display, all colors, all tints, every possible dimcult tone to either match or contrast your pet evening frock . . . gorgeous conceptions of what the knowing foot will slide around in, on the smartest dance floors this coming holiday season.

High slender heels and intricate trimmings are of silver or gold leather. One extraordinary hint of a fashion foot note is the news that lavish cut-out sandals are slipping out of the parties . . . true you will wear sandals, but sandals that are thrillingly different. All your toes are to be hidden under velvet in one lustrous piece, and your heels are completely covered with matching sections of velvet . . . all this is adroitly outlined in silver or gold kidskin while more ambitious creations boast of appliqued designs of leather as decoration for the toe pieces.

Anklet slippers are very new and exceedingly good looking. . . . T strap models seem to be out on a vacation. . . . Colorful velvet anklet slippers with very sky-zooming heels have an ankle strap of leather to match the heel. All the envious spectator sees when your velvet swathed foot slithers in and out below the hem of the most becoming dance frock is the cherry red velvet of your toes and heels and the silver of heel and toe designs, and if you don't think this is simply a sensational way to show your feet, just dash to town and wait in line with others who are shopping for the same festive footgear.

Fabulous fur lined carriage boots are standing around waiting for party going gals who know how comfortable and swanky these cozy warm things can be. . . . You can buy them in sooty black velvet lined with snowy white bunny fur, or you can get the same models in all black or all white. They are tall and are made with all the precision and skill that is accorded the expertly fashioned leather opera pump for daytime wear . . . and wonder of wonders, they do not make your feet clumsy or thick or giant sized. They are as neat and trim and twice as good looking as the smartest, smoothest, newest galosh.

One shop has some stunning dark brown silk evening slippers that are knockouts. They are of that deep, deep black brown that will complement or contrast so many of the new gold shades, and what these black browns, trimmed with tawny gold leather, can do for your glamorous metallic brocaded evening gowns or for thick creamy ivory satins and thick blistered silk crêpes in green, gold, hyacinth blue, flesh, and yellow is something almost unbelievable!

Besides being such gallant grace notes for your evening gowns, these new dark brown slippers are willing accents for all the lovely silk afternoon dresses of the previously mentioned shades that have taken the town by storm. It isn't often you can buy such stunning double duty slippers for such extremely low prices!

Salt Packs Are Back Again in Beauty Circles

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There's always something new under the sun where the beauty trade is concerned. Scanning a cosmetics counter you think there just can't be anything overlooked that will contribute beauty to hair, eyes, skin, and figure.

Sometimes these something-new have a touch of the old in them. In fact, a number of our valuable products are, if not in their entirety, based on old housewives' formulae and contain ingredients well known to our female forbears. As with this new idea for treating hair that is oily and scalps that have dandruff. The salt pack treatment.

I've known for years of women who have combatted the excessive oiliness to which their hair is subject with plain, coarse salt treatment. Now the idea is being put across with a tonic containing vegetable tar mixed in with salt. Well, the average one of us would rather apply something projected as a salt pack than believe in simple salt as correction for scalp ailments. Besides, the tonic ingredient is excellent, too.

The way to go about improving the hair condition with salt or the salt pack is first to give the hair a vigorous brushing. No matter if the oiliness seems to be exaggerated with the brushing, brush like everything. Part the hair at intervals and brush from the hair roots up to the ends of the hair. Then use your salt or salt pack.

Rub the salt into the scalp over the entire head. Rub with the intent to massage the scalp. With the preparation made of salt and tonic you can massage your scalp for a few minutes. In shops where this treatment is given a towel is now wrapped around the head and a vibrator is used for a couple of minutes.

Then the brush is brought into vigorous use again. This is to brush away the loose scales of dandruff. Follow with a shampoo, being careful to reduce the shampoo soap to a liquid to prevent gumminess, and repeat the soap washings several times. Follow with plenty of rinsings.

You'll be surprised how nice the hair will be after the treatment, though you may use only coarse table salt.

Romeo Balks at Long Ride Home After His Date

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Distance lends anything but enchantment, it would seem, when the girl lives in a suburb or miles from the boy's abode. Time and again this theme of distance is reported as the blight on a potential romance. Love has been known to sicken and die on the long ride back alone in the wee small hours of the morning. Nor can we attach large blame to the victim who, after all, has to have his quota of sleep in order to carry on at his business next day.

Now, here is one problem that ought to be solved by the simple process of talking it out without any of the old time sentimental prejudices.

"Maureen" argues with the old time woman sentiment that did her Romeo love her he would go to the ends of the earth for, in her case, to the end of the line for her. This, in spite of the fact that she punches a time clock herself, mornings, and in order to make it in fit condition she has to get her proper amount of sleep.

Women must get rid of some of their romantic theories or they're going to be left on the shelf. They must learn to face realities and compromise with such obstacles as distance. The beauty of our day is that they can do so and be in a position of gaining rather than losing. A central meeting place downtown would be the simple solution. Arrangement on the girl's part to stay in town at a friend's house or a hotel overnight is not too much to ask.

Women travel about with a great deal of safety these days even if they have to go home alone at a late hour. So a girl might volunteer to take the train home alone, if doing so is going to help along the friendship. On Sundays and holidays it is another matter. The man might be expected reasonably to make the long journey. But for working days we advocate letting down the bars often enough, anyway, to let the man see that the girl has a heart as well as a home in the far off outskirts.

ENGAGEMENT

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss A. Dorette Bergemann of Saginaw, formerly of Chicago and Wilmette, to Edwin Clark of Ogdensburg, N. Y., also formerly of Chicago. Son Is Born to Notables of Former Civic Opera

Opera lovers yesterday predicted a bright musical future for Henry Weber Jr., who was born Sunday night in the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest, the son of Marion Claire, young lyric soprano, and her conductor-husband, both operatic celebrities. The couple married in 1929 while both were members of the Chicago Civic opera. The mother expects to resume her professional career in January in several concerts. Weber is preparing to conduct grand opera performances in Milwaukee.

The True Story of a Great Ideal That Has Not Been Shattered

It has been a year and a half now, since the last of these True Story pages appeared. At that time we laid down for you what seemed to be a summation of the great American social and economic evolution which has now gone into the records of history.

So far as America is concerned, that story has been told. Those changes have taken place. All the factories in the land and all the machinery inside of them are now entirely constructed for mass production. And the only mass consumption that is big enough to swallow even any reasonable part of the meal is America's great overpowering group of wage-earning men and women.

This not only applies to products of every kind, it applies to service of every kind from light bulb to telephone. Yes, even you great power plants have strung every line you have to take care of a mass consumption of kilowatts. And only as the lights keep shining in your millions of wage-earners' homes can you even hope for profit in your field. If ever those lights go out, you can all shut down.

And what is true of power is just as true of automobiles or lipsticks or of any other product that America makes.

No; the purpose that has brought these pages back to you is far other than a sing-song repetition of a twice-told tale. Nor is it especially in our interests that they are reappearing once more, except as all of our interests are now pretty closely akin.

You men at the heads of industries have been doing things that are rather new to the world. Certainly, they have been absolutely new to the wage-earning world. You have left your own businesses and swung into the problem of national economic affairs with the zeal of crusaders. Many of you have knocked off ten years from your life with the strain of the effort you have made. Most of you could very well have retired and gone your way with all the money you could possibly need to last out your life expectancy.

These things have been done with too high a zeal and at too great a cost ever to be debited to sordid motives in the columns of history. But what you might like to know is how they are credited to you now. And that we can tell you.

Here at True Story Magazine we have tens upon tens of thousands of letters and manuscripts from the wage-earners of America that are telling that story as it could not be told in any other way. These are the records of that part of America which is still employed. And well employed.

Of course, it is hard for the surface thinker to conceive of the great mass of America as being still employed. But it is not hard for the real thinker to picture what would happen if that great mass were not employed. If ever the tremendous amount of actual physical work that is necessary to carry this nation along from day to day were actually stopped, America couldn't last for even a week.

Most homes still go about the regular business of their day—first to their butcher's and their grocer's for their food supplies, then down to the stores for the numerous other things they need; then home again to snap on the lights and prepare for the evening—without ever a thought of the enormous amount of actual physical work that had to be done before they could even think of putting a beefsteak on the pan or sticking a can opener into a single can or even taking the wrapper off of any of the packages that have been delivered to the door.

And it's wage-earning America that did it all. Wage-earning America, still employed, and pretty well employed—or there wouldn't be any packages coming home.

We have a sharper picture of this, perhaps, than you have, because we deal so closely with wage-earning America—still employed, and well employed.

True Story magazine has practically no unemployed circulation. Our readers buy True Story from month to month on the newsstands. It is virtually all sold that way. We have practically no subscription circulation. And we know that when wage-earners are out of a job or when things are tight and pressure comes on the purse, they do not buy our magazine.

So your greatest interest lies in knowing what these great masses of wage-earning America who are still well employed think of you who have been giving your very lives to the business of keeping them employed. How willing are they to co-operate in your effort? And now that America has apparently turned the corner it has been looking for so long, how fast can they go in that co-operation?

In the pages to follow these are some of the things we shall tell you with a considerable degree of accuracy, and these are the things that are very important to know.

MICHIGAN OPEN TO BID FOR GAME ON COAST

JOHNSTON FOR AMBASSADOR--AT 10 PER CENT

Fight Racket Full of Good Collectors.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 21.—The vacation conference between James A. Farley, the chairman of the New York prize fight commission, and his man, Franklin D. Roosevelt, whom he recently promoted into the political heavyweight championship, is arousing great interest among the prize-fight managers, who always knew that Mr. Farley would rise to the top some day. It is natural to expect that at this conference Mr. Farley will endeavor to take care of various deserving Democrats. What else would they confer about?

JAMES JOHNSTON.

Mr. Farley's acquaintance lies largely among the members of the boxing profession, and there are numerous federal positions for which some of them seem admirably qualified.

Now, There's Mr. Johnston.

James J. Johnston, the present Tammany ambassador to Madison Square Garden, while disavowing any public or altruistic motive, expresses a willingness to serve as ambassador to the Court of St. James's on a percentage basis. Being an old ex-Englishman, Mr. Johnston understands the English character thoroughly and would not be impressed by the social blandishments which so often have affected the judgment of distinguished Americans who went to London and sold their American point of view for a mess of bubble and squeak at Buckingham palace.

He has always abhorred amateurism in ambassadors as well as in prize-fights, and believes that as long as the United States sends ambassadors to London who spend more money than they receive in pay the United States will get that kind of representation.

He'll Do It for 10 Per Cent.

"Anybody who works for nothing is not worth anything," Mr. Johnston states. "What this country needs in London is an ambassador who will shake those rubber checks at them until they pay off. I understand that they owe this country a billion dollars, or is it ten billion dollars? I would take the job for a flat salary and ten per cent of all I can collect, even if I only collect a million dollars. That is $100,000 for me and it means $900,000 for the American government, which is $900,000 more than we are getting now. I would slap attachments on the crown jewels, the Tower of London, and the prince of Wales' horse.

"Every time the king invited me around to the house for a dish of tea I would bring those rubber checks of theirs along with me, and when he started to talk about the shooting in Scotland or blood is thicker than water, I would pull them out of my pocket and say, 'Yes, quite so; but could you dig up a few million dollars on account today, as this matter has been running for years and we are a little short of cash just now.' I would never let up squawking for my dough. Our ambassadors think it is vulgar to squawk.

What a Record, Folks!

"And, furthermore," Mr. Johnston states, "you can examine my record and you will not find a single case where I ever left a town with anybody owing me money. Sometimes I had to squawk, but I always got mine.

"It was very foolish of this government to lend this money to England and France and the rest of them without taking a piece of something as security. But that has been done and the job now is to send over ambassadors who will talk about nothing but these rubber checks day and night and slap attachments on everything. You cannot imagine how I would squawk for 10 per cent of the money that Great Britain owes this country and, though they might not like me, nobody ever likes a bill collector."

Here's a Man for France.

For ambassador to France Mr. Johnston suggests the name of Daniel McKetrick, an old manager of prize fighters who has spent much time in Paris and speaks the language fluently. The French diplomats are very suave, but Mr. McKetrick is persistent and he would never lose sight of the principal idea, which would be his percentage.

Mr. McKetrick hardly could be tricked by any of the French statesmen because he was able to hold his own and a little better in his dealings with the French prizefight managers years ago. And anybody knows, of course, that in a diplomatic contest with a first class French prize fight manager a French statesman would wind up minus his spats, cane, monocle and corset. Mr. McKetrick has a trophy closet full of spats, canes, monocles and corsets obtained in fair competition from French fight managers.

Dumb Dan for Speaker!

There is a pronounced sentiment in favor of the appointment of Dumb Daniel Morgan to the post of speaker of the house of representatives, be-

THE GUMPS—O, HAPPY DAY!

BIG TEN LIKELY TO AMEND RULE AGAINST TRIPS

Wolverine Players Still in Training.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

That University of Michigan's conference football champions, if formally invited, will participate against a Pacific coast eleven, probably Southern California, in the annual Tournament of Roses contest at Pasadena on New Year's day is more than a possibility. It is a strong probability.

FIELDING YOST.

This analysis of the situation is contrary to prevalent opinion because the conference has two rules to prevent such participation. These rules were waived last fall for post-season charity games, which proved such financial disappointments there is no sentiment for charity games this fall. The rules are those which limit conference teams to eight games and provide the season shall end on the Saturday before Thanksgiving day. They may be waived by two-thirds vote of the members of the conference faculty board of control. This board meets in Chicago Dec. 3 in regular session.

Wolverines Stay in Training.

Michigan's athletic authorities have not asked permission for a trip. They will not do so because no conference eleven has visited the coast since 1920, when Ohio State's forward passing champions met California and 28 to 0 defea., learning what forward passing was all about.

That Michigan is receptive is deduced from the fact that Athletic Director Yost has not proclaimed his usual emphatic "No" when questioned, but has parried the query. More significant, perhaps, is the fact that Wolverine players have not broken training.

So while Michigan apparently is willing, although not so proclaiming, there is no wish at Ann Arbor to appear to seek such permission. But according to information believed reliable, several members of the faculty committee already have been approached on the subject, either formally or informally. An impelling influence are the 5,000 Big Ten graduates on the Pacific coast who have for several years been complaining that eastern and southern elevens appear at Pasadena, but that the conference is not represented.

Suggest Trip Every Five Years.

Before Michigan's title claim was established, the subject was due for discussion at the coming meeting. A feeling had developed in some quarters that the rules might be amended rather than rescinded. It was suggested that such a trip be authorized, say every fifth or every seventh year, simply that the conference be represented on the Pacific coast at infrequent intervals in response to demands of Big Ten alumni there.

I am told Michigan alumni suggested that the amendment for games every fifth year, or whatever term chosen, go into effect in 1933, which would absolve Michigan of selfish motive at this time.

Against this proposal, however, is the belief that this year's Michigan eleven is representative of conference football and would acquit itself creditably.

Weather Balks Purdue Game.

To the objection that Michigan might better play Purdue a post-season game in this territory, since neither was beaten although the Boilermakers were tied by Northwestern, the answer is that early winter weather leaves no assurance of a suitable date on which a large crowd would be assured, and that last fall's post-season games left so much ill feeling over their scheduling they will not be repeated.

Coach Harry Kipke and his Wolverines have expressed warm approval of the informal suggestions. That is natural. Director Yost has been noncommittal. The possible $75,000 to $100,000 share of gate receipts in a year of lean earnings should be a factor aside from the desire of members of the team. Michigan would be risking its prestige, now unmarred by defeat, but that is a hazard the players at least would gladly meet.

I have the strongest reasons for believing this subject will come up at the meeting Dec. 3, and that the trip may be approved with Michigan receptive, but not asking it. If approved, it will be because faculty members of the conference board, not the different athletic departments, believe such occasional trips will be for the best interests of Big Ten football.

TALKING IT OVER

BY ARCH WARD.

BIG TEN fooball is over for 1932 and this is one year when there can be no dispute about the champion. Michigan, which shared a three way tie last season with Purdue and Northwestern, is out in front alone.

There, of course, are many who argue that Purdue is a stronger team, taking the season's records of the two teams as a basis of comparison. But they can't get around the fact that on one Saturday of the campaign Purdue was no better than Northwestern, a team which Michigan defeated, 15 to 6.

Michigan at no time this season looked like a powerful offensive eleven, but it always had the punch to outscore its opponent. And they pay off on winning scores. Modern football at Michigan seldom has been dependent upon a whirlwind attack. Its success rather has rested in strong defense, good punting and expert execution of fundamentals.

"You never see a Michigan team that doesn't block and tackle," he remarked Saturday night after his alma mater had clinched the title. "After all, football consists chiefly of tackling and blocking. Too many college coaches overlook this fact. That is why a boy who has been a sensation perhaps as a ball carrier fails to make good in professional football. There is no place in the pro game for a fellow who can't clear a path for the runner and bring down a ball carrier effectively.

"In my day at Michigan we did little else for the first ten days of practice except tackle and block. Some of the schools down east start off with signal drill the first day the squad reports. We didn't bother with signals until the second week.

"Another thing," Benny went on, "you seldom hear of a serious injury at Ann Arbor. That isn't just luck. The long early season practice in blocking, tackling and falling on the ball prepares players for the bumps they are sure to receive in actual competition."

Officials in charge of the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena New Year's day are still hopeful of getting Michigan to play the Pacific coast champion, which in all probability will be Southern California. There is a Big Ten rule against post-season games, and the faculty committee of the conference always has been reluctant to waive technicalities.

This, however, has been an unusual year. Attendance and receipts have fallen off sharply at every Big Ten university. Athletic leaders are wondering where they will obtain money to finance their promotional programs.

They might lighten their burden by permitting Michigan to play at Pasadena and split the revenue which the Wolverines would derive among the ten schools. Let Michigan keep one-tenth of the profits and the other nine schools divide the rest.

It is interesting to observe that only three of last year's sectional leaders have been able to retain their places this season.

Tulane, champion of the Southern conference in 1931, has been defeated by Alabama Polytechnic and tied by Vanderbilt. Alabama Poly, with an unbroken string of victories, is leading the race. Southern Methodist, winner in the Southwest conference a year ago, has been defeated four times and tied twice.

Drake, the 1931 Missouri Valley title holder, has been whipped by Oklahoma Aggies, Creighton, and Grinnell. Purdue and Northwestern, which shared a triple tie with Michigan in the Big Ten, have yielded this year to the Wolverines.

The holdovers are Nebraska, which has won its third straight Big Six championship; Utah, which repeated this season in the Rocky Mountain conference, and Southern California, which is out in front among the Pacific coast schools.

MAROONS NAME CASSELS, TACKLE, MOST VALUABLE

In Tribune Trophy Race; Zimmer 1933 Captain.

William B. Cassels, left tackle and silent man of the University of Chicago football team, yesterday was voted the most valuable team player of the 1932 season on the Midway. Thus Cassels won THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE white gold football and became the Maroon candidate for THE TRIBUNE'S annual award of a silver football to the Big Ten player whose services were least dispensible. Pete Zimmer was elected 1933 captain.

PETE ZIMMER.

Thirty-three years ago Bill Cassels' father, Bert Cassels, playing at end for Coach Stagg, was one of the most valuable players on the first Maroon team to win a championship. Yesterday Bill's work as a block off the old chip was recognized by his teammates in a vote that was almost an acclamation.

Plays 1,101 Minutes.

Cassels has played more football than any other member of the Maroon team. In 1930, his sophomore year, he was in action 132 minutes. In 1931, he played 540 minutes, every minute of each of the nine games the Maroons played, including every minute of both games of the opening double header. This season he played 429 out of a possible 480 minutes, bringing his total playing time up to 1,101 minutes.

The least vocal member of the Maroon team, probably the quietest football player of the decade, Cassels threw his 200 pounds into every play, in practice or in competition, with intelligence and a kind of voiceless ferocity.

"Bill has been the most consistent player on the team," Captain Elect Zimmer said yesterday. "He was the bulwark of the left side of our line. He was in every play. They didn't make ground through Cassels." Never hurt, or at least never hurt enough to make it known, Cassels never missed practice, yet seldom got enthusiastic or entered into the incidental playful skirmishes.

Bill played his high school football at Hinsdale, where his family lives. He is a good student, and can be observed at the Alpha Delta Phi house of an evening reading anything from Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird" to "The Brothers Karamazov." He is 6 feet 4 inches tall and 22 years old. His athletic interests have been confined to football.

Zimmer Star Passer, Runner.

Zimmer, whose forward passing and brilliant open field running were big elements of the Maroon attack this season, was elected captain of the 1933 football team at a meeting of lettermen. Zimmer, who will be a senior next season, is 20 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall, and weighs 184 pounds. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Twenty-three members of the squad were awarded major letters, thirteen of the "C's" being to men who had not previously received the award in football. Capt. Don Birney, Grand Island, Neb., William B. Cassels, Hinsdale, Ill., Keith Parsons, Davenport, Ia., Raymond Zenner, Riverside, Ill., Allan Summers, Chicago, Vinson Sahlin, Chicago, John Spearing, Milwaukee, Pompeo Toigo, Benld, Ill., Pete Zimmer, La Grange, Ill., and Hugh Mendenhall, Terre Haute, Ind., were the previous letter winners.

New Letter Men.

HONOR MAN OF THE MIDWAY

William B. Cassels, tackle, yesterday was selected by his teammates on the University of Chicago football eleven as the player most valuable to the team. Cassels and one representative from each of the other Big Ten schools will be considered for The Tribune trophy.

D-o-n-n-i-e M-c-F-a-d-y-e-n! Go to the Head of the Class

SPELLING TEST

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Donnie McFadyen may be just a good Blackhawk forward to you, but to THE TRIBUNE Sport and Composing departments he is a living, burning issue—a challenge to that sacred journalistic principle which demands accuracy in the printing of proper names.

This is Donnie's first year as a Blackhawk, but you must remember that he was a member of the Shamrocks last season and the season before that. It was two years ago that he became an issue under the roof where this is being written.

That Was Year of Donie Bush, Danny MacFayden.

That fall Donie Bush had just completed his first year as manager of the White Sox and Danny MacFayden had put in a good season with the Boston Red Sox. The names had been often in the public prints. And then comes along a Donnie McFadyen, with two n's in the Donnie and the y coming after the d in McFadyen, not to mention the absence of an a in the Mc.

As soon as we heard about the arrival of this fine young hockey player, we were confident that he or, rather, his name, would raise a lot of hell in our composing and proof room departments. We were right.

The first few Shamrock stories carried his name several different ways, none of them right on both ends. Finally a peak was reached when they had him spelled wrong three different ways in one piece.

Now it so happens that Donnie not only holds an A. B. degree from Marquette university, but now is a law senior at the University of Chicago, an experience which has sharpened his flair for research.

Certainly, I Know How to Spell It!

We went to him and asked him if he was sure he knew how to spell his own name, seeing as our printers and proofreaders had such different ideas in the matter. Donnie was offended and took us through enough history of the Scotch clans to convince us that a McFadyen could be only a McFadyen. He said he never knew of a McFayden or a Macfayden being hanged or arrested for sheep stealing, but if our printers didn't mind, would they please let him be a good old McFadyen.

This seemed a reasonable request, so after checking ourself and other copy handlers to make sure we were spelling it Donnie McFadyen, we conspired with a Mr. La Shonse, a printer of merit and as keen a Chinaman as ever pied a stickful of type, to get the name in the paper the way Donnie himself spells it. Mr. La Shonse's vigilance was rewarded. The piece came out in the first edition spelled correctly, not once, but four times.

We went to the composing room and congratulated Mr. La Shonse warmly. It was indeed a triumph, and we told him that the Shamrocks wanted him to be their guest in a box at the next game. But our rejoicing came too soon. We had reckoned without the astute proofreading department. The proofroom department got busy between editions and in the second edition had our hero spelled wrong again.

But it only happened once. Since that time Mr. McFadyen in THE TRIBUNE always has been spelled the way he spells it himself. And this is something that no other composing room in Chicago can claim for itself.

Though he is a thorough Scot, Donnie was born on this continent, in Crossfield, Alberta, Canada, which is not far from Calgary. His parents have a farm there and every fall Donnie takes time out from his studies in Chicago to go to Crossfield, where he helps with the harvest and gets an early start on his physical conditioning in preparation for the hockey season.

Before enrolling at Marquette in 1926 Donnie studied at the Calgary Normal school. Normal didn't have a star hockey team, but Marquette wanted one, so the young man continued his education there and became an intercollegiate hockey star, under the coaching of Kay Iverson, brother of his present coach, Emil, of the Hawks. He joined the Shamrocks after graduating from Marquette.

U. S. G. A. Plans to Name Successor Soon.

Funeral services for Robert Myron Cutting, nominee for the presidency of the United States Golf association, will be held this afternoon at the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bartelme, 1134 Sheridan road, Hubbard Woods. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery. Mr. Cutting, who was 50 years old, died suddenly Sunday night of heart disease in the Bartelme home.

His death apparently defeated the chance of the middle west to possess the presidency of the U. S. G. A. for the national open tournament at the North Shore club in Chicago and the national amateur in Cincinnati next year. Mr. Cutting had been selected only last week by the nominating committee as its choice for the presidency. The choice was made partly because of the two important golf meets in the middle west and the opening of the World's Fair.

Griscom in Line for Job.

Melvin A. Traylor, head of the nominating committee, said yesterday that a new nomination would be made within the next two weeks, probably by mail. The other vice president in line for the office is Rodman G. Griscom of Philadelphia. Traylor pointed out that the only other westerner to receive the nomination in recent years, Charles Pfeil of Memphis, died in the fall of 1927 before taking office.

Mr. Cutting, an enthusiastic golfer who shot consistently in the low eighties, made his first official contact with the game in 1924, when he represented the Hinsdale club at western amateur. He was made secretary of the western in the following year, and subsequently held the positions of vice president and president, and official of the U. S. G. A.

Was Fearless Official.

He was recognized as one of the most fearless officials in the game and insisted on rigid enforcement of the rules. Mr. Cutting is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Bartelme Cutting, and his father, the former Judge Charles S. Cutting. Besides his golf interests, Mr. Cutting was prominent among business men of Chicago as head of the R. M. Cutting company, 401 North Ogden avenue, makers of the Chicago trucks.

U. S. G. A. TO RECONVENE

New York, Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Owing to the death of R. M. Cutting of Chicago, prospective president of United States Golf association, the committee which nominated him for the highest official honor of American golfdom will reconvene to choose a new nominee. Its chairman, Melvin A. Traylor of Chicago, probably will call the meeting within ten days, Herbert H. Ramsay, retiring president, said here today.

The feeling here is that either Herbert Jaques of Boston, senior vice president of the National association, or John G. Jackson of New York, junior vice president of the association, will be nominated to head the association. Mr. Jaques has been a member of the executive committee for several years and Mr. Jackson, who also is a member, has served as general counsel.

Speaking of Mr. Cutting's death Mr. Ramsay said:

"It was, of course, a great shock to all of us, particularly to the ones who had worked along with him for so many years. He was one of the most forceful people in the administration of golf in this country. He had wide experience and an acquaintance with golfers from coast to coast. His death brings great loss not only to the association but to the game of golf."

FOOTBALL ENTHUSIASM.

MICHIGAN'S conference football champions were greeted by 5,000 welcoming students at Ann Arbor when they returned from their final victory of the season over Minnesota at Minneapolis.

To The Wake that demonstration was significant. If the greeting had been extended some place other than Ann Arbor it would not have been so significant. Victory, however, is no stranger to Wolverine teams. If not clear titles, at least co-titles had been shared by Michigan elevens of 1930 and 1931.

When The Wake was in Ann Arbor this fall we were somewhat surprised by the undergraduate attitude toward contests on the following Saturday. It was not apathy, but rather as if Michigan surely would win; and so it was just another Saturday on the football schedule.

Unlike the old days when studies were suspended for the week before a big game and nothing else was discussed, affairs went on about as usual. Faculty members told us students at last were becoming sane. Those closer to the undergraduate life explained students now had so many more interests that football was just one of them.

To an old timer that was disappointing. We preferred those days when victory or defeat of one's football eleven meant exultation or gloom for many days thereafter. We feared colleges, perhaps, were becoming merely educational institutions. Then we decided it was not that entirely, but rather that Michigan students were sated with victories. Once they never were so sated.

Then the disturbing thought arises that perhaps, after all, waning enthusiasm instead of the depression alone had reduced football attendance this fall; that our great college sport had been deemphasized from within instead of from without.

Michigan's defeat of Minnesota was anticipated generally by football followers and critics. The Wolverines won by a narrower margin than was expected anywhere except, perhaps, at Minneapolis. Then this great team was greeted by 5,000 students on its arrival home.

Since this demonstration took place in Ann Arbor, where a football title is not a new experience, it convinces us that football stadiums, when normal conditions prevail, again will be filled to their capacity by spectators.

What's the Use?

I'd love to be a poet;
I'd pen a mighty ode;
I'm sure you'd never know it,
But I long to ease the load
Of mankind with a saga,
To live throughout all time.
But here's what drives me gaga—
How DOES one make a rhyme?

Free verse is too pedantic
To catch the common eye;
I want to go romantic—
Now please don't ask me why.
The urge has come upon me,
A feeling quite sublime,
But here I sit, dog gone me,
Without a single rhyme.

HOPE TO SAVE GELBERT'S LEG BY OPERATION

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 21.—(AP)—His left leg shattered, the result of a hunting accident, Charlie Gelbert, shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals, today was raced 150 miles from Chambersburg, Pa., to a Philadelphia hospital, where he will undergo an operation.

Doctors said Gelbert's future baseball career depends on the success of the treatment.

Gelbert's condition is more serious than believed at first, attendants explained afterward, and he cannot be operated upon for three or four days.

WEASEL CATCHES FOOLISH RABBIT: FOREST TRAGEDY

Hare Dodges Instead of Taking Straight Course.

BY BOB BECKER.

Find a hungry weasel near a big snowshoe hare or rabbit of the north woods and you can stand by with the expectation that a tragedy is going to be enacted before your eyes. Such a thing happened last week when we were tramping around the woods with the four archers who were on the trail of buck deer in the Blaney special archery preserve of the upper peninsula of Michigan.

Frank W. Mosher, one of the expert bow and arrow shooters in the party, witnessed the weasel-rabbit drama just a few minutes before we joined him on the first morning of the shooting season. In fact, he not only had a ringside seat in the snow as the snowflakes swirled down through the trees but he also was a part of the episode.

Hare Darts Out.

While looking for deer he was slowly and quietly moving through the cutover timber. Suddenly he saw a snowshoe hare come out of a thicket, cross a fairly open area and dart into another thicket on the edge of a swampy area a few yards to his left. As the animal disappeared a weasel leaped out of the brush and followed the rabbit. Out dashed the snowshoe hare almost immediately and again it crossed the open stretch and jumped into the brush where it originally had been.

By this time Mosher realized he was watching the relentless drive of a weasel intent on killing the hare. So he stood still and watched the show. No sooner had the hare left the shelter of the thicket than out came the weasel, still on the trail, but this time ten or fifteen feet behind. The rabbit reappeared in a second, a little more hurried in its movements, but still too dumb to sprint into the forest to safety. Instead it just kept going back and forth, back and forth from one thicket to another with the weasel close behind.

Arrow Nicks Rabbit.

Mosher decided to scare the hare and speed it up. So he drew his big bow and shot an arrow at it. Instead he barely nicked the skin of the animal, thus drawing a little blood. When the weasel smelled those few drops of blood he showed his real killing and bloodthirsty nature. In a flash he doubled his pace to close in on the hare.

Mosher quickly drew another arrow from his quiver to see if he could get the weasel, for it was time to do something for that foolish rabbit. But the crafty weasel was too quick. The aroused killer sped on into the thicket, his slim white form covering the ground with surprising speed. A few seconds elapsed and then out of the swamp came the death squall of the stricken hare.

SOUTHERN CUTS PLAYER LIMIT FOR NEXT YEAR TO 16

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The Southern association reduced its player limit from seventeen to sixteen today and stipulated that no club could carry more than ten class A baseball players, as compared to twelve last season. In another economy move the association established a salary limit of $4,500 per month and fixed fines of $1,000 for any club violating the rule and $500 for any player accepting more than that amount.

Upon the insistence of the smaller clubs in the league the directors reduced the waiver price from $2,000 to $1,000.

cause speaking is Dumb Daniel's vocation in life and if there is a job in the government which asks for a fluent and indefatigable speaker on various topics, that job would seem to have been created for Mr. Morgan. It was Mr. Morgan who found himself in a hotel room with Col. Wild Bill Lyons one time and talked for 48 hours. The old colonel finally collapsed.

On being revived the colonel admitted that he had not been able to win a single argument from Daniel and added that he had not even been able to break through Daniel's service. It was the greatest upset in history. Up to that time Colonel Lyons had been regarded as the world's greatest free style talker.

There have been various names suggested for the job of secretary of the treasury, but it has been so long since the nominees saw any money that it is thought best not to thrust any of the boys into this place abruptly. It might unhinge them mentally.

For the new position of secretary of beer, however, the name of James Bronson, the old saloonkeeper of Joplin, Mo., has strong backing. It is true that Mr. Bronson was a Y. M. C. A. boxing director during the war, but his friends insist that this should not be held against him, as he quit the Y. M. C. A. soon afterward and has a clear record ever since. Party lines were swept away at the time and friends of Mr. Bronson's candidacy for the beer department insist that his fine old record as a saloonkeeper in Joplin cannot be nullified by one false step in the emotional stress of the time.

Certainly Mr. Bronson knows beer and there are plenty of witnesses to testify that he once ran the last wet spot between southwestern Missouri and the Gulf of Mexico.

For secretary of labor there are no nominees at all from the prize fight profession. A canvas of the available deserving Democrats on the professional list shows that nobody has any more than a hearsay knowledge of labor and the questionnaires revealed that they were unanimously opposed to it on principle.

YALE WILL PLAY TWO SOUTHERN TEAMS IN 1933

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Yale will meet three football teams next fall which were not on the 1932 list, it was revealed in the schedule announced tonight.

The teams include two southern elevens, Georgia, and Washington and Lee. The third eleven is Maine, which was accorded the opening date, Oct. 7. Georgia will come to Yale in 1933 on Nov. 11. Washington and Lee will be met Oct. 14.

Despite a belief that the 1933 football schedule would be curtailed following a report of a committee to the university last spring advising a five game schedule the card calls for eight games as against seven this year.

Yale will revert to the practice begun a year ago when Princeton was met in the final game in alternate years. The Tigers will visit New Haven Dec. 2.

The schedule:

Oct. 7, Maine; Oct. 14, Washington and Lee; Oct. 21, Brown; Oct. 28, Army; Nov. 4, Dartmouth; Nov. 18, Georgia; Nov. 25, Harvard at Cambridge; Dec. 2, Princeton.

P. G. A. TO BAR ALTERNATES IN TITLE TOURNEYS

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Alternates or substitutes to qualifiers for future Professional Golfers association championship tournaments will not be permitted to participate in the title events, delegates to the annual convention decided at the opening session today.

Heretofore, players next in rank below qualifiers in the sectional tournaments were allowed to play when the qualifiers could not.

Another amendment to the constitution provided that the executive committee may invite foreign professionals visiting in this country to play in the championship tournament.

The most important item on tomorrow's docket will be the selection of the 1933 Ryder cup team, which will represent the United States against British stars, next May 15, a week before the British open championship tournament.

Who's the Clown? Wolfe Knocks Out Jarrell in 8th

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Eddie [Kid] Wolfe, Cleveland welterweight, knocked out Pee Wee Jarrell of Fort Wayne, Ind., in the eighth round of their scheduled ten round bout tonight. Before the knockout Wolfe had lost all but one of the first seven rounds. Jarrell was coasting along and clowning when he caught an uppercut on the chin and went down for the count. Wolfe weighed 147½; Jarrell, 146.

K. O. Christner, 205, of Akron, O., outpointed Charlie Massare, 174½, of New York, in the eight round semi-windup.

CARDINALS POINT TO CHECK BEARS ON THANKSGIVING

Pro Teams Will Battle for City Honors.

Chicago's National Professional league football teams, the Bears and the Cardinals, will play at Wrigley field Thanksgiving day morning to settle city honors following a scoreless battle Oct. 9 in their first meeting of the season. The kickoff will be at 11 o'clock.

The Bears are conceded a chance to win the National league football title following the defeat of the Green Bay Packers Sunday by the New York Giants. The Cardinals are definitely out of the championship race, but the team is pointed for the Thursday game with the hope of eliminating the Bears.

Teams at Full Strength.

Both teams are expected to be at full strength for the Thanksgiving morning contest. Coach Jack Chevigny of the Cardinals sent Irvin Hill, full back, and Lou Gordon, tackle, home from the east before the game with Stapleton Sunday to recuperate from injuries. Frank McNally, center, also on the injured list, remained in Chicago over the week-end. These three players are expected to get in the lineup against the Bears.

Bears Hold Edge.

The Cardinals and Bears have played five scoreless ties, three of them on Thanksgiving day, since the teams began football rivalry in 1920. The Bears have won six Thanksgiving day games and the Cardinals three. Record of Bears-Cardinals Thanksgiving day games:

1920—Bears, 10; Cards, 0.
1922—Cards, 9; Bears, 0.

1926—Bears, 0; Cards, 0.

FATHERS HALT PLANS FOR PREP CHARITY GAME

Morgan Park Players Need Rest, Dads Rule.

Mount Carmel, Catholic High School league football champion, and Morgan Park, winner of the Public School league title, will not meet in a post-season charity game. This decision was reached yesterday after a meeting of officials of the leagues at the offices of A. H. Pritzlaff, secretary of the City league.

Morgan Park was reluctant to meet the Catholic league champion because of the objection of the fathers of six regular players. According to Richard Tweedie, Morgan Park athletic director, Principal William Schach and City league officials were in favor of the contest.

Have Enough Football.

"I don't see why the boys should play any more," said William R. Bowlin, father of Capt. Dick Bowlin of Morgan Park. "They have played enough. The fathers of several other players, including Tompkins, Carroll and Kargo, also believe the boys should not play. Undoubtedly adverse weather conditions would prevail on the date suggested for the game [Dec. 3]."

Mr. Bowlin revealed that the fathers of the players had met Sunday night.

No York-Evanston Game.

Efforts to bring together two other Chicagoland high school championship teams—Evanston of the Suburban league and York of the West Suburban league—also failed yesterday. York, which ended its league schedule last Saturday, was granted permission to play a post-season game, however. Evanston declined to meet York, announcing that basketball already was under way at the school.

York, Principal George Letts said, will seek an opponent today. If it succeeds in finding a team, the game probably will be played on Dec. 3.

Metcalfe Is Credited with U.S. Record

New York, Nov. 21.—[Special.]—The brilliant but losing performances of Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette and Mrs. Evelyn Hall of Chicago in the Olympic games were accorded American record recognition and the equally gallant effort of Ralph Hill in his disputed 5,000 meter race against Lauri Lehtinen of Finland was denied as a new mark.

These moves were the high spot in the second day of the 44th annual convention of the Amateur Athletic union today. The action of the A. A. U. body is unprecedented in amateur sports history and it was the original approval of Hill's record that precipitated a drive to enter Metcalfe and Mrs. Hall on the scrolls and eliminate Hill.

Same Time for Hill.

When Lehtinen snapped the tape at Los Angeles he was caught in 14:30, a new American record. Six inches behind came Hill and a separate battery of watches also snapped down in the identical figures for the American, thus entitling him to both an Olympic and presumably an American mark. When the record committee gave its stamp of approval to Hill's feat the convention itself agreed.

Several hours later in the afternoon session the point was raised that Metcalfe and Mrs. Hall both hit the tape at the identical moment with Eddie Tolan and Babe Didrikson respectively.

Call Them Dead Heats.

According to the new definition of a "finish" these two races would have been termed dead heats as first and second place winners hit the tape together. The old standards called for the gold medal to go to the one whose body first crossed the line on the ground.

On this principle Tolan was given the Olympic 100 meter championship over Metcalfe in :10.3, and Miss Didrikson the 80 meter hurdle title over Miss Hall in :11.7.

Hence Past President Gustavus T. Kirby urged that Metcalfe and Mrs. Hall be bracketed in the records with the two victors. Mr. Kirby's move was carried unanimously.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—John Keckich of Whiting, Ind., a guard, tonight was named winner of the Balfour award which each year is presented to the outstanding player on the Indiana football team. The award was made at a banquet honoring football players and coaches.

More than 500 students attended the banquet and heard speeches by Dr. William L. Bryan, president of Indiana university; E. C. Hayes, head football coach; A. J. Nowack and W. H. Thom, assistant coaches; Z. G. Clevenger, athletic director, and Prof. W. A. Cogshall.

The Balfour award is given each year by L. A. Balfour of Attleboro, Mass. Selections are made by coaches on a basis of athletic and scholastic performance.

PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE CHOPS WAIVER PRICE

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Directors of the Pacific Coast league sounded a keynote of lower prices for baseball players in interleague deals, but sidestepped a discussion of reducing admission prices, in the shortest annual session since the circuit was established 29 years ago.

Night baseball and broadcasting of games came in for considerable talk, but the status of these side issues remained unchanged. The various clubs will continue as formerly, playing after dark and broadcasting games as they see fit.

Notre Dame Gets Lesson in Blocking

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Blocking was the subject of today's drill for the Notre Dame football squad. Half backs and full backs on ends; end on tackles; guard on ends; a line scrimmage for the tackles and centers, quarter back on secondary, and every other kind of a block called for in the team's assortment of 140 plays were brought out.

Individuals were singled out for special lectures in making a contact and then driving with the legs.

Hope for Slow Field.

Notre Dame has been powerful on defense this year. It is equipped with the same power plays, deceptiveness, and general mode of attack it has had in the past, with the addition of some special scoring formations, but few of them will work without speed and blocking, according to Coach Anderson.

He said today that the only thing which can keep Saturday's game with Army from becoming a rout is a soft field to slow up the Cadet backs or a dry field and good blocking on the part of the Irish.

ARMY IN GOOD SHAPE.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—The Army maintained silence today as to its plans for the Notre Dame game next Saturday. Maj. Ralph Sasse's only statement in connection with the game was that the squad came through the West Virginia Wesleyan game without injury and with the exception of Herb and King all players would be available Saturday.

New Duplicate Bridge Code Is Proposed

New York, Nov. 21.—[Special.]—A temporary code of laws for duplicate contract bridge was made public today by the joint committee of the United States Bridge association and of the American Bridge league, of which Ely Culbertson is chairman.

The new code is tentative, and subject to revision before it becomes established on Feb. 1, 1933. It will be used in the national championship tournament of the American Bridge league at the Ritz-Carlton hotel next week.

Provide 100 Point Premium.

The most important change is the provision of a 100-point premium for a partial score or less than game contract, thus giving to duplicate something of the interest of actual rubber game play. The scoring provides for the new trick count, clubs and diamonds counting 20, hearts and spades 30, while in no trump the first, third, fifth and seventh odd tricks count 30, and the second, fourth and sixth 40 each.

For game contracts scored the premiums remain unchanged; 300 if not vulnerable and 500 if vulnerable. The bonus for grand slam remains at 1,000 not vulnerable and 1,500 vulnerable. Over tricks will be scored at the regular bid trick values, while the under trick penalty recently announced for rubber duplicate contract, eliminating the bonus for successfully making a doubled or redoubled contract, has been adopted.

Simplify Revoke Law.

The revoke law has been simplified, and is almost identical to the one recently announced for rubber play.

A new provisions in the code permits the entry of a five man team in a tournament, with all five to share equally in the honors if all of them play through at least one session.

STADIUM SIGNS GEORGE NICHOLS; SEEKS OPPONENT

Light Heavy Champion on Carnera Card Nov. 30.

George Nichols, light heavyweight champion, has accepted terms for a bout on the King Levinsky-Primo Carnera boxing card at the Chicago Stadium on Nov. 30, it was learned yesterday. His opponent may be Frankie Battaglia, Winnipeg, Can., 165 pound fighter, who started training yesterday at the Arcade gymnasium. The Nichols-Battaglia match will not be announced officially until the board of directors at the stadium sanction the contest.

Primo Carnera will arrive Thursday morning to finish drills for the Levinsky bout. He will work out at the Arcade. The match will be Carnera's first in Chicago since he won from King Levinsky at the Stadium a year ago. Since then he has had 19 matches and won them all but two, Stanley Poreda and Larry Gains being awarded decisions over him. In the first Levinsky bout Carnera weighed 272½ pounds and King scaled 194. Primo will weigh 270 pounds for this bout and Levinsky 202.

Two bouts feature the weekly professional boxing show tonight at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue. Matchmaker Johnny Coulon announced that George La Marre, hard hitting heavyweight, will meet Bob Stone in the five round windup.

Danny Neenan, former Golden Gloves boxer, who has been making rapid strides in the pro game, will meet Freddie Dolph of Harvey in the semi-windup at 138 pounds. Other bouts on the program will bring together Eddie Chinski vs. Virgil Beml; Jackie Parker vs. Jack Ripp; Jerry Kucera vs. Steve Zene and Johnny Terry vs. Paddy Waltier.

Harry Dublinsky, Chicago boxer, signed yesterday to meet Tracey Cox at Indianapolis next Tuesday. Cox, who is listed as the seventh best lightweight by the National Boxing association, was beaten by Dublinsky two months ago. This match has been set for 10 rounds at 139 pounds.

Barney Ross, west side lightweight, and Billy Gladstone of the north side will leave this morning for Milwaukee, where they box Friday. Ross faces Johnny Farr and Gladstone clashes with Pete Pantaleo.

The Illinois athletic commission yesterday placed Eddie Jacobs on probation for 90 days for violating the rules in a wrestling exhibition with John Holda at the Midway arena last Tuesday. The commission sanctioned the Primo Carnera-King Levinsky bout at the Stadium and the new date, Nov. 30. Charles Hall, head of the Coliseum Athletic club, has filed a bond and an application with the commission for a promoter's license to present shows at the Coliseum, starting Dec. 9.

Jack Kilbourne, South Chicago middleweight, will engage in two bouts within five days, his manager, Jimmy Carres, announced last night. Abie Bain will be Kilbourne's opponent at Wilmington, Del., Thursday, and Johnny Ketchell will be Jack's foe at Philadelphia Monday.

Capt. Jack Reilly of the Illinois National Guard has announced that a card involving members of the I. N. G. and the Naval Reserve will be offered at the Diversey armory, 1539 Diversey boulevard, tomorrow night. There are 10 bouts scheduled.

PARLEY ON INDIA BARS ELECTORAL COLLEGE SYSTEM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The third Indian round table conference, which is really only a large committee of hand-picked delegates meeting to frame an Indian self-government bill to be submitted to parliament, held its first business meeting today. If it keeps up the speed record established at today's two sessions it will be able to keep the promise to finish the bill well before Christmas.

Viscount Sankey, British lord chancellor, who presided, welcomed the delegates, who included Begum Shah Nawaz, the only woman delegate, whose father, Sir Muhammed Shafi, was a delegate to the last conference and has since died.

Solve Two Questions.

Lord Sankey submitted a series of topics for discussion. The delegates plunged directly into the work of clearin off the two most important and started discussion of the third.

The first questions tackled were the method of election and the nature of the franchise in the provincial legislatures. Representative Indian princes took no part in the discussion, as the matter interested only British India, but they reserved the right to intervene should their interests be affected.

The conference had before it the report of Lord Lothian's committee of the last conference and decided to accept its recommendation that the method of election be by direct vote, excluding all such devices as electoral colleges or group systems, and that the essential basis of the franchise should be property qualifications.

Provide for Untouchables.

The principle of educational qualification was rejected on the ground that it would add only a trifling number to the electorate and prove difficult to work out in practice.

It was also agreed that as the recommendations of the Lothian committee would enfranchise only a small percentage of the depressed classes—the untouchables—a special provision should be made to secure the presence on the electoral roll of every district a larger percentage of these, 10 per cent being the proportion aimed at.

Discussion was begun on the enfranchisement of women and will be continued tomorrow.

Clearing House O.K.'s Lower Rate.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The Chicago Clearing House association yesterday voted to reduce the interest rate on savings deposits from 3 to 2½ per cent effective Jan. 1, 1933. The clearing house, which numbers among its members the principal banks in the city, thus formally adopted the tentative agreement which was entered into by a number of the leading banks last week.

The move had been under consideration for several months and it was anticipated that the Chicago banks would have to yield to the pressure of low money rates by reducing the interest on savings deposits. It is the first reduction in savings rate the Chicago banks have made during the present easy money period. Banks in other sections of the country have taken similar steps. In the early months last year the New York banks took the lead by reducing the rates on "thrift" accounts.

Report Shows Cause.

The conditions which have brought about the slashing of the interest rate are sharply portrayed in the weekly report issued yesterday on the position of the reserve member banks in the principal cities of the country.

The upward trend of deposits continued, thus further choking the banks with cash for which they have no profitable outlet. At the same time the apparent lack of demand for commercial credit was reflected in a sharp decline in loans and discounts of the member banks.

A further significant change disclosed by the report was a reduction of $18,000,000 in the volume of government deposits. The banks in the metropolitan centers have been giving up their government deposits because they have proved unprofitable for the same reason that savings deposits at 3 per cent have been unprofitable.

Loans Off $82,000,000.

The contraction of commercial credit resulting from the low ebb of business activity brought a reduction of $82,000,000 in the loans and discounts of reporting banks last week. A reduction in loans on securities accounted for $46,000,000 of the decline, while the balance represented the shrinkages in other types of loans.

While time deposits declined moderately by $13,000,000 this was more than offset by an expansion of $79,000,000 in demand deposits. An increase of $18,000,000 in the investments in government securities suggests that the member banks are finding it unnecessary to liquidate any of these holdings to pay off the Christmas savings club deposits.

Net Gain of $3,000,000.

The banks did reduce their other investments by $15,000,000, but the result of these two transactions was a net increase in total investments of $3,000,000.

Whether a continuation of the easy money policy of the federal reserve will result in the discontinuance of interest on demand deposits is now being discussed by bankers. At present banks here are paying ½ of one per cent on large demand deposits. This rate was adopted early in 1931 and is the lowest ever paid on such deposits. If it should be discontinued it is expected that the first step will be taken by the New York banks.

Philip R. Clarke, president of the City National Bank and Trust company, was formally elected president of the Clearing association yesterday. He was formerly vice president. He succeeds Earle H. Reynolds, president of the Peoples Trust and Savings bank, now in the process of liquidation.

Not all the banks in the city are members of the clearing house, but it is expected that nonmembers will follow the clearing house in the interest reduction.

Birthday of Road Recalls Epic of West

BY SCRUTATOR.

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad will be 85 years old tomorrow. Its anniversary recalls an epic in railroad history and coincides with the development of the western half of the United States.

The Milwaukee system has been built within the span of a long lived man, but, for that matter, railroad history is encompassed in about a century.

The Milwaukee road started out as the Milwaukee and Waukesha, for which a charter was granted by the territory of Wisconsin on Nov. 23, 1847. It was the first railroad in Wisconsin. It took the promoters more than a year to raise capital to start the twenty mile line from Milwaukee to Waukesha, and then it took several years to complete the line.

The new road was opened in February, 1851, with a grand excursion from Milwaukee to Waukesha. A chronicler of the event notes that the fare was $1.50, including a dinner in the "company's new and spacious car house." Naturally, there were speeches and other events, for the program notes that "ladies are expected to participate in the festivities."

Extended to Mississippi.

The new line was called the Milwaukee and Mississippi, but it required until 1857 to build its tracks to Prairie de Chien on the river. The Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway company was organized in 1863 to absorb the initial line and the road was pushed on to the Twin Cities by 1867.

The railroad had a connection with Chicago through the old Chicago and Milwaukee railroad, which was completed in 1855. But its promoters, led by Alexander Mitchell, president, decided to build to Chicago, and this line was completed by February, 1873. The road changed its name to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul in 1874.

By 1900 the railroad had ramified, either by building or absorbing small lines, into Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and Missouri. But it was after 1900 that the owners of the road, which included J. P. Morgan and Philip D. Armour, evolved the ambitious plan for extending to the Pacific coast. The line from Mobridge, S. D., to Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., was completed by 1909.

Hit by Panama Canal.

The great cost of the Pacific extension, which was through new territory, coupled with competition from the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads under the leadership of James J. Hill and diversion of traffic to the Panama canal, brought the Milwaukee road from high prosperity to virtual bankruptcy. The road went into receivership in 1925 and was reorganized as the Chicago, Milwaukee St. Paul and Pacific in 1928.

It is a far cry from the original 20 mile road to the present 11,300 mile system, but in some ways the old days were not so bad. An old folder advertised a rate of $50 for a round trip to California, and an old menu carried an imposing list of wines and liquors with a footnote that none would be sold in Iowa, a prohibition state.

INT'L HARVESTER WILL ADD 4,000 TO ITS FORCE

George A. Ranney, vice president of the International Harvester company, announced yesterday that the company will add about 4,000 part time employés in its plants during the winter and early spring months. Half of the number will be added in the Chicago plants. The plans are being made in preparation for the anticipated 1933 business.

"Our purpose in increasing factory operating forces," Mr. Ranney said, "is to provide supplies of goods which we hope and expect will be required during the coming year.

Will Spread Work.

"In order to spread the work as far as possible we will not increase the working time of those now employed, but will call back longer service men who have been out of work for some time. Also these men who are reemployed will be put on a part time basis and we will keep the augmented forces at work as far as possible during the winter and early spring months."

The Willys-Overland company will begin production about Dec. 15 on the new ½ ton truck it will manufacture for International Harvester, according to an announcement made yesterday by the former concern.

Deal Is Completed.

L. A. Miller, president of Willys-Overland, conferred here yesterday with International officials over plans. The engineering and sales agreement entered into by the two companies was approved and the plan became operative yesterday.

LUMBER PAY ROLL RISES 1ST TIME IN OVER TWO YEARS

Olympia, Wash., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The first upward swing in Washington's logging and lumbering pay rolls since early in 1930 was charted today in a department of labor and industries report covering the state's industrial pay rolls for the three months' period ending Sept. 30, 1932.

Pay rolls of saw mills increased from $679,000 for July this year to $785,835 for September and logging pay rolls jumped from $303,800 to $417,300.

New York Central to Hire 1,500 Men to Repair Cars

Tells Advantages to Roads from Door to Door Service

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

"The day is coming when trains, like ocean steamers, will arrive and depart from outer docks or yards and, without switching, discharge or receive interchangeable car bodies to or from a fleet of motor trucks which will quickly and economically perform the terminal service of collection and distribution."

This picture of the railroad of the future was outlined in a talk yesterday by J. R. Turney, vice president of the St. Louis Southwestern Lines (the Cotton Belt), before the Traffic club.

Mr. Turney took for his subject "Shall We Deliver the Goods?" and in it he discussed the benefits accruing to railroads and shippers from door to door service. For the railroads he saw an effective weapon against competition and lower terminal costs. For the shippers he saw convenience and faster transportation.

Must Give Service.

Answering the question of whether the roads can afford the service, Mr. Turney said:

"The answer is twofold: First, from a service need standpoint, we cannot afford not to give it, and second, its extension will tend to reduce rather than increase present terminal expenses."

The speaker said that the experiment of the lines of the southwest in giving store door delivery has proved a magnificent success or a miserable failure, depending on the source of information. One class of railroad men thought the scheme a harebrained method of increasing transportation deficits and still thinks so. A second believed that it provided a magic incantation which would forever exercise truck competition and it has been disappointed. A third class thought it essential to advertise the service and to supplement it with improved handling and on the whole this group has been content with results.

Three Demands of Industry.

"Three demands of industry in a short time will force door delivery of carload freight," Mr. Turney continued. "There are: More expeditious service, removal of discrimination against off track shippers and reduction in terminal delays and expenses.

"If the railroads anticipate the service needs of industry—they must make competition, not merely meet it."

Discussing speed Mr. Turney says the railroad moves its freight over its private roadway at 30 miles an hour between terminals, whereas trucks using the public highways don't do much better than 20 miles an hour. But it is a case of the hare and the tortoise. Out of every 24 hours which elapses from the time the railroad takes the loaded freight car until it is delivered for unloading, an average of 18 hours is spent in and around terminals.

In some industrial districts it frequently takes as long to get a car into a train as it does to move it 300 or 400 miles in line haul service, he said. The truck keeps moving all the time and on arrival moves directly to the consignee's door in less time than it takes to classify the rail car in the outer yards.

R. C. A. STOCKS DROP SHARPLY; OTHERS STEADY

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 21.—Dullness, dispelled only by a flurry of selling in Radio, characterized today's stock market. Price changes for the most part were narrow and irregular, with losses somewhat in excess of gains at the close. Turnover was around 600,000 shares.

The rank and file of trading favorites were without consistent direction until the last half hour when a firmer general tone developed which brought about a few more small net advances that it appeared earlier would be shown.

As has been the case in other recent movements on the down side, an encouraging factor was the veritable dearth of selling pressure in the list at large. Firmness in the face of heaviness in commodities and the drop in sterling to new low levels of the year, or since England went off the gold standard last year, was taken to indicate that there is little to be expected in the way of potential liquidation.

Radio Off Two Points.

Radio furnished the session's feature with a rather sharp dip after the ruling by the federal district court at Wilmington that the General Electric company and Westinghouse must dispose of their holdings in the company.

Radio common, of which 87,100 shares were sold, broke from a high of $7.50 to an extreme low of $5.62, closing at $6. This was off $1.37 from the previous close. The class A preferred broke $4 to $24, but regained $2 before the close, and the class B preferred dropped from $13 to $10.50, but closed at $11.75. Total sales of Radio corporation shares, 92,600, equaled about 15 per cent of the day's total sales.

Break Fails to Spread.

The break in Radio, however, was not contagious. The remainder of the pivotal sector were indifferent to it and spent the day backing and filling without apparent purpose. American Can, Du Pont and Westinghouse had enough stamina to post fractional gains. Steel and the others were only fractionally down.

Du Pont was aided by declaration of the regular common dividend. Its rise, however, was taken to indicate that some doubt had been felt about the disbursement.

The petroleum group gave another creditable performance. Seaboard Oil and Texas corporation were the most

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 21.—Still under the influence of the possible failure to extend the moratorium on the British war debt to this country, the exchange value of the pound slid off again today. It sold down to 3.27½ and then steadied around 3.27¾. Compared with Saturday's closing quotation of 3.28⅞ trading was dull.

The opening bid in New York was 3.27⅜ but dealers said there were no sales at that price.

Recent Drop Seven Cents.

At its lowest today, the pound was only one-sixteenth of a cent above its record low for this year which occurred on Oct. 26 when it touched 3.27 7-16, however, it had been down to 3.26¾ in London last week and to 3.26 about a month ago when it had a severe sinking spell.

Thus far the apprehension that Great Britain will not be able to postpone its war debt installment on Dec. 15 has caused a decline of about 7 cents in the value of the pound.

Franc Gold Point Changes.

As the French franc today sagged nearer to what many persons had assumed to be the gold point, it became known that, thanks to a substantial boost in ocean freight rates for gold by the principal steamship companies, the gold point on the French franc had moved several pegs further down, giving the franc considerable leeway in which to tumble without involving any drain upon Paris hoards of gold.

The change in rates took place on Nov. 1, but it was not widely advertised. The rate was boosted about 66 2-3 per cent.

RADIO 'TRUST' IS DISSOLVED BY CONSENT RULING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 21.—The "radio group" and the department of justice made peace today. By agreement of the two parties Judge John P. Nields of United States District court signed a consent decree dissolving the so-called "radio group" made up of the Radio Corporation of America, General Electric corporation, and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

A. W. ROBERTSON. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

In effect the decree directs dissolution of the patent cross licensing agreements, which involved 4,000 patents, and directs General Electric and Westinghouse to divorce themselves of any stock interest in R. C. A. as well.

Thus ends the anti-trust suit brought by the government in 1930 against the radio companies which were charged with having controlled 90 per cent of the radio industry in the United States and with having stifled competition.

Provisions of Decree.

The General Electric company and the Westinghouse Electric company must divest themselves of R. C. A. stock holdings, one-half immediately and one-half over a three year period. They cannot use voting privileges of stock in meantime, or limit the disposition of such stock by their own shareholders; they cannot acquire R. C. A. stock in the future and cannot be represented on the board of directors of the Radio corporation.

The defendants must cease to recognize and enforce the exclusive provision of their patent cross licensing agreements, under which the R. C. A. had exclusive rights to license use of General Electric and Westinghouse radio patents; they must also agree to refrain from such agreements in the future.

The defendant organizations were likewise forbidden to enter agreements for the division of trade fields and territories.

All representatives of General Elec-

The circular reproduced here describes one of the first public utility bond issues handled by N. W. Harris & Co. which later became the Harris Trust and Savings Bank. Since then, the organization (founded in 1882) has supplied hundreds of millions of dollars to public service corporations in all parts of the country. We shall be glad to submit a list of public utility bonds which we own and recommend for sound investment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 21.—Bond prices moved in a narrow range, showing hesitancy because of the political situation both here and abroad. The war debt situation, the approaching session of congress, and other factors were among influences that dominated the market.

On the whole high grade bonds were able to maintain a steady tone, while the general drift of speculative issues was lower. In these respects today's trends marked a continuation of those in evidence last week, when speculative bonds declined for five straight trading sessions in the face of steadiness in the high grade list.

U. S. Liens at Stalemate.

United States government securities afforded another instance of how trading has grown dull and price movements narrow under the influence of uncertainties. Treasury obligations today virtually were at a stalemate. Dealers predicted that little would develop marketwise, other than slight adjustments, until after announcement of the treasury's financing to be made between Dec. 1 and 5.

Foreign bonds were of a piece with the general picture. A few Japanese bonds were easier, reflecting the publication of reports on the Manchurian situation, and German bonds moved nervously, owing to efforts to select a successor to the Von Papen cabinet.

British Issue Drops.

For the most part, however, prices were little changed, with a wide spread between bid and asked quotations. British government 5½s lost about ½ point as a result of the apparently inflexible attitude of congress toward the war debt payment, due Dec. 15.

E. I. du Pont de Nemours.

Would appreciate data on Du Pont. Thanks very kindly for your past favors and services.—J. P. E.

Management of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., has been in the hands of the Du Pont family since 1802.

The company holds a 22.94 per cent control of General Motors, the equivalent of nine-tenths of one share for each share of Du Pont common. For the five years to Dec. 31, 1931, 56 per cent of total income was from holdings in General Motors, 37 per cent from chemical operations, and 7 per cent from other operations.

Activities in the manufacturing divisions group equally into six departments. They are pigments and paints, dyestuffs, cellophane, explosives, heavy chemicals, and rayon. The company was originally principally a manufacturer of explosives. An active research department has since developed many new products.

For the first nine months of 1932 income from operations was $7,011,000 and income from General Motors holdings was $9,979,000. In the corresponding 1931 period manufacturing income was $17,444,000 and income from General Motors was $22,459,000. Other income of $3,461,000 was approximately the same for both periods.

Net income for the first three quarters of 1932 was $19,734,000, or $1.37 per common share, against $41,415,000, or $3.34 per common share, for the first nine months of 1931.

Net in 1931 was $53,190,000, or $4.25 per common share. This was 3 per cent less than net of $55,962,000, or $4.52 per common share for 1930. Net for 1929 was $82,000,000, against $66,653,000 for 1928.

On June 30, 1932, current assets were $100,059,000 and current liabilities were $7,221,000. Cash assets, excluding 9,981,220 shares of General Motors stock, totaled about $51,000,000. Working capital was $92,837,000, against $115,470,000 the year before.

Long term debt totals $1,394,000. There are outstanding 1,089,534 shares of $100 par debenture stock and 10,865,592 shares of $20 par common. With the Sept. 15, 1932, payment the common was placed on a 50 cent quarterly basis.

An increase in automobile production would have a beneficial effect on operations. A large proportion of output of the manufacturing division is consumed by automobile manufacturers. Output, however, is well diversified. Current position is strong. Management is able. Earning record is impressive.

Both the debenture stock and the common are high grade.

active and each scored fractional gains, while Standards of California and New Jersey were firm on light volumes.

Oil shares as a group have been giving a good account of themselves recently, coincident with stiffening of gasoline prices. But Seaboard, which today reached a new year's high, has been the strongest marketwise. The successor to Mexican Seaboard Oil has been the center of unusual activity since the middle of last week. Long a pool favorite, it is being credited with aggressive leadership.

McIntyre Gold Mining chose another quiet day to turn strong and active, selling at a new high price for the year. Other metal shares were sluggish, Kennecott looking best with a fractional rise.

Railroads were weak at times, but did not lose entirely the gift of rallying. Santa Fe, New York Central, Union Pacific, and others found some selling.

Utilities Off Slightly.

Public utilities were mostly fractionally lower. American Telephone began well, but could not hold the enthusiasm of buyers. Most motors and chemicals were steady.

Speculative favorites like Auburn, Case, Eastman, McKeesport, Montgomery Ward, and United Aircraft slid down a trifle on negligible turnovers.

Once more Washington and the impending debt conference attracted most speculative interest. The extreme dullness, the meager turnover, which would have been smaller but for the heavy trading in Radio and one or two other issues, was ascribed to the dearth of interest pending tomorrow's meeting of President Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt. Traders appeared fearful of venturing far from shore until there comes some statement bearing on the matter of interallied financial obligations. The consensus of street observers, however, is that little or nothing will come of the White House get-together.

GENERAL MOTORS WILL MOVE PLANT PARTLY BECAUSE OF HIGH TAX

New York, Nov. 21.—General Motors corporation will permanently discontinue about Dec. 15 operation of its Brown-Lipe-Chapin division in Syracuse, which manufactures differential gears. The production is being transferred to Flint, Mich.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president, gave two reasons for closing the plant. One is that it is more economic to manufacture gears at or near the center of the automobile industry. The other is that "taxes in Syracuse are considerably higher than in the average locality in which General Motors operates."

COURT REMOVES HALSEY-STUART WISCONSIN BAN

Madison, Wis., Nov. 21.—(AP)—An injunction temporarily lifting the public service commission's suspension of the brokerage license of Halsey-Stuart & Co., Chicago investment house, was granted today by Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann.

The restraining order will be in effect until the case is tried on its merits, when Judge Hoppmann will either affirm or permanently enjoin the commission's action. The trial was tentatively set for Dec. 17 and the company was ordered to post a $100,000 bond as protection to investors.

Judge Hoppmann said that the revocation order, issued Oct. 6, apparently was based on newspaper accounts of indictments returned by the federal grand jury at Milwaukee against officers of the company, charging them with using the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of debentures of another concern.

The court said that the company, in 20 years of operation in Wisconsin, had a "clean reputation" and no judgment for fraud ever was taken against it in any state.

Judge Hoppmann said the company officers had not had opportunity to defend themselves before the Milwaukee grand jury; that the commission should have had more information before taking action and that the revocation constituted a "very serious interference" with the company's business.

NORTH AMERICAN COMPANY EARNS $2.42 ON COMMON

Net for Twelve Months Shows Decline.

New York, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The North American company and subsidiaries report for the twelve months ended Sept. 30, net income after all deductions, including preferred dividends, of $17,172,217, equal to $2.42 a share on the common stock. This compares with $23,390,187, or $3.64 a share for the twelve months ended Sept. 30, 1931. Gross earnings totaled $109,416,318, compared with $120,684,597 for the twelve months ended Sept. 30, 1931.

In their letter to the stockholders, F. L. Dame, chairman of the board, and Edwin Gruhl, president, stated that the company's electric output for the third quarter was 14½ per cent below the third quarter of 1931, but that the improvement in the latter weeks of September had continued, reducing the decline in fourth quarter output up to the middle of November to 9 per cent, compared with the corresponding period of 1931. There was a progressive increase in volume of electric output of the company's subsidiaries for each week from Labor day up to election week.

The consolidated balance sheet shows no bank loans on Sept. 30, compared with $5,524,258 on Sept. 30, 1931.

RUNCIMAN URGES STABILIZATION OF EXCHANGES

NEW CASTLE, England, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, urged the stabilization of international exchanges in an address here today. He admitted that he spoke on behalf of the British government.

Everybody who has any dealings abroad, he said, knows how difficult it is to obtain payment with foreign exchanges under artificial control, as at present.

Without such stabilization as he advocates, all international business comes to "something in the nature of a gamble," he said.

WHEAT PRICES SLIGHTLY LOWER DESPITE RALLY

Speculative Interest Is Limited.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Traders paid little attention to routine news yesterday and scattered selling of the nearby wheat future carried the price off ⅜c to a low of 42½c, coming within ⅜c of the all time record low. However, buying against bids checked the break and a fair rally came toward the last. Net losses, however, were ⅛@⅜c, with the July showing the most decline. December closed at 42⅝@42⅝c; May at 48⅛c, and July at 49¼@49⅜c.

Speculative interest in the wheat market was limited, and while there was considerable bullish sentiment in some quarters, the disposition was to wait for the December liquidation to run its course before taking a decided stand on the buying side. The December-May spread in Chicago was around 5⅝c during the day, while at Kansas City it was 3⅝c.

Clear Weather in Argentina.

Light frost was reported in southwestern Argentina over the week end, but no damage was reported and the Buenos Aires wheat market dropped ⅝@1⅛c for the day, with February leading the decline. The latter closed at 39⅛c, and reflected the more favorable weather for harvesting. Cables late in the day indicated generally fair prevailed over the entire wheat belt in that country, and it is expected harvesting will get under way in a few days if this continues.

The problem of war debts is regarded as having some effect on the European demand for North American cash wheat and until this question is out of the way it is believed that the purchases will be largely for immediate needs. There was buying at Winnipeg to remove hedges against sales of 500,000 to 750,000 bu Manitoba wheat in all positions, but the weakness in exchange caused the Winnipeg market to close ⅜c lower on a gold basis, with the December at 39⅝c while the price in Canadian funds was 45⅝c. Net losses for the day were ⅝@⅞c.

Liverpool Reverses Trend.

Liverpool reversed its action of recent days and failed to follow the upturn in Chicago on Saturday, both new and old style futures closing unchanged with old December at 50⅝c, or 7⅞c over Chicago at the time. More favorable reports regarding the Argentine wheat crop had some effect in the English market.

No moisture was reported in the dry sections of the west and southwest, and Kansas City interests are commencing to look for a decrease in the winter wheat acreage of 8 to 10 per cent, compared with the recent private estimates suggesting around 5 per cent.

Corn Dull and Easy.

Corn futures held within a range of ⅜@⅝c, with trade largely of a local character. The action of wheat had some effect and more than offset the limited country offerings to arrive. Local handlers reported only 17,000 bu booked to arrive, while shipping sales were 203,000 bu and charters were made for 300,000 bu to Buffalo. The close was ⅛c higher to ⅜c lower, with December showing the most strength. The latter finished at 24⅝@24⅝c, with May at 29⅞c and July, 31⅛c.

Nothing was heard regarding export demand for corn and the decline of 1c in the December delivery at Buenos Aires tended to check foreign interest. The Argentine nearby future was 3c over Chicago at the last. Weather conditions over the belt were favorable for field work and the movement, but farmers continue to refuse to sell owing to the low prices. It was understood the recommended 50 per cent reduction in the all rail export rate on corn will again be considered by the leading railroads.

Trade in oats was limited, with the market ⅛c lower at the last with corn. The December finished at 16@16⅛c, and May at 18⅛c. Rye eased in sympathy with wheat and closed ⅛@⅝c lower, December being 28⅛c and May, 31⅝c. Trade in barley was slow, with the finish unchanged at 32⅝c.

WINTER WHEAT ACREAGE DECREASE IS EXPECTED

A report from the Kansas City correspondent of James E. Bennett & Co. says the advent of winter has brought an abrupt end to wheat seeding operations in most of the southwest, and interest in the probable acreage for the crop of 1933 is increasing. Reports of a substantial reduction in fall plantings compared with the acreage seeded for the 1932 crop are being received from important sections of the belt and the belief is that the total winter wheat area will show a substantial decrease. Private crop experts indicate a reduction of about 5 per cent. However, this was before the cold weather. It is thought the next government report will show a larger decrease than private reports indicate, probably 8 to 10 per cent, and assuming that the minimum figures are more nearly correct, this would mean a total planted area this fall of 37,000,000 acres, compared with 40,172,000 acres in 1931, and 41,009,000 acres in 1930.

HIDE FUTURES

Outside interest in hide futures was only fair and the close on the New York Hide exchange was unchanged to 10 points higher with sales of 520,000 lbs. Closing bids: Old contracts—December, 4.60; March, 5.30c. New contracts — December, 4.60c; March, 5.55c; June 6.10c; September, 6.60c.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today, with no sales reported. A decline in futures restricted buying interest and refiners appeared inclined to hold aloof. Prices were nominally unchanged at 3.08c for spots. Except for a little steadiness at the outset futures were generally lower under increased December liquidation in advance of first notice day on Friday. Final prices were 2 to 4 points net lower. The market opened unchanged to 1 point higher on covering and trade buying, but demand was soon supplied and after selling at .98c December broke to .93c, while May sold off from .98c to 93c, or 3 to 5 points down. Of the day's business of 48,100 tons more than half was in exchanges. Prices follow:

December	.98	.98	.93	.94	.98

Refined was quiet and prices were unchanged. Refiners' listed at 4.25c, but second hands were available at from 4.15 to 4.17½c.

BUTTER FUTURES HIGHER

Fractional gains were made by butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, butter closing ⅛@⅛c and eggs ⅛@⅝c higher. Butter opened firm, but dropped back on profit taking sales, receiving better support at the close and finished near the day's best levels. The closing buying was induced by bullish storage news. Last week's ten market movement outward totaled 4,000,000, compared with 1,000,000 lbs last year. The daily four market movement was 630,000 lbs greater than last year. While the movement of eggs last week in the ten markets was 45,000 cases under last year, on the Pacific coast the movement was 25,000 cases greater than last year. Sales: Butter, 204 cars; eggs, 106 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 9 cars; eggs, 14 cars. Prices follow:

PORK AND BEEF TRADE HURT BY CHEAP POULTRY

An abundant supply of cheap poultry has reduced consumption of beef and hog products and created a limited demand in the general trade, which resulted in an easy tone in prices. Lard futures were sparingly traded in, with practically no change in prices, the range being narrow. Cash lard was $5.25, with loose and leaf, $4.75. Liverpool lard was unchanged, and exports from the seaboard last week were 1,904,530 lbs, and of bacon, 260,000 lbs. January bellies were neglected and 2½c lower at $3.95, while cash bellies were unchanged at $4.70. Prices follow:

RADIO "TRUST" IS DISSOLVED BY CONSENT DECREE

tric and Westinghouse who are officers or on the board of directors of Radio corporation must resign within ten days. Two exceptions were made to this clause, in the cases of Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of General Electric, and Andrew W. Robertson, chairman of the board of Westinghouse. The decree stated they may serve five months longer.

In the distribution of stock the decree stated that the two companies must not knowingly sell or transfer to any one interest in excess of 150,000 shares of the present common stock.

The Radio corporation was given two and one-half years in which to conform to complaints of the government on its contracts with foreign companies and foreign governments.

Consent Wins Absolution.

The decree was consented to by the three companies on the stipulation that their consent is not an admission that they had violated the anti-trust laws.

Prior to presenting the decree to Judge Nields, Warren Olney Jr. of California, special assistant to Attorney General Mitchell, asked that the anti-trust charges against four of the 14 defendants be dismissed. These four were General Motors corporation, General Motors Radio corporation, American Telephone and Telegraph company, and Western Electric Company, Inc.

The charges were dropped, Olney said, because subsequent to the filing of the government's amended petition on March 7 last the General Motors Radio had been dissolved and the agreements linking General Motors and General Motors Radio with the other defendants had been terminated and the agreements involving A. T. & T. and the Western Electric had been modified so as to meet the objections complained of by the government.

The case, which has been in the courts two years, took less than hour of time to end today.

Hold Half of R. C. A. Stock.

It was assumed the stock would be distributed pro rata to the stockholders in the two companies. Robertson said the common and preferred shareholders in his company would share equally in such a distribution.

David Sarnoff, president of the Radio corporation, said the company would receive additional patent rights which would enable it to extend its manufacturing business. "Under previous agreements," he said, "the Radio corporation was obliged to buy radio transmitters and transmitting tubes from the General Electric and Westinghouse companies. Under the new agreement the Radio corporation wins the right to manufacture such apparatus.

Stabilizes Radio's Position.

"The adjustment stabilizes the position of your corporation," Sarnoff said, "as a complete, self-contained unit in the radio field; extinguishes a large part of its floating debt and funds the remainder; relieves it of great expense and the contingencies and burdens of litigation and enables its officers and personnel to devote all of their time to the single purpose of upbuilding the business of your corporation."

Among the other enterprises affected by the decree is "Rockefeller City," the giant office building in New York, now under construction. Although the Radio corporation owns a large building of its own, recently completed on Lexington avenue, it had contracted for space in the "Radio City."

The Radio corporation office building, as a result of the decree, will be sold to the General Electric company as part of a plan to pay that company and Westinghouse part of the $17,938,733 which Radio corporation now owes them.

"No Compromise," Says U. S.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—The department of justice declared today that it had in no way compromised with the Radio Corporation of America in settling the government's long standing anti-trust prosecution of the corporation through a consent decree.

Terms of the decree, which was entered today in the federal court at Wilmington, Del., represent, the department said, substantially the same settlement as might have been expected had the case been carried to termination in the courts.

"In working out the provisions of the decree which was entered with the consent of the defendants," said an explanatory statement issued today, "officials of the department of justice proceeded on the principle that the decree must grant substantially all that the government could reasonably expect at the end of a trial."

Decision Pleases Grigsby.

New York, Nov. 21.—(AP)—B. J. Grigsby, chairman of the board and president of the Grigsby-Grunow company, which had sued the Radio corporation, said today that "the decree dissolves this monopoly and means the establishment of fair competitive conditions for the industry."

Mr. Grigsby was of the opinion that the decision "clarifies the situation so manufacturers may give their full attention to the continued commercial development of radio apparatus without being hampered and harassed by litigation."

While the government's dissolution suit against the Radio corporation was filed May 13, 1930, the suit of the Grigsby-Grunow organization was not begun until June 6 of the same year. The Grigsby-Grunow firm asked triple damages of $30,000,000 under the Clayton act.

RUSSIAN GRAIN SITUATION REMAINS UNFAVORABLE

Broomhall, in a review of the Russian wheat situation, says the condition remains unfavorable. A smaller winter grain acreage than last year has been planted and winter plowing for spring crops insignificant. The Balkan countries are very short wheat supplies and the governments are contemplating reducing import duties so as to reduce prices. This is the first indication of any reduction in tariff barriers in Europe for a long time.

ASK BONDOWNERS TO O. K. CHANGE IN FINANCE PLAN

Ainslie Court Flats to Be Reorganized.

BY AL CHASE.

Bondholders of the Ainslie Court apartments, at the northeast corner of Ainslie street and Damen avenue have been asked to approve of certain amendments to the deposit agreement made two years ago, in order to permit the Bondholders' Protective committee to reorganize the property under the Chicago Title and Trust company's liquidation trust plan.

S. J. CAMPBELL.

These amendments are deemed necessary for the following reasons, according to Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, and also chairman of the bondholders' committee: "For the purpose of facilitating the acquisition of the title to the property by the committee for the benefit of depositing bondholders; to permit the setting up of some agency for the ultimate sale and liquidation of the property and the distribution of the net proceeds thereof, and, in the meantime, to provide the conservation and management of the property."

Defaults Total $121,121.

This originally was an issue of $145,000, since reduced to $117,000, underwritten by Holzer, Inc. The building contains four stores and thirty-seven apartments. The other members of the Bondholders' Protective committee headed by Mr. Pettibone, are: Walter J. McGuire, Barnet L. Rosset, Herman G. Amling and S. J. Campbell.

The issue now has total defaults of $121,121. In addition the 1928 general taxes of $2,526 are unpaid, pending objection and the same situation exists for the $3,255 taxes for 1930.

On Jan. 17, 1930, the trustee filed a bill to foreclose the trust deed securing the bonds and on Jan. 20, 1930, the Citizens' State bank was appointed receiver to collect the rents and manage the property. On June 1, 1932, F. T. Dustin was appointed successor receiver when the original receiver ceased doing business.

Now Up to South Park Board.

Another step toward the long talked of subway for East 47th street under the Illinois Central right of way was taken yesterday when title to the southeast corner of Lake Park avenue and 47th was conveyed to the city of Chicago by the Estate of Adam Sommer, Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, trustee.

According to the city real estate department, the city of Chicago has now fulfilled its requirements in acquiring the northeast and southeast corners of 47th and Lake Park avenue. It now remains for the south park board to use the bond money voted by the public to construct this subway in time to handle the World's Fair crowds. No park official could be found yesterday who could tell when work would start.

In anticipation of the return of beer, the Fox Head Beverage Distributors, Inc., Chicago agents for the products of the Fox Head Waukesha corporation of Milwaukee and Waukesha, have arranged for a long term warehouse lease at 414 North Jefferson street.

Has a Second Mortgage.

TO THE EDITOR: I am holding a small second mortgage, payable monthly, which owner finds very hard to meet. There are also due the 1930 taxes. I would be willing to pay taxes if I thought it would put me ahead of the first mortgage which runs for twenty months yet. Interest on this mortgage was always promptly paid. Thanking you in advance, I remain—W. B.

ANSWER: Paying the taxes would not improve the status of your second mortgage. A second mortgage does not become a first lien on property unless the first mortgage is paid up.

Need More Information.

TO THE EDITOR: I have a $4,500 mortgage on my home. The bank that holds the mortgage is closed and I have shopped around town trying to secure a new loan without results. Kindly give me the address of the Home Loan bank in Evanston.

Unless I am able to refinance through this source, I am afraid I will lose my home which represents my life savings. In 1928 I paid $8,700, making a cash down payment of $1,700, balance to be paid on contract. The contract is paid up, but I am worried about the first mortgage.—L. Z.

ANSWER: Kindly furnish us the name of the bank and we will write the receiver and see if there is any possibility of extending your present loan for at least twelve months.

Although the bank may not hold this mortgage, we have had cases where the receiver recommended the loan be extended and the mortgage holder consented. In the meantime, it may be advisable to secure a loan application from the Federal Home Loan bank, 2544 West Railroad avenue, Evanston, Ill.

Du Page County Taxes.

TO THE EDITOR: Will you furnish me the date of tax sale in Du Page county, Illinois? Also the charges on delinquent special assessments and the time of period of redemption?—D. C.

ANSWER: Tax sale was held on Oct. 3, 1932. You have two years in which to redeem. If taxes were purchased by an individual the rate is 12 per cent each six months. If the state holds title the rate is 10 per cent per year.

FEDERAL SURETY REPORT SHOWS LOSS OF $6,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Davenport, Ia., Nov. 21.—Loss of nearly $6,000,000 of stockholders' investments in the defunct Federal Surety company of Davenport since its incorporation in 1919 was revealed today when the receiver's first report was filed in Scott county District court. The report details all transactions of the firm during its corporate existence of 12 years. The concern was forced into receivership in September, 1931, by the Iowa securities department.

What the total liabilities of the firm are at the present cannot be accurately estimated, according to the receiver.

District Judge W. W. Scott indicated today that the facts bared in the report will probably result in grand jury investigation of the criminal responsibility of former officers and directors. Recovery for creditors of the company will be small, Receiver E. W. Clark stated.

In its period of greatest prosperity the Federal Surety company employed 165 persons at the home office in Davenport and maintained eleven branch offices, and was represented by approximately 3,000 sales agents.

NAME RECEIVERS FOR TRUSTEES SYSTEM CORP.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday appointed Clyde L. Day and Frank O. Birney, co-receivers for the Trustees System Service corporation under bonds of $5,000. Mr. Day has already been acting as temporary receiver of the $28,000,000 corporation, which specializes in small industrial and wage loans, through appointment by the court four weeks ago. Mr. Birney will act as co-receiver with Mr. Day.

At the same time Judge Wilkerson appointed Attorney Robert N. Golding as counsel for the receivers.

Similar action is expected to be taken in the near future in regard to the Trustees System Discount company, one of the subsidiaries of the Trustees System Service corporation, both of which have their headquarters in their own building at 201 North Wells street. John J. Krause has been acting as temporary receiver for the subsidiary.

Trading in butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange so far this month already has exceeded the total trading in November of last year by nearly 1,000 cars. At the close Monday, 6,487 cars had been sold during November. The total for last year was 5,579 cars. While butter trading still is behind last year for the entire year, eggs have passed the year ago total almost an even 3,000 cases.

GUGLE CONTINUES ATTACK ON EATON INVESTING TRUST

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 21.—(AP)—George L. Gugle of Columbus, O., testifying in the receivership suit he filed against Continental Shares, Inc., said today that although Cyrus S. Eaton, former head of the company, gave permission that the company's records as well as his own personal accounts be audited, attorneys for the brokerage firm refused to permit the audit until early this month and after the filing of the suit.

The hearing of the suit got under way again today in the Circuit court here before Judge H. Arthur Stump.

Gugle, who at the outset of the case asserted that Eaton had "wrecked" the company, told the court today that the company's records show that Continental Shares borrowed approximately $30,000,000 from the Chase National bank and that the money was used to pay off debts of Otis & Co., controlled by Eaton, to the lending bank and a group of Cleveland banks.

As a result, it is contended by the plaintiffs, the investment trust's indebtedness to the Chase National bank and other institutions was created fraudulently and the corporation's present bank controlled directorate prevents the fraud involved in the creation of the bank indebtedness from being presented to the courts.

REPORT 3 OIL FIRMS TO LOAN CUBA $3,000,000

HAVANA, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The newspaper El Pais said today that the Standard, Sinclair, and Shell Royal Dutch of Mexico Oil companies will advance the Cuban treasury $3,000,000 against 1933 import duties, permitting the government to meet payment of $8,250,000 due the Chase National bank on Dec. 31.

The newspaper said that revenues and imposts on gasoline which are legally designated to pay off the public works loan thus far have accumulated $3,000,000, but that another $2,000,000 was likely to accrue by the end of the year.

The oil companies were reported to have agreed to contribute the balance on the basis of their anticipated Cuban business. The story was emphatically denied in all official quarters, but was widely credited in unofficial circles.

UNGERLEIDER TRUST EXPECTED TO BE CLOSED OUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 21.—Suspension today of trading privileges on the Curb exchange of Ungerleider Financial corporation common stock forecasts the windup of that company's existence as a corporate entity in the near future, it was said by persons close to the company.

The General Management Investment trust, formed in May, 1929, by Samuel Ungerleider, now a partner of Fenner, Beane & Ungerleider, is now controlled by the Atlas corporation.

It was said Atlas now owns 96 per cent of the 244,320 shares of common stock of Ungerleider outstanding and if it can gain control of the rest, the Ungerleider trust will be closed out as a corporate entity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 21.—Notwithstanding that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company this year is expected to fall short of earning its fixed charges by more than $4,000,000, Daniel Willard, president, told the stockholders today that through the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Railroad Credit corporation a situation which might otherwise cause serious concern becomes less disturbing.

"I have no doubts," he said, "through arrangements to be made that we will be able to meet satisfactorily all our financial obligations."

Hertz Made Director.

John D. Hertz, Chicago capitalist, was one of two new directors elected by the board to fill vacancies in its membership caused by resignations. Mr. Hertz, who now spends a good deal of his time in New York, is chairman of the finance committee of the Paramount Publix corporation. The other new director is Carl A. de Gersdorff, New York attorney.

Gross earnings approximated $127,000,000, less than one-half of those for 1929 and approximately 49 per cent of the per annum average for the 10 years prior to 1932.

Passenger Travel Drops.

Mr. Willard, after outlining some of the difficulties which have been thrust upon the road by the business depression, and the permanent problems it has to face in the matter of motor truck competition and passenger travel by private automobile and by airplane, said:

"I do not wish to be understood as feeling in any sense pessimistic regarding the future, unless we have actually entered a period of permanent depression not only for the railroads but for all other business as well, and this conclusion I am wholly unable to accept."

Passenger travel on the B. & O., Mr. Willard said, had fallen from 25,000,000 in 1920 to approximately 5,000,000 in 1931, and the drop continued in 1932, a decrease of approximately 80 per cent. In twelve years, passenger earnings in the same period dropped 55.43 per cent.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 21.—Directors of the Aviation corporation will meet tomorrow to take action on the compromise plan which was aireed upon last week by E. L. Cord and the management of the company, which ended a fight for control.

The compromise plan provided for the election of a new board of fifteen directors, one-third to be selected by Mr. Cord, one-third by the present management headed by Robert Lehman, chairman of the board, and one-third to be appointed jointly by the rival groups.

Mr. Cord and L. B. Manning, vice president of the Cord corporation, who are already directors of the Aviation corporation, will arrive tomorrow to attend the meeting. It is expected the present board, consisting of thirty-five directors, including three representatives of the Cord interests, will announce its resignation to take effect after the meeting of stockholders scheduled for Dec. 21. At the same time, the present board will draw up the slate of the new board of fifteen members, which the stockholders will be asked to elect at the meeting next month.

PRICES OF HOGS CHANGE LITTLE; HEAVY AT CLOSE

Supply of Cattle Is Far in Excess of Needs.

The hog market perked up a little at the opening yesterday. Light and underweights scored gains of 5@10c over last week's close and cleared quickly on this basis. The peak at $3.60 was up 10c. Medium and weighty stock, however, was inclined to drag after the start and finished top heavy at the low point of the day.

Average costs of droves were largely in line with last Friday and Saturday, the general average for the day at $3.35 being the same as the average on both of these days. Not enough underweights were in the run to fill out all the orders for stock weighing under 170 lbs in weight. As a result, the spread between light light and butchers reached a new wide point for the season. The trade expects this condition to continue so long as the price of corn is in favor of hog feeding. Fancy 140@160 lb averages topped the price list, while the rank and file of 225@300 lb butchers cashed at $3.30@3.40.

Dull Cattle Market.

Yesterday's run of 18,000 cattle proved far in excess of trade requirements, resulting in an extremely dull and sharply lower market. Colder weather, usually a strengthening factor, was disregarded when discouraging reports were received from the wholesale market for beef.

The yards were well filled with prime steers, including many shipments originally fed for the show. Show entries from which numerous loads of top grades of steers will be "culled" and sold on the open market are expected soon.

With the assurance that plenty of choice cattle will be available to them for the next two weeks, buyers were in no hurry to get started yesterday. Concessions of 25@50c were made by the selling side before the first load started toward the scales. Trading dragged out through the whole afternoon and late indications were that a generous number would go over for today. The rank and file of cattle sold about in line with the previous low point of the year established in May and June. At the low time then, top steers sank to $7.65 and the weekly average was down to $5.85.

Yesterday's bulk of sales showed a mean price of $5.85. The peak, at $8.00, was paid late in the day for a shipment of prime 1,230 lb averages. Butcher stock comprised a small share of the supply and ruled weak to 25c lower. Cheaper grades, which are selling at the lowest price in many years, held steady. Calves were weak to 25c lower. Stockers and feeders sold steady.

Lambs Fail to Rise.

The expected recovery in the lamb market failed to materialize yesterday, notwithstanding the fact that supplies fell short of first expectations. Buyers were in a bearish mood and apparently have decided to await developments in the wholesale trade, which have not been entirely to their satisfaction since the appearance of large numbers of poultry for the holiday trade. Sellers are advising the country to load lightly for the next few days and avoid a glut.

Lambs moved slowly toward the scales at barely steady rates, with the market weakening as the day wore on, to close on a slightly lower price basis. An earlier attempt to boost quotations got little support. Receipts were estimated early at 20,000, but later revised figures showed the run at 15,000. Yard traders hand picked a few native lambs up to $5.75, the rank and file going at $5.25@5.50, with fed westerns largely around $5.65.

MORGAN CALLS ON HEAD OF N. Y. RESERVE BANK

New York, Nov. 21.—Following a custom of several years' standing, J. P. Morgan, who last week returned from Europe, today paid a brief call upon George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve bank, at the latter's offices.

No statement was issued after the visit, but at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. it was remarked that Mr. Morgan has made it a practice to call upon Gov. Harrison whenever he returns from abroad in order to talk over financial conditions as he found them in Europe. The visit lasted only a short time and no special significance was attached to it in Wall street.

ASSOCIATED GAS AND ELECTRIC ANSWERS RECEIVERSHIP ACTION

New York, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The Associated Gas and Electric company, billion dollar public utilities holding corporation, filed an order in the Supreme court today requiring Philip Newbold, a stockholder, to show cause on Wednesday why he should not be permanently restrained from pressing a receivership action against the company in this judicial district.

The company contends that a motion for appointment of a temporary receiver filed here by Newbold last Saturday should have been filed in Tompkins county, since the company's principal office is in Ithaca, N. Y.

In papers filed with today's order, which was signed by Supreme Court Justice Abert Cohn, John M. Daly, vice president of Associated Gas and Electric, quoted the civil practice act and the corporations law to the effect that suits to sequester property of a corporation may only be brought in the county in which its principal office is located.

In filing his motion Newbold, who owns 100 shares of preferred stock of Associated Gas and Electric, asserted that the company had been "grossly mismanaged." He asked appointment of a receiver pending outcome of an accounting suit he has brought against the company.

GINNING FIGURES MORE THAN TRADE EXPECTED

Cotton traders were given a surprise by the census bureau's report on ginnings to Nov. 14, showing 300,000 bales more than expected. The aggregate was 10,532,745 bales, compared with 14,207,613 bales for the same time last year, and 11,962,827 bales in 1931. The Bennett-Miller report, which was out last Friday, said ginings to Nov. 13 was 10,192,279 bales.

A rush of selling followed the issuance of the report with a sharp break, and the finish was only a few points above the lowest of the day, with net losses on Chicago of 9@11 points, and other markets 6@9 points. A drop of 10 points was made on spots in New York with the price 6.15c, New Orleans was off 5 points to 6.10c, Galveston, 6.05c, and Houston, 6.00c. Liverpool closed 1@2 points net lower. Interior receipts since Aug. 1 aggregate 2,690,984, against 2,957,536 bales last year. Into sight movement 6,838,198, against 7,805,319 bales last year. World's visible supply of American cotton 8,635,579, against 8,265,859 bales in 1931. Prices follow:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—Loans aggregating $4,318,180 were made by the regional agricultural offices of the Reconstruction Finance corporation during the first six weeks of their operation, it was announced today.

According to the announcement the average loan granted to farmers and stockmen by the regionals amounted to $3,474, most of them having been made for live stock feeder purposes. The corporation said 1,243 loans had been actually disbursed in the six week period.

At the same time the board of directors of the corporation granted relief loans totaling $70,000 to Ohio and $110,000 to Texas, bringing the total of relief funds thus far loaned by the corporation to $71,229,175.

Meanwhile officials of the federal loan agency stated that several bank examiners for the corporation are now in Pittsburgh and Reno, Nev., seeking to straighten out the banking situations in the two cities. It was also learned that the corporation is considering a large joint loan to a number of Pittsburgh banks which have either closed or are threatened with collapse due to the critical situation in the Pennsylvania city.

SUPREME COURT TO HEAR APPEAL OF COAL COMBINE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The Supreme court today said it would decide whether the 137 producers of bituminous coal in Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, and Kentucky violated the Sherman anti-trust law when they organized Appalachian Coals, Inc., as their selling agent.

The corporation was formed to sell coal at prices to be fixed by a board. A three judge federal court for western Virginia, while deploring the condition of the coal industry, and reviewing attempts by regulatory authorities and the industry to find a remedy, held the plan necessarily limited competition as to prices between members of the corporation.

It was probable, the trial court suggested, that only congress could grant relief by permitting agreements limiting competition between producers and the fixing of prices, even though the organization's purpose was not to obtain monopolistic control.

No more job hunting worries! Good times are closer than around the corner! Thousands of men know this is true. Many who lost their jobs now make $50, $60, $75, $85, and $100 AND MORE WEEKLY. You may have spent years developing your business, trade or profession. But if you're acceptable HERE TODAY we'll put you into training today! Friday get into your work. One man made $27 his first few hours—an old railroad man, $39.41 one rainy evening—a young man who had been doing odd jobs for 7 months stepped into $209 in 10 days. A tool and die maker made $230 the first half of Nov. An auto repair man made $125 last week. Earnings of $4,000, $5,000, $6,000 and more yearly are ordinary in Electrolux [not refrigeration].

This large corporation distributes in 48 countries successfully. Pay weekly. Nothing to buy, invest or deposit. No seasons or layoffs; 1932 is our best year, this our 35th successive month of gains. Not a "snap." Hard work needed—constantly. Will you learn and apply what we teach you and work consistently? This is a full time position, and not a tide-over. Your first month you may make only $125 to $175, but you can increase. One group of 65 men in this work received in CASH OVER $7,400 EACH last year. We prefer men from 25 to 48, with family ties. Bert Arnold, Confessed "Cistern" Slayer, Held to Grand Jury on Charge of Murder; Given New Mental Tests
